MARIE BLAKE

With her wrist watch as the prize, Marie Blake, 23, pursued John White, Negro, for 15 blocks before she found a policeman to make the arrest. Answering a knock on her door at 1103 Fifth avenue, second floor, Miss Blake was seized by the Negro, who fled with her watch. She followed him through the maze of traffic. Police said White is John Brown, released December 9 from the penitentiary after doing seven years on numerous robbery charges.

LINDBERGH saw two Mexican bull fights on Sunday. A savage bull is chosen, of a race bred for fighting. It is tormented with numerous small wounds until infuriated and then killed by a skilful butcher who is the nation's hero in Mexico and Spain.

HORSES are disemboweled, an occasional man killed. Women look on and sigh for the great bull killer. So it has gone since the small-waisted bull fighters of Crete escaped between the bull's horns, five thousand years ago.

BULL killers and spectators believe when their bull fight days are over they are taken up to a heaven in which they associate, through eternity, on intimate terms with the Ruler of the Universe. They must have a poor opinion of His taste.

THE International Canary Roller Breeders' Association are holding a singing competition in Milwaukee. Birds winning will be exhibited. Music is very old, birds were singing and whistling on earth millions of years before men came, with their grand opera and marvelous musical machinery.

What taught birds to sing? How does evolution account for it? It was not part of the survival of the fittest, for a singing bird must attract the attention of its enemies. Before they had ever heard music, the females could not know enough to insist on a musical mate.

BE THAT as it may, teach your children singing and playing. Include some musical instruments in your Christmas gift collection. First come the music machines that delight all the family. But do not forget this statement by

Remus Jury Out

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTHOUSE, CINCINNATI, Dec. 20.—The door to freedom was virtually barred today to George Remus, on trial for wife-murder, when Judge Chester R. Shook eliminated the "not guilty" form of verdict from his instructions to the jury.

The ruling was almost without precedent in the history of American jurisprudence.

Judge Shook, however, left one loophole for Remus. He told the jury they might return, if they saw fit, a verdict of "not guilty on the sole ground of insanity."

The straight out-and-out "not guilty" verdict was barred.

If a "not guilty on the sole ground of insanity" verdict is returned it will mean Remus will have to go before Probate Court, where it will be determined whether or not he is sane. If found insane he will be sent to the Lima (Ohio) Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

Six of the jurors wore sprigs of Christmas holly, as, with solemn faces, they retired to the jury room to deliberate.

The jury had reached no decision at 1:25 p. m. and was sent on a luncheon recess until 2:45 p. m.

W. R. Hearst Replies To the Open Letter of Senator Norris

Statement by William Randolph Hearst:

It is not necessary to reply to Senator Norris' hysterical and vituperative statement in kind.

I might state, however, that if Senator Norris is anxious to establish the truth, he might begin by telling the truth, a thing that he has distinctly refrained from doing throughout his whole statement.

The plain facts of this whole Mexican matter are that these Mexican documents are apparently quite authentic, and that no proof whatever has been produced of their lack of authenticity.

They were first heard of in Mexico by a thoroughly reputable and reliabe American citizen, resident in Mexico, whose name has been given to the committee, but is not given here on account of possible consequences to him and his family at the hands of the Mexican government. This American citizen had no interest whatever in pursuing the documents except to learn facts which indicated an effort of the Mexican government to interfere with the plans and processes of the government of the United States and with the welfare of the people of the United States.

This American citizen, resident in Mexico, communicated with Mr. Edward H. Clark, a perfectly well known business man of importance in New York, suggesting that a further knowledge of these papers be secured and their contents exposed to the knowledge of the American people through my publications.

TRUSTWORTHY INVESTIGATOR

When authorized to proceed, this American, consulting with Mr. John Page, correspondent of the International News Service, decided to employ the most capable and trustworthy investigator that he could find in Mexico, and secured the services of an American citizen of Mexican descent, Mr. Avila, a man who had served honorably in the military secret service department of the United States, and after some years of service had been honorably discharged and had received the following most extraordinary letter of commendation from his superior:

Headquarters, Laredo District, District Intelligence Officer,
Alexander Building, Laredo, Tex.

September 27, 1919.

From Captain John J. Gallagher, U. S. A., District Intelligence Officer, Laredo, Tex.
To Whom It May Concern:
Subject—Recommendation.

1. I take pleasure in being accorded the opportunity to offer a few words of commendation in behalf of Mr. Miguel R. Avila's splendid service rendered this office while I have been the district intelligence officer of Laredo District.

2. Mr. Avila is a young man of excellent character, and entirely subordinate at all times. He is conscientious and faithful in the performance of all duties. I unhesitatingly recommend him for any position of great responsibility where his many desirable qualifications are absolutely necessary and so essential in any duties of importance.

3. I take pleasure in offering this voluntary recommendation in behalf of Mr. Miguel R. Avila as I am about to be transferred elsewhere for duty.

JOHN J. GALLAGHER,
Captain, U. S. A.

Every care therefore was taken in this case to secure accuracy and reliability.

Mr. Avila proceeded promptly to approach government clerks and to obtain a view of the documents in the files.

He reported back to the American citizen above mentioned and to Mr. John Page that the documents were there and that for the payment of a comparatively small sum of money he could obtain them.

He was authorized to obtain the documents, he did obtain them and delivered them to the abovementioned American citizen and Mr. John Page.

Whereupon they exhibited the documents immediately to Ambassador Sheffield, and the conclusion arrived at was that the documents were authentic on their face and that there was nothing about them to contradict the report of Mr. Avila as to how and when he had obtained them.

The documents were then submitted to the counsel of the embassy, Mr. Shoenfeld, and he was of a similar opinion, but advised that careful comparisons should be made with known signatures of President Calles, which comparison was made and tended to convince all parties interested of the authenticity of the signatures.

The documents were then brought by Mr. John Page and the American citizen before mentioned

'Good Turn' Wins Him Estate

An almost forgotten act of kindness 14 years ago, when he gave his raincoat and $5 to a woman who went "broke" at the races in Akron, O., may mean a fortune to Charles W. Bonner, 47, elevator operator, of 904 Western avenue.

Bonner is named as sole beneficiary in a letter purporting to have been written shortly before her death by Mrs. Isabel Coates Perry, 50, who was found dead in an attitude of prayer beside her bed in an apartment house, 1524 Arch street, last Wednesday night.

The letter designated a "will," asks the chief of police to "act as Santa Claus for a dying woman" and to seek out Bonner and to reward him for his generosity to a stranger, as she had no "friends or relatives." The letter was undated and the envelope

ALL AIR GONE; DOOM NEAR

By International News Service.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 20.—Hope rode out toward the distant horizon today astride a lashing gale as six men gasped for breath in the corpse-strewn darkness of the torpedo room of the sunken S-4.

Once there were 40—now there are six—and at 3 o'clock this afternoon these six were given a scant three hours to live. They are doomed unless a miracle occurs.

Six o'clock tonight was set by Rear Admiral Philip Andrews of the first naval district as the latest time that life might be sustained aboard by the trapped crew.

At 10 o'clock today from within the sunken submarine came faint sounds. These were not signals, but, according to officers of the submarine S-8, sister ship, appeared to be movements of the S-4 survivors making vain efforts in their own behalf.

In no possible way can the prisoners better their own condition, the officers declared. All help, they maintained, must come from the outside.

Discussing the theory that all but one of the men might emerge through the torpedo tubes, one remaining be-

2 Die in Ship Blast

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 20.—(AP.)—Two men were reported to have been killed and five injured in a terrific explosion that occurred aboard the United States Navy Airplane Carrier Langley here this morning.

Fire broke out after the explosion, and the Navy tug Koko and the San Diego fire boat Bill Kettner were dispatched to the scene. The crew of the Langley promptly started fighting the flames with steam and extinguished the fire before the Koko and fire boat arrived. Ambulances were rushed to the water front from the naval hospital.

At naval headquarters it was stated that no details of the explosion had been received other than that two men had been killed and five injured. Naval officers expressed the belief that the explosion was from gasoline stored on the Langley.

The Langley was used as the flagship of Rear Admiral J. M. Reeves, commander of the aircraft squadron of the battle fleet. She carried a normal complement of 370 enlisted men and 125 officers.

The Langley was converted from a collier to an airplane carrier in 1919 at the Norfolk Navy yard and was one of the original electrically driven naval vessels.

BUNDLES FOR NEEDY MINERS' FAMILIES

Bundles containing food and clothing are pouring into every fire engine house in the city today to bring relief to striking miners throughout Western Pennsylvania. Leona Thier, Edith Cook and Thelma Smeltz, above, are looking over some of the contributions at Engine Company No. 3.

BUNDLES SWAMP ENGINE HOUSE

Hundreds of automobiles stopped at No. 2 Engine House, in the Boulevard of the Allies just below Smithfield street, today, and left packages of clothing for distressed miners' families. Similar scenes were enacted at every engine house in the city.

Pittsburgh answered today the cry of the destitute families of the striking coal miners—answered with a great spontaneous burst of giving that promised to go far toward relieving the distress. Pittsburghers and suburban dwellers in large numbers flocked to the fire engine houses with packages of clothing, food and bed clothing for the sufferers in the mining camps of the district.

Bundle Day proved a brilliant success. The appeal of The Sun-Telegraph met with whole-hearted response. Not only in the residential districts, but also in the business section the engine houses were visited by bearers of bundles. At No. 2 engine to New York and submitted to Mr. Edward H. Clark, and by these three gentlemen submitted to me.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—The mask has been torn from the identity of the ruthless killer of little Marion Parker.

I asked and was told what effort had been made to establish the authenticity of the documents beyond reasonable question, and I suggested that the documents be submitted further to the President of the United States, then at his summer residence in South Dakota.

TAKEN TO COOLIDGE

Mr. Clark took the documents to President Coolidge.

Mr. Clark found Ambassador Sheffield at the Coolidge home in South Dakota, and found the President sufficiently familiar with the details of the documents.

The President was unwilling to become further acquainted with the details, but said soundly that it should be remembered that the senators mentioned undoubtedly never received the funds alluded to, and that the entries in the documents might possibly have been made with the object of camouflaging other disposition of those funds.

This suggestion was in harmony with the opinion that I had already expressed to the American citizen who obtained the documents and to Mr. John Page, and I determined not to print the names of the senators mentioned in the documents, nor of any of the individuals implicated in the documents, but to leave the question of whether these names should be made public to any governmental body that might be interested in the documents.

The question may here properly be discussed as to whether this was the right course to pursue or whether any other course would have been a wiser course to pursue.

I might have, in the first place, refrained from publishing any of the documents, in which case, my possession of the documents being known, I would eventually have been accused by persons as careless of facts as Senator Norris, of having been too cowardly and too concerned for my property interests in Mexico to have revealed facts through the medium of my newspapers, which affected the welfare of the American people, and which the American people had a right to be acquainted with.

In the second place, I might have printed some of the documents and suppressed others, in which case I could have been accused of suppression of the facts or perversion of the facts to suit my own prejudices or opinions.

In the third place, I might have interviewed the Senators mentioned and published their explanations in my newspapers, but I could not see, and can not now see, how denials made in my newspapers would have any superior force or effect over denials made by them under oath before a governmental body.

Moreover, such a course would have necessitated the publication of the Senators' names, and I was in no way adequately informed of the probable course of the government, and as to whether it ever would be considered necessary or desirable by the government to make public the Senators' names.

NAMES ARE DELETED

Therefore, I mentioned no individuals, but merely printed the documents deleted of names, and left the determination of that important point for the government.

But I did print an editorial voicing my opinion and the opinion of President Coolidge: namely, that in all human probability no penny had ever reached the Senators mentioned, and that these entries might have been made to camouflage the diversion or perversion of funds to other purposes.

I held these documents for five months, carefully considering what was the best course to pursue and what was the most considerate course to pursue.

I finally decided upon the policy I adopted, and in reviewing the situation after the event I cannot see how I could have decided properly upon any other policy.

During the five months in which I held these documents, additional efforts were continually made to substantiate their authenticity.

The two clerks who delivered the original documents to Mr. Avila and to Mr. Page and the American business man above mentioned became apprehensive of their situation and left the country, carrying with them a general gathering of additional documents relating more or less definitely to the original documents, and arrived at San Antonio, Tex.

These documents were also secured by Mr. Page and the American business man above mentioned, and they tended in their detail and in the variety of their reference further to confirm the authenticity of the original group of documents.

Finally, in New York City, after the lapse of some four months, some additional documents were discovered in the office of Mexican Consul-General Elias, half-brother of President Calles, which dovetailed with the two sets of documents already secured and tended in every elaboration further to confirm the authenticity of those documents.

And it was only when the authenticity of the documents became almost overwhelmingly established, that publication began.

ANTICIPATED INVESTIGATION

When publication began, I expected that the Congress of the United States, then about to convene, would take immediate notice of matters of such importance to the welfare of the people of the United States as the general distribution of Bolshevist propaganda by the Mexican government in the United States and as the outrageous action of the Mexican government in supporting with money and with arms and with every possible influence, the revolution in Nicaragua against the duly elected and constituted government of Nicaragua, which government the United States was supporting in accordance with the treaties entered into between the United States and the Central American States, as President Coolidge has explained in his message.

I thought, too, that the Congress of the United States would take notice of the appropriation indicateed in these documents of $100,000 authorized by President Calles to be paid to the Brazilian arbitrator of claims, especially when the people of the United States and the government of the United States had been outraged by the unjust decision of that arbitrator, which deprived American citizens of hundreds of millions of dollars undoubtedly their due.

I thought, too, that the Congress of the United States would be interested in the intimate relations maintained between the Bolshevist government of Mexico and the Bolshevist government of Russia, and in the efforts of the Mexican government to support financially and morally social uprisings and revolutionary movements in other parts of the world, notably in China and in the general coal strike in England.

I thought, too, that the Congress of the United States would be interested in the draft of a secret treaty between Mexico and Japan, under which Japanese were invited to colonize in Mexico and in Nicaragua, under the expressed provision that they would be available in time of war, and with the very probable intention —when combined with the support of the revolutionary movement in Nicaragua—of nullifying the interest of the United States in the Nicaraguan Canal, and eventually securing the control of that canal for Mexico and Japan.

CONGRESS INDIFFERENT

But no interest was manifested by Congress in these vital matters which affected merely the public welfare and nothing in the

PARKER FAMILY PROSTRATE WITH GRIEF

ONE YEAR BEFORE TRAGEDY

With her daughter Marian, 12, dead, the victim of the most fiendish murder Southern California has ever known, Mrs. Perry M. Parker, wife of a Los Angeles bank official, is in a serious condition at her home. The father, grief-stricken, maintains a stoic composure as he aids authorities in their search for the killer who dismembered his daughter's body after accepting a ransom for her safe return. This photograph, with Marian at the left, was taken a year ago. Her mother and her twin sister are beside her.

PERRY M. PARKER

The father carried the ransom to a designated spot. A car pulled up with the girl in the front seat. The driver took the money and hurled the body to the ground. When Parker grasped the child, he found her dead and horribly mutilated.

DEATH

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 20.—Three hours to live. That was the brief moment of life conceded to six survivors slowly suffocating in the fouled air of the sunken submarine S-4 at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Six o'clock tonight has been fixed as the latest time possible for the six to survive — the death hour. At that time the last oxygen will have been exhausted. Even at 8:15 this morning, the victims, in their final message, were too weak to tap out the code. Faint sounds were heard from within the submarine at 11 o'clock, but these were not signals.

Meanwhile, rescue is despaired of. Buffeted by a furious gale, divers, trawlers, ships—all the Navy's relief forces—must stand by, helpless.

hind to send the others out, S-4 officers said this could not be done because there was no air in the torpedo compartment to discharge the torpedo.

The last fragile hope of getting life-giving air to the entombed men faded before noon today, when a fresh broadside of frigid northern gales swept down over the spot where rescue ships were huddled, sending them into port at Provincetown, Mass., for shelter. It was the final gesture of the ruthless elements.

At 8:15 o'clock this morning the trapped men appeared too weak to tap out the code they have been using to communicate with the outside world. At that hour came tappings, faint and at weary intervals. They carried no coherent message, but gave grim indication that life was fast ebbing. These signals were picked up by the S-8.

The last intelligible message from the tomb of navy steel was a pitiful plea early today for a word of encouragement.

"Is there any hope?"

The message was sent from the chamber of horror by one of the living six through oscillation communication with the S-8. The answer: "There is hope—everything possible is being done."

Hope!

Perhaps the Navy lied like officers and comrades. For even while the reply was skimming a ray of light into the grave within a grave, 500 men of the rescue fleet chafed in idleness under the fury of the elements.

The Navy is ready to dive between the teeth of the death-mask set by the storm at the slightest lull in the wind. Divers are prepared to risk destruction themselves in an attempt to force oxygen, food and water into the hull of the S-4.

Every member of the score or more of divers has volunteered for the task. Some experts consider that it is suicide with the sea pounding in huge swells.

apparently was discarded by the missing persons bureau, to whom it was turned over by the local police authorities.

Existence of the letter was brought to the attention of coroner's officials a few minutes after James M. Gregg of Orchard Park, Erie county, N. Y., appeared at the morgue, identified and claimed the body of Mrs. Perry as that of his sister, whom he had not seen for 15 years.

The letter follows:

"I want you to act as Santa Claus for a dying woman. I don't think I will see the dawn of the morning.

"I want everything done just as my will reads.

"Please find Charles W. Bonner, as I want him to have all my possessions. This will pay him for the kindness he rendered in 1913 in Akron, O. He does not know my name. But he loaned me his raincoat and $5 to get to Pittsburgh. I just learned this summer of his address. It is in the 900 block, Western avenue, North Side, and he is employed in Kaufmann's warehouse as elevator man. You can find him there. Look after this yourself, as you can be trusted so he has got into his home before Christmas. Do it at once. I have no friends or relatives anywhere.

"My, I am so weak; you see to all papers and banking books be made out in his name.

"This is my will. All my property or my funds in the bank are to be given to Charles W. Bonner.

"I know my body will be in the morgue. Give it to some medical college. It is my dying request to not make any fuss about me. I want to rest in peace. All I ask is to fulfill my dying wish, to find this man who was my friend in time of need. It pays to be good to the wanderer.

"My dying wish.

"ISABEL COSTES PERRY."

KIDNAPER

Harold L. Davis, who directly declared the fugitive youth had been identified as the kidnaper-murderer of the 12-year-old schoolgirl.

REVENGE MOTIVE

Revenge, not the pittance of a $1,500 ransom, was the ascribed motive for the crime, officials making the flat statement that Perry M. Parker, Marion's father, alone had opposed probation for young Hickman at the time he was dismissed from the bank after confessing to forgery.

As the nation-wide search for Hickman got under way, Los Angeles detectives turned their efforts toward the identification and capture of the Fox's accomplices—a woman and another man. The couple described as "neat and stylish in appearance" were last seen in an old, brown or dark yellow sedan. Descriptions of the pair, together with that of Hickman, have been broadcast throughout the country. The man is stocky and dark complexioned and about 25 years old.

Police believe that the kidnap-murder trio has split up in order to facilitate escape. It is thought that the two accomplices have fled together while Hickman, police say, is known still to be in Los Angeles.

Driving a high-powered car, the killer tossed a challenge in the very teeth of the police by roaring at 60 miles an hour almost past the door of headquarters.

The driver of the car was identified by the attendant at a filling station at which he stopped for gasoline and oil.

Jack Ward, attendant at the Standard filling station, told police that shortly after 4 o'clock a blue Cadillac coupe rolled into the gasoline station.

The machine was driven by a young man, wearing no hat and with his street clothing covered by a herringbone overcoat similar to the overcoat worn by "The Fox" when he delivered Marion Parker's dismembered body to her father.

The driver of the car also was wearing a distinctively blue tie, Ward said.

Ward pursued the car for several blocks.

Meanwhile a heavy guard was thrown around Central Police Station, where a man whose name was not divulged, but who is said to have been an intermediary between the abductor and the Parker family, is being held. This man, an aviation enthusiast, came here recently from Kansas City, former home of Hickman.

Mutterings of violence prompted the deployment of the station guard.

"When William Edward Hickman is arrested, either in California or any other state," was the public statement of Prosecutor Davis, "nothing can be brought to the defense of the man we now are seeking for this atrocious murder, because a conviction is certain. In event he is apprehended in another state, the state of California will immediately ask for his extradition."

Cline was no less positive in his accusation against Hickman.

Wanted: For Kidnaping And Murder of Girl

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—The following is the police description of William Edward Hickman, wanted for the kidnaping and murder of 12-year-old Marian Parker:

He is an American 25 to 30 years old; height, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches; weight, 150 pounds; slended build; features ordinary; smooth shaven; complexion very fair; grey piercing eyes; very dark brown hair parted from the right to left side, described as slightly wavy. Had the appearance of having been employed in indoor work. Very neatly dressed. Hands appeared to be well kept. Gave impression of being a business man, who may have been employed in a bank. Last seen carrying his hat, a pearl grey Fedora, in his left hand. Wore brownish-grey overcoat, which appeared to be herring bone cloth. Spoke in a low voice, no accent, using correct English, apparently well educated. Was not excitable and nerves very steady.

NORRIS ATTACKS MOTIVE OF MEXICAN EXPOSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The reading of "an open letter to William Randolph Hearst" issued by Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, precipitated a debate in the Senate yesterday on the Mexican documents published in the Hearst newspapers. Senator Norris wrote:

NORRIS' LETTER

"A fair analysis of the recent articles published in the Hearst papers showing an alleged attempt by Mexican officials to bribe United States senators and editors of various publications, and an analysis of your testimony before the Senate committee, leads to the inevitable conclusion that you are not only unfair and dishonest, but that you are entirely without honor.

"These articles show, on their face, a constant attempt to draw conclusions not justified from the articles themselves and to practice deception upon the American people. It is not necessary to consider any other evidence in order to reach the fair conclusion that in them you are making an attempt not only to besmirch the character of some of our own officials and journalists, but that you are trying to excite an animosity and a hatred on the part of our people against the Mexican government, which, if your articles and alleged official documents were true, would inevitably lead to war between the two countries.

CHARGES MALICE

"Your attempt to shield yourself from blame by not publishing the names of the four senators and the editors alleged to be implicated, when properly analyzed, only shows the maliciouseness of your attack and adds to the dishonor of your motive. You publish the alleged official documents with the names omitted, and at the same time, state that you stand ready and willing to deliver the original documents to any Senate committee that may be appointed to make an investigation.

"You know that the publication of these charges, with the names omitted, must inevitably lead to the appointment of an investigating committee, and that, therefore, the names which you have concealed are bound to be published and that, in fact, the very withholding of the names adds to the curiosity and to the interest of an investigation.

"You knew, therefore, to begin with, that the action you had taken would bring about the publication of the names and you cannot, in ordinary honesty, shield yourself or excuse yourself for the failure to give publicity to the names in the beginning. Moreover, if these allegations are true, there is no reason why the identity of the individual senators should be suppressed.

QUESTIONS MOTIVE

"If you wanted to be perfectly honest with these senators, why did you not state when the articles were published that you had no evidence that any of these senators were guilty and that you did not believe any of the charges against them? You gave no such intimation to the country until you were faced with the question on the witness stand.

"You have admitted before the committee that, in your judgment, the senators were entireely innocent. Why, then, did you permit your papers to publish such misleading and damaging headlines and why were you silent during all the time from December 9 until you appeared on the witness stand on December 15?

"The real reason why you pursued this course was to save yourself from a libel suit, and the very fact that you took this course shows that you, yourself, did not have confidence in the genuineness of the documents which you were publishing, because, if they were genuine, you ran no risk in their publication. Your admission that in taking this course you had in mind the saving yourself from damages in a libel suit is an admission that you believed, yourself, that these alleged official documents were forgeries.

CLAIMS PAPERS FORGED

"You must have known what was common knowledge among all the newspapermen of the United states that many alleged official documents from Mexico were being offered for sale to all kinds of organizations and to all sorts of publications. There is not a newspaper man in the City of Washington but has not known for the past year that it was possible to buy forged documents relating to the Mexican government. Peddlers of this kind of merchandise were almost as common as bootleggers.

"To charge you with ignorance of this condition is to ascribe to you a stupidity that would be equaled only by your heartless malice in trying to wreck the good names of officials both in Mexico and America, in order to carry out some scheme of your own.

"Your own newspapers, about two years ago, exposed the fact that our State Department had been offered and had accepted forged Mexican documents. You knew that if your alleged documents were genuine our Department of State would have made a thorough investigation and that they would not have been rejected by the President of the United States when they were submitted to him, as you say in your testimony they were.

"You knew that there was a question as to their authenticity and that if you had pursued the ordinary course that any honest man would take before he blackens the fair names of his fellow men, you would have reached the conclusion that they were absolutely false.

"And your excuse, given on the witness stand, that it would have given premature publicity to the transaction, is obviously false. You intended to give it publicity. You admitted on the stand that that was the object you had in view. You say in these articles that was the object which the Mexican officials had in view when these documents were turned over to you.

DEFENDS SENATORS

"The ordinary observer will not cease to take notice that the four senators mentioned were all prominent in their opposition to interference by our government in the affairs of Mexico. It is rather remarkable that it is only this class of senators whose reputations are attacked. These men were standing as forcefully as they knew how against a policy in Mexico which you were in favor of.

"It is likewise peculiar that Calles, the President of Mexico, would spend his hard cash to bribe senators who were already advocating non-interference—a policy that he, himself, was anxious to carry out. We may disagree as to the kind of man Mr. Calles is, but even his enemies have never charged him with being either an ignoramus or an idiot.

"What is your motivee, Mr. Hearst? You have testified before the committee that you have very valuable properties in Mexico. It is almost common knowledge that you were in favor of the overthrow of the present government. You evidently believed that if a revolution could be started it would mean financial benefit for your investments in Mexico.

"For the sake of making a few paltry dollars you are willing to blacken the character of honest journalists in your own profession. You were willing to cast suspicion upon the loyalty and the integrity of the members of the United States Senate. You were willing to charge that the President of a friendly republic is a traitor to his country. You were willing and apparentity anxious to do something that would cause our government to intervene in Mexico.

"In otheer words, for the sake of your financial investment you were not only willing to ruin the reputation of honest and innocent men, but you were willing to plunge our country into war with a friendly neighbor and thus increase the army of widows and orphans and wounded and crippled soldiers.

"The record which you have made in this matter is sufficient to place your publications in disrepute in the minds of all honest men and it demonstrates that the Hearst system of newspapers, spreading like a venomous web to all parts of our country, constitutes the sewer system of American journalism."

NAVY PROVES METTLE IN S-4 RELIEF RUSH

EQUIPMENT RUSHED

Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the submarine base at New London, Conn., rushed all available navy craft equipment to Cape Cod.

RUSH VETERAN RESCUE MAN BY PLANE

PLANES RUSH EXPERIENCED WORKERS

When word first reached the Brooklyn Navy Yard that signals indicated men were still alive aboard the sunken submersible, every available man was ordered to Provincetown. Those who had worked previously raising submarines were loaded into planes and hurried direct to the scene.

PAULDING BEACHED TO PREVENT SINKING

Workmen were immediately put to work on the Paulding which had been beached to prevent sinking. A great gaping hole in the side allowed one hold to fill completely. Temporary repairs to the cutter were soon effected and she was sent to the navy yard under her own power.

MINERS' NEED FOR -:- FOOD AND CLOTHING -:- GRAPHICALLY SHOWN

MORE FOOD ON THIS TABLE WOULD BE WELCOME

The family of Harry Reilly at Acmetonia, caught by the Sun-Tele photographer at meal time is an example of privation among the striking miners throughout Western Pennsylvania. Bundles of food and clothing collected for these unfortunate persons today will help make their Christmas a happy one. Mrs. Reilly, seated in the foreground, says barrack life wouldn't be so bad if they had time to fix them up like a home before having to move out of their former home, a company house at Harmarville.

CARRY COAL

Stella Rakowski, 14, carries coal for her mother and pitches in with the rest of the work of some kind to keep the wolf away from the door.

MAIN STREET IN BARRACKS TOWN

In place of snow-covered lawns and cement sidewalks, the occupants of union barracks at Acmetonia are compelled to live as shown above. The barracks were hastily erected when company officials at Harmarville decided the union families had to vacate the homes occupied by some of the miners for many years. Some of the buildings were only half finished when the strikers moved in. In wet weather, the occupants said, rain seeps through the roof and when the wind blows, even a roaring fire is not protection enough from the chill blasts which find their way through the cracks and crevices.

GIVE HIM ANOTHER DAY

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Dec. 20.—(AP.)—Disciples of Benjamin Purnell today awaited the performance of a miracle with a faithful ardor that to all outward appearances had not been dampened by possibility of disillusionment.

Today was the last day of a period set for the resurrection of the dead leader of the House of David cult, and out of respect for the beliefs of his little band, health officials acceded to their requests for postponement of burial until tomorrow.

Purnell died Friday, and after his demise cult members faithfully awaited his resurrection on the third day. When the third day passed yesterday without any sign of returning life, the colonists beseeched officials to hold up internment in the belief that he would arise on the fourth day.

After sundown today, officials have notified members, they will proceed with embalming the body for burial tomorrow. According to Purnell's teachings, he will arise not later than today and lead his flock to everlasting happiness.

About 600 members of the cult remain. They were recruited by Purnell and his consort, Mary Stollard, since establishment of the colony more than 30 years ago.

"The plight of these recruits, who are sincere in their belief, is pitiable," declared Judge Louis Fead, who recently handed down a decision dissolving the colony. "Their whole world has been knocked out from under their feet."

Two Killed In P. R. R. Wreck

WARREN, Pa., Dec. 20.—One engineman was instantly killed and another fatally injured this morning when the boiler of the locomotive of a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train burst as it entered the city limits.

Mark G. Kernick, fireman, 35, of Erie, was killed and Edward Metzgar, 45, engineer, of Warren, died in the Warren General Hospital from injuries an hour after the accident. O. R. Rickard, baggageman, was injured.

The locomotive, tender and mail car were derailed, but two passenger coaches kept the tracks and 20 passengers in the last coach escaped injury. The train was en route from Erie to Emporium and was due here at 9:18, but was behind schedule because of a heavy fall of snow.

BANDITS HEADED FOR CITY

Four men who staged a $1,500 robbery in Philadelphia are on their way toward Pittsburgh, city detectives were advised by wire today from Theodore F. Wood, chief of Philadelphia detectives.

The four robbed and beat two collectors of the American Stores Company and fled in a sedan, local detectives were informed.

W. S. Rodgers, 27, motorman in the Consumers Mining Company mine at Harmarville, was killed at noon today when crushed between two cars.

MA LINDBERGH TAKES OFF

EN ROUTE TO MEXICO CITY

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh received the best wishes and a Christmas message to her son, "America's Ambassador of the Air," from Henry Ford as she stepped into a plane at Detroit yesterday to fly to Mexico City. She will spend Christmas with her son there, stopping at St. Louis, San Antonio and Tampico en route. The flight is being made in a Ford all-metal plane.

NO TEST OF GAS TANK ADVISED

M. C. Snyder, operating engineer of the Equitable Gas Company, admitted, as the coroner's inquest opened today, that he had never advised gas tests for the 5,000,000 cubic foot tank which exploded in Reedsdale street, Manchester, on November 14, with a loss of 28 lives and property damage exceeding $5,000,000.

Snyder, second witness called, testified that he was officially in charge of repairs to the tank and that it was the first time he had overseen repairs to such "gas holders."

Snyder answered in the negative when Coroner W. J. McGregor asked him if he had been present at "any conference" at which the advisability of gas tests had been discussed by officials of the Equitable and of the Riter-Conley Company, whose employes were repairing the tank when it exploded.

Whether the Coroner was inferring that such a conference had taken place or was endeavoring to learn if it had been held, remained in doubt in the minds of some persons in the crowded hearing room.

From a lengthy statement prepared beforehand, Snyder told a chronological story of the repairs which had been planned in June when a water leak was found in the tank.

T. W. Wootton, engineer for Duquesne Light Company, testified that leaking valves probably caused the explosion. He said that, as a result of analyses made by him in collaboration with the United States Bureau of Mines, there were indications that three valves had been defective. Coroner McGregor brought out that in a 24-hour period, 8,901 cubic feet of gas might have escaped through the questionable valves. Wootton made clear that his impressions had been founded on soap bubble tests.

Members of the jury are: J. H. Taylor, J. T. Ryan, manager of the Mine Safety Appliance Company; William H. Steele, engineer of the Locomotive Stoker Company; George E. Clarkson, manager of the National Safety Council, Western Pennsylvania Division; C. F. Geunther, egineer of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, and Joseph P. Coleman, consulting engineer of the Union Switch and Signal Company.

Lindy and Ma Have Nothing On Will

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 20.—Flying is the only way to travel. Left Mexico City at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Spent the night in Tampico; lunch in Brownsville and Kelly Field, and San Antonio for dinner. Mexico is as excited about Mrs. Lindbergh's arrival as they were Charlies'. Had no more need for me in Mexico after Ambassador Morrow's appointment had been ratified. Flew over the Rio Grande Valley which is wonderful. The only thing the matter with it they say the Republicans are about to take it.

CHARLES MILLER, FORMER OIL MAN, DIES

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 20.—Gen. Charles Miller, 84-year-old retired oil man and Franklin's best-known resident, died at 5:25 o'clock this morning of heart disease in his home in Miller Park.

He had been in a state of coma for several days, and death was not unexpected.

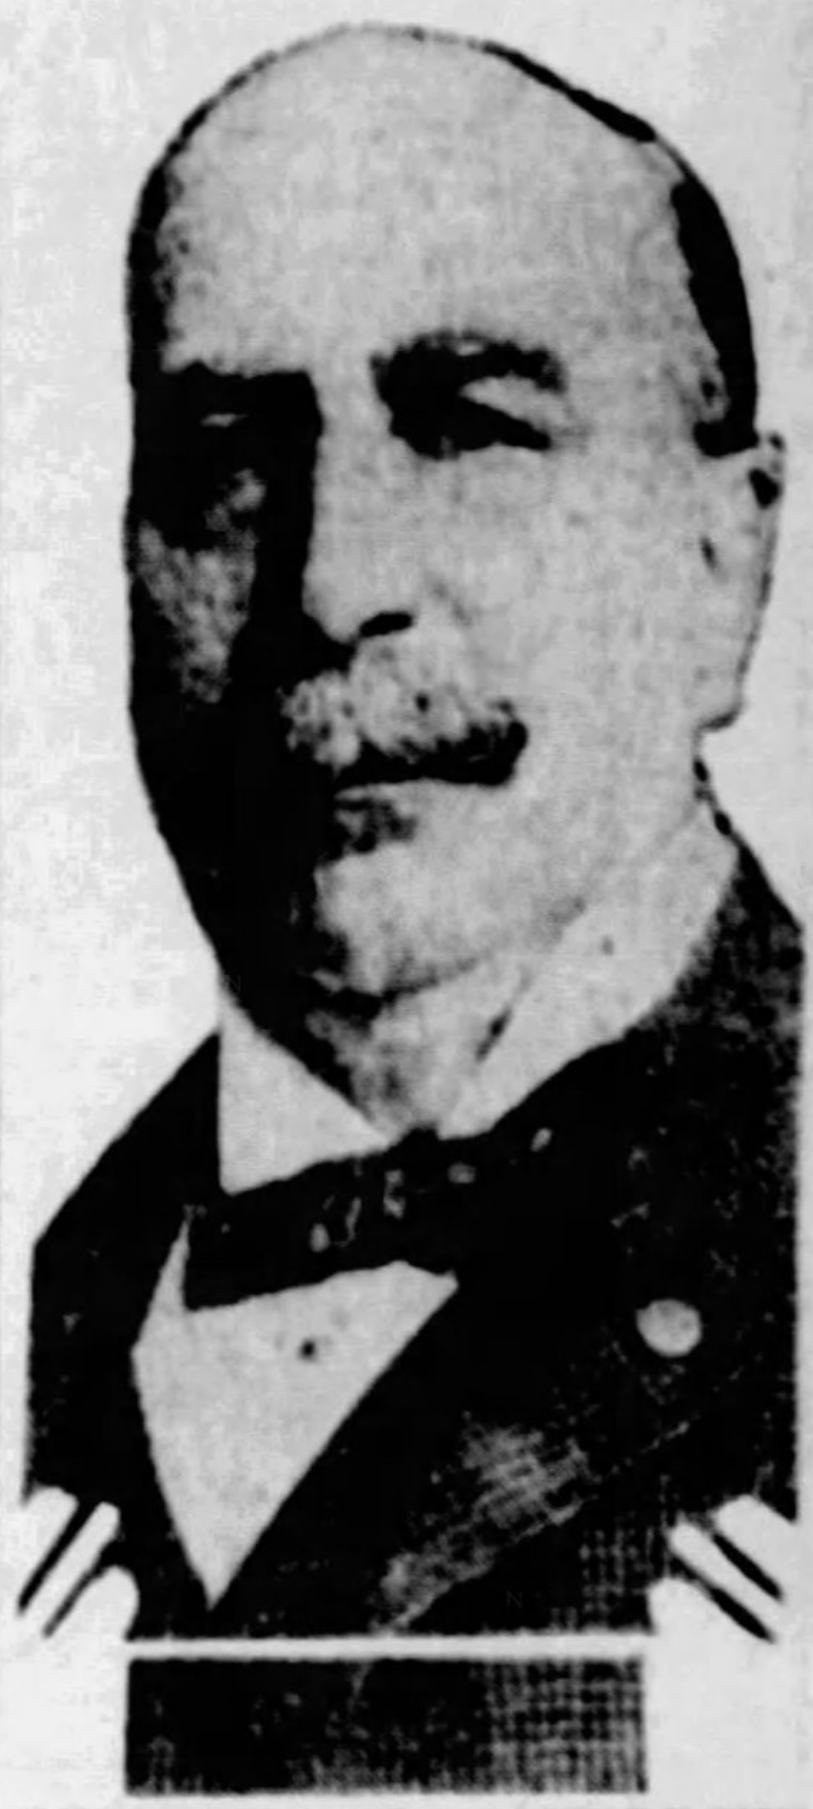
Gen. Miller was a founder of the Galena Signal Oil Company and was one of the pioneer oil producers of this section. Until 11 years ago he was president of the Galena Signal Oil Company, and his son, J. French Miller, is now secretary-treasurer of the concern. He was president of the Lake Erie, Franklin and Clarion Railroad, which he built 22 years ago; president of the Franklin Railway Oil Company and of the General Manifold and Printing Company. He built the Alsace Hotel, now known as the Park, in Franklin; planned and developed Miller Park, an exclusive residential section here; was largely interested in the famous Miller-Sibley Stock Farm of a quarter century ago, and had many other interests. His Rosemont Farm cattle, on tour, took many thousands of dollars in prizes at eastern exhibitions. His Miller Bible class, once numbering 1,000 members, was world famous.

He leaves three sons, J. French Miller, Clarence Miller of Franklin, Maj. C. J. S. Miller of Vere Les Roses, France; two daughters, Mrs. Metta Miller Rochester of Tarrytown, N. Y., and Mrs. C. A. Megeath, Ardsley-on-the-Hudson.

MERCER RESIDENT FOR 50 YEARS DIES AT 97

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 20.—Mrs. Rebecca Reed, 97, for 50 years a Mercer resident, died today. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Charles Lyon, of Pittsburgh.

Oil Man Dies



GEN. CHARLES MILLER

Franklin's best known citizen, Gen. Charles Miller, oil magnate, civic leader and philanthropist, is dead at his home in Miller Park, Franklin, Pa. He was a pioneer in the petroleum industry, having developed large production and was engaged in the manufacture of oil products with the late Congressman Joseph C. Sibley.

THEATRICAL FOLK MAKE -:- DINNER -:- GALA AFFAIR

BEULAH BERSON

Miss Berson, prima donna of the Rose Marie company at the Alvin, will be among the guests of the Pittsburgh Press Club tomorrow night who will do her bit along entertainment lines.

PATTI ROBINSON

Miss Robinson, now playing at the Nixon restaurant and known to thousands of Pittsburghers for her ballad work, will be another to sing when the so-called journalists meet.

DANCING ROCKETS

The Dancing Rockets, from the new Penn, will be there, too. The event to be held in the William Penn Hotel is the annual banquet of th Pittsburgh Press Club, an organization partially composed of newspaper workers. The theatrical folk from virtually every theater in town will aid in the entertainment and will be honor guests of the club.

RUTH ROYE

Miss Roy is appearing at the Aldine. She is a singing comedienne of much more than ordinary ability.

"MONA"

"Mona" of Marino and Mona, a dancing team at the Nixon restaurant, will appear and bring with them considerable local interest as "Mona" is a former Carnegie Tech drama student.

GIRL FLIER DESERTS FATHER COX

SHE WON'T GO

"I can't fly myself and I won't go along as a passenger," was the way Myrtle Brown, sister-in-law of Guiseppe Bellanca, plane inventor, dismissed report she would try to fly from Pittsburgh to Rome.

RODGERS FIELD MAN MAY BE PILOT

Lieut. Frank J. Ambrose, army air corps reserve officer from Rodgers Field, explained some of the difficulties of a Pittsburgh-to-Rome flight Saturday to Rev. James R. Cox. Evidently the obstacles were not sufficient to deter Father Cox's plans. Ambrose is going ahead with plans to pilot the plane, which, it is planned, will be the first to fly from the United States to the Italian capital. Father Cox holds that the flight would increase interest not only in aviation but in religion as well.

DRIVEN FROM HOME BY FOSTER-FATHER, GIRL SAYS

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 20.—Declaring she was driven from home by the brutal treatment of her foster father, John Talfinsky, Mary Talfinsky, 12, of Sewickley township, was found wandering in a daze in Irwin and has been turned over to Juvenile Court authorities while her case is being investigated.

The girl had many marks on her body which she claimed had been caused by beatings. She told state police who are aiding in the investigation that she had gone two days without food and had slept in haystacks despite the bitter cold.

Christmas Tree In Ober Park Dedicated

City officials and North Side business men participated in the dedication of a large Christmas tree in Ober Park, Federal street, last night, held under the auspices of the North Side Chamber of Commerce. Music was furnished by a chorus of more than 600. Mayor Charles H. Kline was the principal speaker and Charles P. Lang was master of ceremonies.

Other speakers were the Rev. J. E. B. McIlroy of the North Presbyterian Church Councilman Harry A. Little; Director Edward G. Lang of the Department of Public Works; the Rev. George J. Bullion of St. Peter's Catholic Church and Frank T. Young of the North Side Chamber of Commerce.

DELRA

"The New Spread for Bread"

Has a Milk Flavor!

The whole milk in which the animal fats are churned, produces the sweet flavor and the fragrance you recognize instantly. It makes a delicious, wholesome spread for bread and may be used in any way you could desire. It's tempting on hot toast—a test for any spread.

DELRA is delicious margarine. Made exclusively for McCann's. Other stores do not have it—can't get it. It's the "Margarine Supreme."

Hundreds of people who never tasted margarine before, after sampling Delra in our center aisle, purchased a carton. Many have told us how much they liked it.

Ask at the butter section for recipes covering ways to combine DELRA in icings, cakes and other delicacies and a book answering questions on how DELRA is made and used.

JAIL TWO, FINE 13 IN DRY ACT VIOLATIONS

Daniel Nagy and Edward C. Mauthe upon entering pleas in Federal District Court to complaints charging violations of the national prohibition law were sentenced to serve jail terms of three months and 45 days, respectively. Defendants entering pleas to liquor violation suits were fined as follows: Alex Mendelwitz, $750; William Holland, $200; Ben Marcovsky, $125; Charles N. Thompson and George Terkley, $100 each; William Feldman and Dominic and Margherito Lamberti, jointly, $75 each; Pauline Kaufman and John Albenze, $50, each; John Kennedy, Nicholas Wolfe and Mike Gibbons, $25 each.

Charles Berger of 5407 Hobart street, who, in a petition alleged his home was entered November 20, 1926, by prohibition agents without the authority of a search warrant, asked that a rule be granted on United States District Attorney John D. Meyer, to show cause why the alleged unlawfully seized liquors should not be suppressed as evidence against him.

Invents Waterproof Leather Sole

BENJAMIN W. KLEIN, founder Klein's Rapid Shoe Repair Co.

Many people wonder why their shoes wear out so much faster at this time of the year. The reason is that water and dampness rot leather.

Klein's waterproof leather soles are impervious to water. Dampness cannot penetrate this leather and rot it, because these patented soles are treated by a secret waterproofing process. They wear much longer than ordinary soles. They keep your feet dry—even in the wettest weather—and prevent colds, grippe and other ailments.

Genuine Klein Waterproof Soles can be attached to any pair of shoes, new or old, and are obtainable only at Klein Stores. Be sure to look for the name K-L-E-I-N on the window.

HEARST ANSWERS LETTER OF NORRIS

way of activity in Congress occurred until the so-called senatorial letters were printed.

There remains to be discussed only the question of my motives.

It is true, as Mr. Norris said and as I told the committee, that I have property valued at approximately four million dollars in Mexico, which I had possessed in peace and security through the friendship and favor of the Mexican government.

Certainly nobody but a perfect jackass—and Senator Norris is not that—at least not a perfect one—could imagine that my property holdings were benefited by losing the friendship and favor of the Mexican government.

As a matter of fact, in publishing these documents there was strong probability—in fact, the near certainty—that these properties would be confiscated at the earliest possible moment by the Mexican government.

In fact, a Mexican subsidized newspaper, the Excelsior, already accuses me, according to the New York Herald-Tribune of Monday morning, of land plots and conspiracies, which is probably the preliminary to some trumped-up procedure directed at the ultimate confiscation of these properties.

However, I can stand the loss of these properties through the publication of the Mexican documents better than I could have stood the loss of my self-respect through the cowardly suppression of these documents out of consideration for my own interests rather than the interests of my fellow American citizens.

NO EVIL MOTIVE

Finally, as to the alleged evil motive in endeavoring to reflect upon the insurgents in the Senate through the publication of these documents, that seems to be the most assinine statement that can be picked out of Senator Norris' scrap heap of misrepresentation and billingsgate.

My papers have always been in the main supporters of the insurgent group of senators.

Senator Borah I have had occasion to support and commend probably more than any man in the Senate.

I do not know that I have ever supported Senator Norris, but then I cannot recall that he has ever done anything worth supporting.

Young Senator Lafollette declared in his statement before the committee that the Hearst papers were the strongest supporters that the administration had.

I would like to tell Senator Lafollette that the truth is that the Hearst papers are the strongest supporters his father ever had, and that when his father was being crucified during the war by false reports of his utterances in other newspapers, and when his expulsion from the Senate was even considered, the Hearst papers day in and day out stood loyally by him and denounced the falsehoods which occasioned the attacks upon him, and declared that his utterances were patriotic in the light of his beliefs, and that in this free country no man should be so unjustly attacked for expressing opinions based on conviction of what was for the best interest of his fellow countrymen.

As a matter of fact, I am an insurgent myself, and have always been and always will be an insurgent against whatever seems to be contrary to the interests of our government and the welfare of our people, and in sustaining those principles and that policy I published these Mexican documents, believing then and believing now that I did my simple duty regardless of consequences to myself and considering merely the best benefit of the American people.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Today

Henry Ford, who plays the fiddle: "Every child should be taught to play some instrument for himself, and not live and die a mere listener."

SCHWAB, wise man, says he would not change anything, not even one minute in his past life. He wants to live twenty years more—and he will—to see wonderful changes coming. He will go to Europe by airplane and see every rich man's front yard an air terminal. He will see school children study geography from the air, see passenger transportation at 200 miles an hour on the ground and 400 miles an hour in the air.

HE MAY even see this nation build an adequate fighting air fleet, after it has done its duty to battleship builders and armorplate makers, by handing them the millions they need.

TIMES change swiftly. Dr. Mary Walker, who used to call on Charles A. Dana at the old New York Sun office, dressed in trousers, frock coat and stovepipe hat, was arrested for wearing "immodest clothes." She really looked twice as modest as a cigar store Indian, when this and other Sun reporters saw her.

NOW Police Commissioner Thomas of Sterling, Ill., says no lady may appear in a public dance hall unless she wears bloomers. She may wear anything else but bloomers are de rigueur, for reasons that the public will grasp in these sport-skirt days.

EARTHQUAKE in Burmah frightened inhabitants, a loud roar lasting ten seconds accompanied the shaking. Guatamas, finest temple at Rangoon, was badly damaged, but that will not shake faith in Buddhism.

THAT is the convenient thing about pagan religions. When anything goes wrong, the pagan priests tell the faithful "It's your fault. Your donations have been inadequate." Nothing is ever wrong with the pagan god supposed to control earthquakes, or at least protect his own temples. Even fundamentalist Christian churches put lightning rods on their steeples, which seems strange.

WITH the last stock market days of the old year approaching, wise gentlemen predict boom times for 1928. Gold shipments of three millions a day mean little. In fact, they are healthy. Mr. B. C. Forbes, who knows his ticker and the men back of it, retains Scotch caution, but even he is optimistic. He says 1928 will see 5,000,000 automobiles manufactured. That means prosperity for many industries, and what is more important, fresh air for many families.

ONE thing is certain, we can afford peace with $2,000,000 gold export a day better than war, which, according to Mr. Mellon, cost us nearly $60,000,000 a day every day we were in it, and all wasted.

DIPLOMATIC circles in Pekin are shocked by a shipment from Turkey to Pekin's "Anti-Opium Monopoly Bureau." The shipment was fifty-two thousand pounds of Turkish opium. That reminds you of our own alcohol proposition, in spots. One New York cabaret keeper asked if prohibition agents bothered him, replied, "Yes, I had to give one of them $200 just an hour ago."

Sun-Tele Invites City Newsies to Movie

The newsboys of Pittsburgh, through the courtesy of L. Lanning, manager of Loew's Penn Theater, and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be given a Christmas party.

Next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the doors of the big Penn will be thrown open to them. Lon Chaney will appear on the screen in his newest picture, and other entertainment will keep the boys entertained for nearly two hours.

There will be seats for more than 3,600 newsboys. And the hour—9 o'clock—will be the right one, from a viewpoint of convenience.

The Lon Chaney picture will be a mystery especially of interest and charm to the newsies. They are all invited, and, beginning Wednesday morning, will be able to secure free tickets for the event from the circulation department of this paper.

Ma Lindy to Hop for Tulsa

By International News Service.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Dec. 20—Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, left Lambert Flying Field here shortly before noon for downtown St. Louis to visit a dentist for treatment of an ulcerated tooth which has been bothering her since she left Detroit yesterday to join her son at Mexico City.

Harry Brooks, pilot of the mighty tri-motored Ford all-metal plane, in which Mrs. Lindbergh is traveling, stated that if repairs to the starting equipment were made by 1:30 Central time this afternoon the Lindbergh party would probably stop at Tulsa, Okla., tonight.

TAKES CALLES UP

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—President Calles and Former President Obregon today made separate flights with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, American air hero, at the stick of a commercial plane loaned for the trips.

President Calles and Gen. Obregon were each in the air about 25 minutes.

The Mexican President, making his first flight, went up first with the American flier, the plane taking the air at 10:15 a. m. and landing at 10:40.

Gen. Obregon, who is the only candidate left in the field for next year's presidential election, went up immediately after the President.

Both President Calles and Gen. Obregon, probably the two most powerful men in Mexico, expressed great pleasure in the flight and said that they had complete confidence in the American airman.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT AIDING 20 NEEDIEST CASES FUND

Contributions Pass $2,000 Mark

The Christmas fund which The Sun-Telegraph is raising for the benefit of the Twenty Neediest Cases of destitution that the foremost charitable organizations have found in Pittsburgh passed the $2,000 mark yesterday. With the Yuletide spirit now filling most hearts the contributions should be greater this week than in any previous week.

If there is any season at which the poor should be remembered by their more fortunate fellows it is at Christmas, and it is with confidence that they will be remembered by warm-hearted Pittsburghers that a large addition to the fund is awaited.

Accompanying the gifts received yesterday were many encouraging and inspiring messages. "Keep up the good work so that we all may enjoy a merry Christmas," writes "A Friend."

The next few days will present the last opportunity to contribute to this worthwhile cause. The fund will be closed Saturday, that distribution may be made in time for Christmas.

The Twenty Neediest are cases of bitter privation in which timely aid will save families from disruption. The contributions are to be used to provide them with food, clothing and other necessities.

A report on a case aided by a similar fund last year will serve to give an understanding of the good that is done. The report comes from the Associated Charities:

"The family was that of a fine American widow who was giving excellent care to her four small children. We are glad indeed to have received sufficient money through the NEEDIEST CASES appeal so that this family had all their needs met until September when it was possible for the Mothers' Assistance Fund to take care of them. The Associated Charities passed the family over to the Mothers' Assistance Fund in good physical and moral condition. Because of the long waiting list for Mothers' Assistance, many of the widows' families have become broken in health and spirit before they are reached, but because of the generous gift made last December to this family, it was possible for them to be cared for adequately during their waiting period."

How 20 Neediest Cases Money May Be Sent

Designate the particular case you wish to help.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or to the following co-operating organizations:

The Associated Charities of Pittsburgh, Fulton Building.

The Catholic Charities, Diocese of Pittsburgh, Wabash Building.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way.

The Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue.

The Volunteers of America, Volunteer Building, Pittsburgh.

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America.

Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, or if preferred, to one of the societies named.

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sun-Telegraph of November 27. One case was then repeated each day. All cases are being described for the third time this week. Here are cases Nos. 7, 8 and 9:

Case No. 7

Both Mr. and Mrs. O. are recovering from serious operations. The 9-year-old boy has returned to his home after many weeks in a hospital. The 17-year-old girl has undertaken to do her best to support the family. Her earnings of $10 a week fall far short of enough to pay the rent and provide food for her eight younger brothers and sisters, ranging in age from 14 years to 6 months. With the best possible management on the part of all it takes more than $90 a month to supply their minimum needs. The Associated Charities is, therefore, supplementing the meager income by paying the rent, providing some of the food, and three quarts of milk a day, totaling $50 a month. It will be many months before Mr. O is able to work and he will never be able to return to his trade.

(Reported by the Associated Charities).

Case No. 8

Is $12 a week sufficient to support a widow with seven children under 15 years of age? The widow has high blood pressure, two of the children have seriously defective vision, and one is in need of a major operation. And that is the only income Mrs. W has. Her husband was killed in a mine accident; because she receives workmen's compensation she is ineligible for mothers' assistance and yet she cannot work herself.

Mrs. W herself was reared in an orphan asylum and is determined that none of her children shall be robbed of parental love and inspiration, which cannot be supplied in any institution.

The children are well mannered, devoted to their mother, but are becoming bewildered at their sudden charge in fortune.

Case No. 9

Eleven years ago two young people met at a picnic; there followed a courtship under the watchful eye of the girl's wise mother. Against her mother's advice, Mrs. P married Mr. P because she believed in him and loved him. Even after several years of mistreatment at his hands, she forgave him. But disillusionment came at last when many months ago he deserted her after appropriating some of his employer's money. He has not been located.

There are children, one a baby of two months; she has no income, she is eager to work but is unable to do so without sacrificing the welfare of her children; her friends and relatives help when they can, which is infrequently.

Not only her life, but the lives of all her children, will be lives of complete disillusionment unless food, clothing and shelter are supplied.

(Reported by the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh).

Cases Nos. 10, 11 and 12 will be described tomorrow.

Final "Funny Folks" Stampede Is On

"All the Funny Folks," the story of all the comic characters, and what they do when they hold parties of their own, is now in its twentieth thousand—in the Pittsburgh district.

With the final Christmas rush on, its total sale for the past few weeks may exceed that. Its popularity is phenomenal, and ministers, lawyers, doctors, artists—men of all professions and kinds have bought or ordered the book for their children.

And adults have enjoyed it, many report, as well as the children. The jingling rhymes, the merry prose, the ridiculous situations combined in the 112-page book of fun have captured the imaginations of all.

Jack Lait, who wrote the rhymes, made a clever story of Jiggs, Maggie, Barney Google and Spark-plug—all of the comic characters that appear in the Sunday newspapers of the Hearst organization. The book itself, of 112 pages, is unusually well bound in green cloth, and is illustrated by 500 color prints. Some of the dealers

GARDNER STAFF NOT TO CHANGE

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner will begin his sixth year in office January 3, when he is sworn in to succeed himself. Next year will be the first of the four-year term to which Mr. Gardner has just been elected. Mr. Gardner is not expected to make any major changes in his staff of assistants.

At the end of this month Gardner will have completed 10 years of service in the district attorney's office, beginning as assistant district attorney under former District Attorney Harry H. Rowand, now a judge. When Mr. Rowand was appointed to the bench, Gardner succeeded him as district attorney.

GET THORN HILL BOARD POSTS

Attorney Howard Walter, of 5256 Wilkins avenue, and John M. Quinn, of Aspinwall, were appointed members of the board of Thorn Hill School by the judges of Common Pleas Court, who held their last meeting of the year yesterday.

Joseph A. Beck and Gustav L. Schramm, both Pittsburgh attorneys, were named to the board of the Gumbert Industrial School for Girls. Mrs. John S. Sloan and Miss Suzanne Beatty, also were named to the board. All the judges were present with the exception of Thomas D. Carnahan, who is ill.

TWO WOMEN HURT WHEN AUTO SKIDS INTO DITCH

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 20.—Mrs. James Swartz had her head cut and Mrs. Naomi Honsaker was bruised on the body when the machine driven by L. Eichelberger, in which they were returning from a funeral at Somerset, skidded when about four miles from Mt. Pleasant and went into a ditch.

HARDING'S BODY TO BE REMOVED TO MEMORIAL

MARION, O., Dec. 20.—The bodies of the late President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding will be removed to the new $800,000 memorial tomorrow. No public ceremonies are planned at this time. The tomb will be dedicated later.

FREE BROTHER OF COAL POLICE MURDER CONVICT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 20.—Robert Wenrich, 19, of West Brownsville, alleged to have been implicated with his brother, Roy, 32, sentenced to life imprisonment in the slaying of Coal and Iron Policemen Paul R. Fox and Louis A. Knapp at Vesta No. 6 last February was released yesterday on his own recognizance. He will appear in court in February to answer charges of violating the liquor laws. Young Wenrich is said to have been driving the bootleggers' car when the officers were slain. He has been in jail 10 months. Delbert Killian, of West Brownsville, alleged member of the band, also was released until February.

MAIL AIRPLANE FORCED DOWN

A mail airplane pilote dby Earl Woodward was forced down in a field near Belmont avenue, Overbrook, yesterday, a short time after it had left Bettis Field, McKeesport, for Cleveland. Woodward was forced to land because of motor truble and the landing was made without injury to the plane. The mail was transferred to another plane.

DOWNTOWN FIRE LOSS $500

The service station of the Duquesne Light Company and the Equitable Gas Company, at 913 Liberty avenue, was damaged $500 by fire early this morning, according to Deputy Fire Chief William Greaves.

The fire started in the basement from a leaking gas line, Greaves said. Firemen were handicapped by the dense smoke, and many of them donned gas masks upon entering the basement.

PAROLE WAR VET, BUT HE MUST MUZZLE PEN

Arthur B. Jenkins, 51, of Hyndman, Bedford county, veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars, was paroled for five years by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker yesterday on condition that he would write no more letters to the Veterans Bureau in Washington.

Two weeks ago Jenkins pleaded guilty to making false statements to the Veterans Bureau in connection with the payment of $100 funeral expense claims to about 40 families of deceased veterans. It was alleged Jenkins wrote without authorization of the families and after they received the money, requested a $10 fee for his services.

Jenkins, who was taken prisoner by the Germans at Chateau Thierry and held until the close of the war, was pronounced by a physician to be suffering from ailments that affected him mentally and physically.

DEATH ROLL

George B. Logan.

George Bryan Logan, Jr., son of George B. Logan of Logan-Gregg Hardware Company, died Sunday at Chapel Hill, N. C., after a brief illness. He was educated at Allegheny Preparatory School and Princeton College and served with the ambulance corps in the Lady Paget unit in Serbia. In 1917 he entered aviation training, the same year in which he married Agnes Mann of Scotland at Biarritz. In recent years Mr. Logan had been a librarian at University of North Carolina. He leaves his widow, four daughters, his father, two sisters and two brothers.

Rev. Francis Olfen.

The Rev. Francis Olfen, C.S.Sp., died yesterday morning at St. Francis Hospital, where he had been a patient for the past two months. His last post had been that of assistant pastor at St. Ann's Church, Millvale. Father Olfen was born 62 years ago at Cologne, Germany. In 1894 he came to the United States and served for varying periods at Sharpsburg, Detroit, Conway, Ark., and Millvale. From 1912 to 1914 he was treasurer and professor of Holy Ghost College, Cornwells, Pa. The funeral will be held Thursday morning from St. Anne's Church, Millvale.

Rev. Francis Olfen.

The Rev. Francis Olfen, C. S. Sp., 62, died Monday at St. Francis Hospital, where he had been a patient two months. His last post had been that of assistant pastor of St. Anne's Catholic Church, Millvale. Father Olfen was born in Cologne, Germany. In 1894 he came to the United States and served successively at Sharpsburg, Detroit, Conway, Ark., and Millvale. At the last place he held the pastorate of St. Anthony's Church for several years. From 1912 to 1914 he was treasurer and professor at Holy Ghost College, Cornwells, Pa.

Mrs. Josephine Fierst.

Mrs. Josephine Fierst, 86, a resident of Pittsburgh for 83 years, died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David C. Jones, 6934 Hamilton avenue. Mrs. Fierst was born in Germany. Her parents emigrated to America, settling in Pittsburgh, when she was 3 years old. She leaves her daughter, Mrs. Jones; three sons, Justin, George and Robert Fierst; two granddaughters and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Caroline Mueller.

Mrs. Caroline Mueller, 81, widow of John G. Mueller, died Monday in the family home, 807 Inwood street. Mrs. Mueller was born in Germany and came to this country when 15 years old. She was a member of the German Evangelical Protestant Church, Smithfield street. She leaves these children: Albert Mueller, George Mueller, Walter Mueller, Mrs. Mary McElheny, Mrs. William Hoffield, Mrs. C. W. Copp and Mrs. Elenora Walker, and eight grandchildren.

Mrs. George W. Little.

Mrs. Estelle B. Little, a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh and widow of George W. Little, died Monday in her home at 421 Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg. Mrs. Little was born in Pittsburgh. She was a member of Point Breeze Presbyterian Church. She leaves no children.

DAD'S ASS'N OF DE MOLAY TO GIVE NEW YEAR BALL

The Dad's Association, Order of DeMolay of Western Pennsylvania, has announced plans for the fourth annual New Year's ball of the 21 combined chapters of DeMolay in Western Pennsylvania, which will be held in Syria Mosque on New Year's Eve.

A program of dancing, motion pictures, vaudeville, a band concert and a competitive drill has been arranged by the committee in charge. Lincoln Chapter's band will give a concert following the competitive drill for the John H. Kriebel Cup, in which Templar, Tancred and Duquesne chapters' drill teams will compete.

GIRL NABS THIEF AFTER CHASE

Thaw Admits Writing

FOREST HOPE WALL

Here's the most recent photograph of Forest Hope Wall, Culver City girl, who has filed suit against Harry K. Thaw for $100,000 heart balm. She says Thaw wooed and won her at Laguna Beach, Cal., in 1923. Thaw says he didn't woo her, although he thinks he may have written her some letters.

THEFT VICTIM CAUSES MAN'S ARREST

A chase of 15 blocks ended at Colwell and Clark streets when Marie Blake, 23, of 1103 Fifth avenue, pointed out John White, 39, Negro, of Cleveland, to Patrolman William McCourt. The Negro had taken Miss Blake's wrist watch, she said.

In Magistrate E. M. Hough's Morals Court this morning, Miss Blake said she answered a knock on the door of her room yesterday and White mumbled something about hunting for a man. Then he grabbed for her wrist watch. She struggled, but White obtained the watch, she said, and started to run down the steps. She followed into Fifth avenue and through numerous streets and alleys until at Colwell and Clark streets she encountered the policeman.

White was held over.

HUNT BAD CHECK PASSER WHO SAYS HE'S OFFICER

Police are searching for a man about 45 who has been representing himself as a police officer to rooming house keepers, from whom he rents rooms and gives a bad check. The check is always larger than the amount of the rent and he insists on the change in cash. The last victim reported to police is Mrs. S. J. Wagner, 1616 Brighton road.

DOG'S BARK SAVES MOTHER AND FIVE FROM FLAMES

SOMERSET, Pa., Dec. 20.—Their dog's barking saved a mother and her five children from probable death when their home at Listie, Somerset county, was destroyed by fire. The dog awakened Mrs. Steve Sebastin as the flames ate through the kitchen and she, rousing the children, led them from the house to safety.

EYES BLACKENED WIFE SAYS

Given two black eyes, "the kind that take four days to get real black and four days to get well" as she put it, were among the reasons given by Mrs. Margaret A. Miller for wanting a divorce from Ralph R. Miller, she told Judge Harry H. Rowand.

Mrs. Miller who lives at 1313 Gibbon street, when questioned by her attorney, Ellsworth G. Trott, said she was married in January, 1920, at Wellsburg, W. Va.

It being a run-away marriage, Judge Rowand ejaculated that "this is where they usually end," meaning in divorce court. At the time of the marriage Mrs. Miller was a student in the Grant school. She has a boy, 5.

BUNDLE DAY PLEA FOR MINERS WINS CITY'S HEART

house, on the Boulevard of the Allies near Smithfield street, 69 packages had been received by the time the morning rush of workers to the city had ended.

The telephone at the headquarters of the miners' union was kept busy with the calls of persons desiring trucks to call at their homes for bundles.

In Wilkinsburg Chief of Police Wallace Bishop and Fire Chief Robert Wallace collected a large supply of clothing. It was planned to take it to the destitute miners at Harmarville in the police patrol, but it would not hold all the bundles and a truck had to be engaged in addition.

While the immediate needs of the miners' families were thus being provided for in part, the churches and lay agencies of social service were formulating plans for relief on a broader scale. A campaign was being outlined today of the magnitude that might be expected if the community were to be visited by a major disaster.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, rabbi of Rodef Shalom Temple, as chairman of a ministerial committee, issued a call for a meeting to prepare an appeal to the public for funds. Members of the committee are the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, pastor of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church and chairman of the social service commission of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches of Christ; the Rev. L. W. Mason, pastor of the First Unitarian Church; the Rev. Father J. F. R. Corcoran, head of the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, and the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, pastor of the Eighth United Presbyterian Church, North Side, and president of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches of Christ.

Father Corcoran estimated that $5,000 a week would be required for at least three months to save the miners' families from starvation.

In the meanwhile miners' families are being evicted from the mining companies' houses in coal towns throughout the district and are taking refuge in rough barracks hurriedly thrown up by the union, in churches, in sheds, in abandoned buildings and private homes. The number of the refugees runs well into the thousands.

Miners at Coverdale, due to be evicted today, were granted a week's extension in which to complete barracks being erected. The Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company is owner of the property and officials of the concern said they had no desire to turn the striking miners' families out of their houses in the severe weather.

Owing to the insanitary conditions amid which they are living, deprived, as many are, of sewage facilities and adequate water supply, apprehension exists that a disease epidemic may break out, and the State Department of Health is watching the situation closely. The department's representative here is Dr. J. R. Conover. It is pointed out that with their bodies weakened by hunger and exposure, the refugees are in no condition to resist disease and that if a contagion should break out, its effects probably would be serious.

LAYMEN ALSO ACTIVE

Co-operating with the clergy in the proposed relief campaign is a central committee composed mostly of laymen. The chairman is Dr. Edward N. Clopper, head of the Federation of Social Agencies, and the other members are Harry W. Shepherd, of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor; Miss Eleanor Hanson, Associated Charities; Miss Rose Porter, Mothers' Assistance Fund; Miss Helen Stevens, Public Health Nursing Association; the Rev. J. C. H. Sauber, in charge of social service in Pittsburgh Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church; the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy, chairman of social service for the Pittsburgh Council of Churches; the Rev. S. C. Michelfelder, executive secretary of the Lutheran Inner Mission; Col. Joseph Atkinson, Salvation Army; Miss Lucille Frampton, Volunteers of America; Miss Mary Condon, Associated Charities; Colston E. Warne, assistant professor of economics, University of Pittsburgh; A. K. Van Tine, Young Men's Christian Association of the University of Pittsburgh; Miss Leah Dickinson, Social Service Exchange; the Rev. S. W. Corcoran, of the Methodist Episcopal Church Union; the Rev. Father Fehrenbach, of Broughton; Ensign Violet Randall, Salvation Army; Mrs. Helen Glenn Tyson, Jewish Family Welfare Association; Miss Katherine Lawless, International Institute; David J. Terry, Children's Service Bureau; Charles C. Cooper, Kingsley House; Mrs. Emma Sievertson and Dr. J. R. Conover.

Many independent movements for the relief of the miners are also under way. One of the most noteworthy is that conducted by the Young Women's Bible Class of Beechview, which reported today that it had delivered to the sufferers 600 pairs of shoes, 200 coats for women, 175 overcoats for men and boys, and baskets of groceries for 210 families. The society has also contracted for 200 gallons of milk, to be delivered at the rate of 25 pints a day at Mine No. 2 and 25 at Mine No. 3 of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation to women having children under one year of age.

Destitution is not confined to the union miners, it was learned today. Many non-union miners in the district also are idle and in want. At headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America it was reported that non-union men were applying for membership in the vain hope that they might receive strike benefits.

Dr. Clopper made it plain that the committee which he heads will devote itself to the relief of suffering without regard to whether the miners needing it are union or non-union workers. "We are not concerned with the controversy," he said, "and will make no distinction between the destitute." Dr. Clopper stated that subcommittees were investigating conditions at the various mining camps in the district.

The Cry of Distress

You have heard that deep distracted cry from out the mining camps,
Where the women and the children are forced to dress like tramps.
With not enough to cover body, nor shoes to cover feet,
With little stomachs empty, having not enough to eat.
In the name of that great Nazarine, who died the world to save,
And who handed down that all might hear, the words most deep and grave,
"What e'er you do for the least of these, ye do also unto Me."
That's a lesson for us all to heed, its plain enough to see.
And just now is the accepted time, when we celebrate the birth
Of that Redeemer of the world, when hearts are filled with mirth.
Let's not forget "The least of these," let's give until it cramps,
Let's feed and clothe the unfortunates, who are in the mining camps.

James M. Nellis.
Pittsburgh, Dec. 16, 1927.

Ban on Santa's Beard Explained

That the childish conception of one bounteous and immaculate Santa Claus might be kept unsullied, was the motivating spirit in stripping the alms-seeking Santa from his soiled and straggling beard, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, revealed today.

Her statement follows:

"So that there may be no misunderstanding or confusion in the minds of the people of Pittsburgh as to my suggestion to the Volunteers of America, that they appeal for funds on the streets of the city in their organization uniforms, and not in the guise of many Santa Clauses, I beg to say that the intent of this suggestion was twofold:

"First—To preserve the legendary conception of one Santa Claus as a bountiful giver who comes with his reindeers and jingling bells on Christmas eve to the homes of expectant children, and thereby to banish the fictitious Santa Clauses to the number of about 12.

"Second—To protect the little children on the streets from the danger of infection in the practice of parents lifting their little ones to be kissed by some germ-laden Santa Claus.

"In making this suggestion to the Volunteers of America, I endeavored to advise kindly and wisely and to act idealistically and practically."

NORTH SIDE WOMAN IS INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. M. Kraus, 49, of 46 Marshall avenue, North Side, fractured her right arm when she slipped and fell in Perrysville avenue at Eliza street, North Side, today. She was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital by a passing police automobile.

"Cleaning" Kills Cat, Soda Clerk Fined $10

David Klein, soda clerk in a downtown drug store, was fined $10 by Alderman John A. Joyce today on a charge of cruelty of animals. According to L. W. Ahn of the Humane Society, Klein deliberately spilled a poisonous cleaning fluid over a pet cat in the store, and the cat died.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Harry S. Pauls Hold Open House in Celebration of Their Golden Wedding

NEARLY everyone has a wedding, but very few folks can boast of having a golden wedding anniversary. Today the Harry S. Pauls, of Oakmont, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. They will hold open house all day.

Among those who will be their guests today are Mrs. H. Will Alexander, Mrs. George Vardy Marshall and Mrs. Thomas Pears, all of whom attended the ceremony 50 years ago. Mrs. Alexander is an aunt of Mrs. Paul.

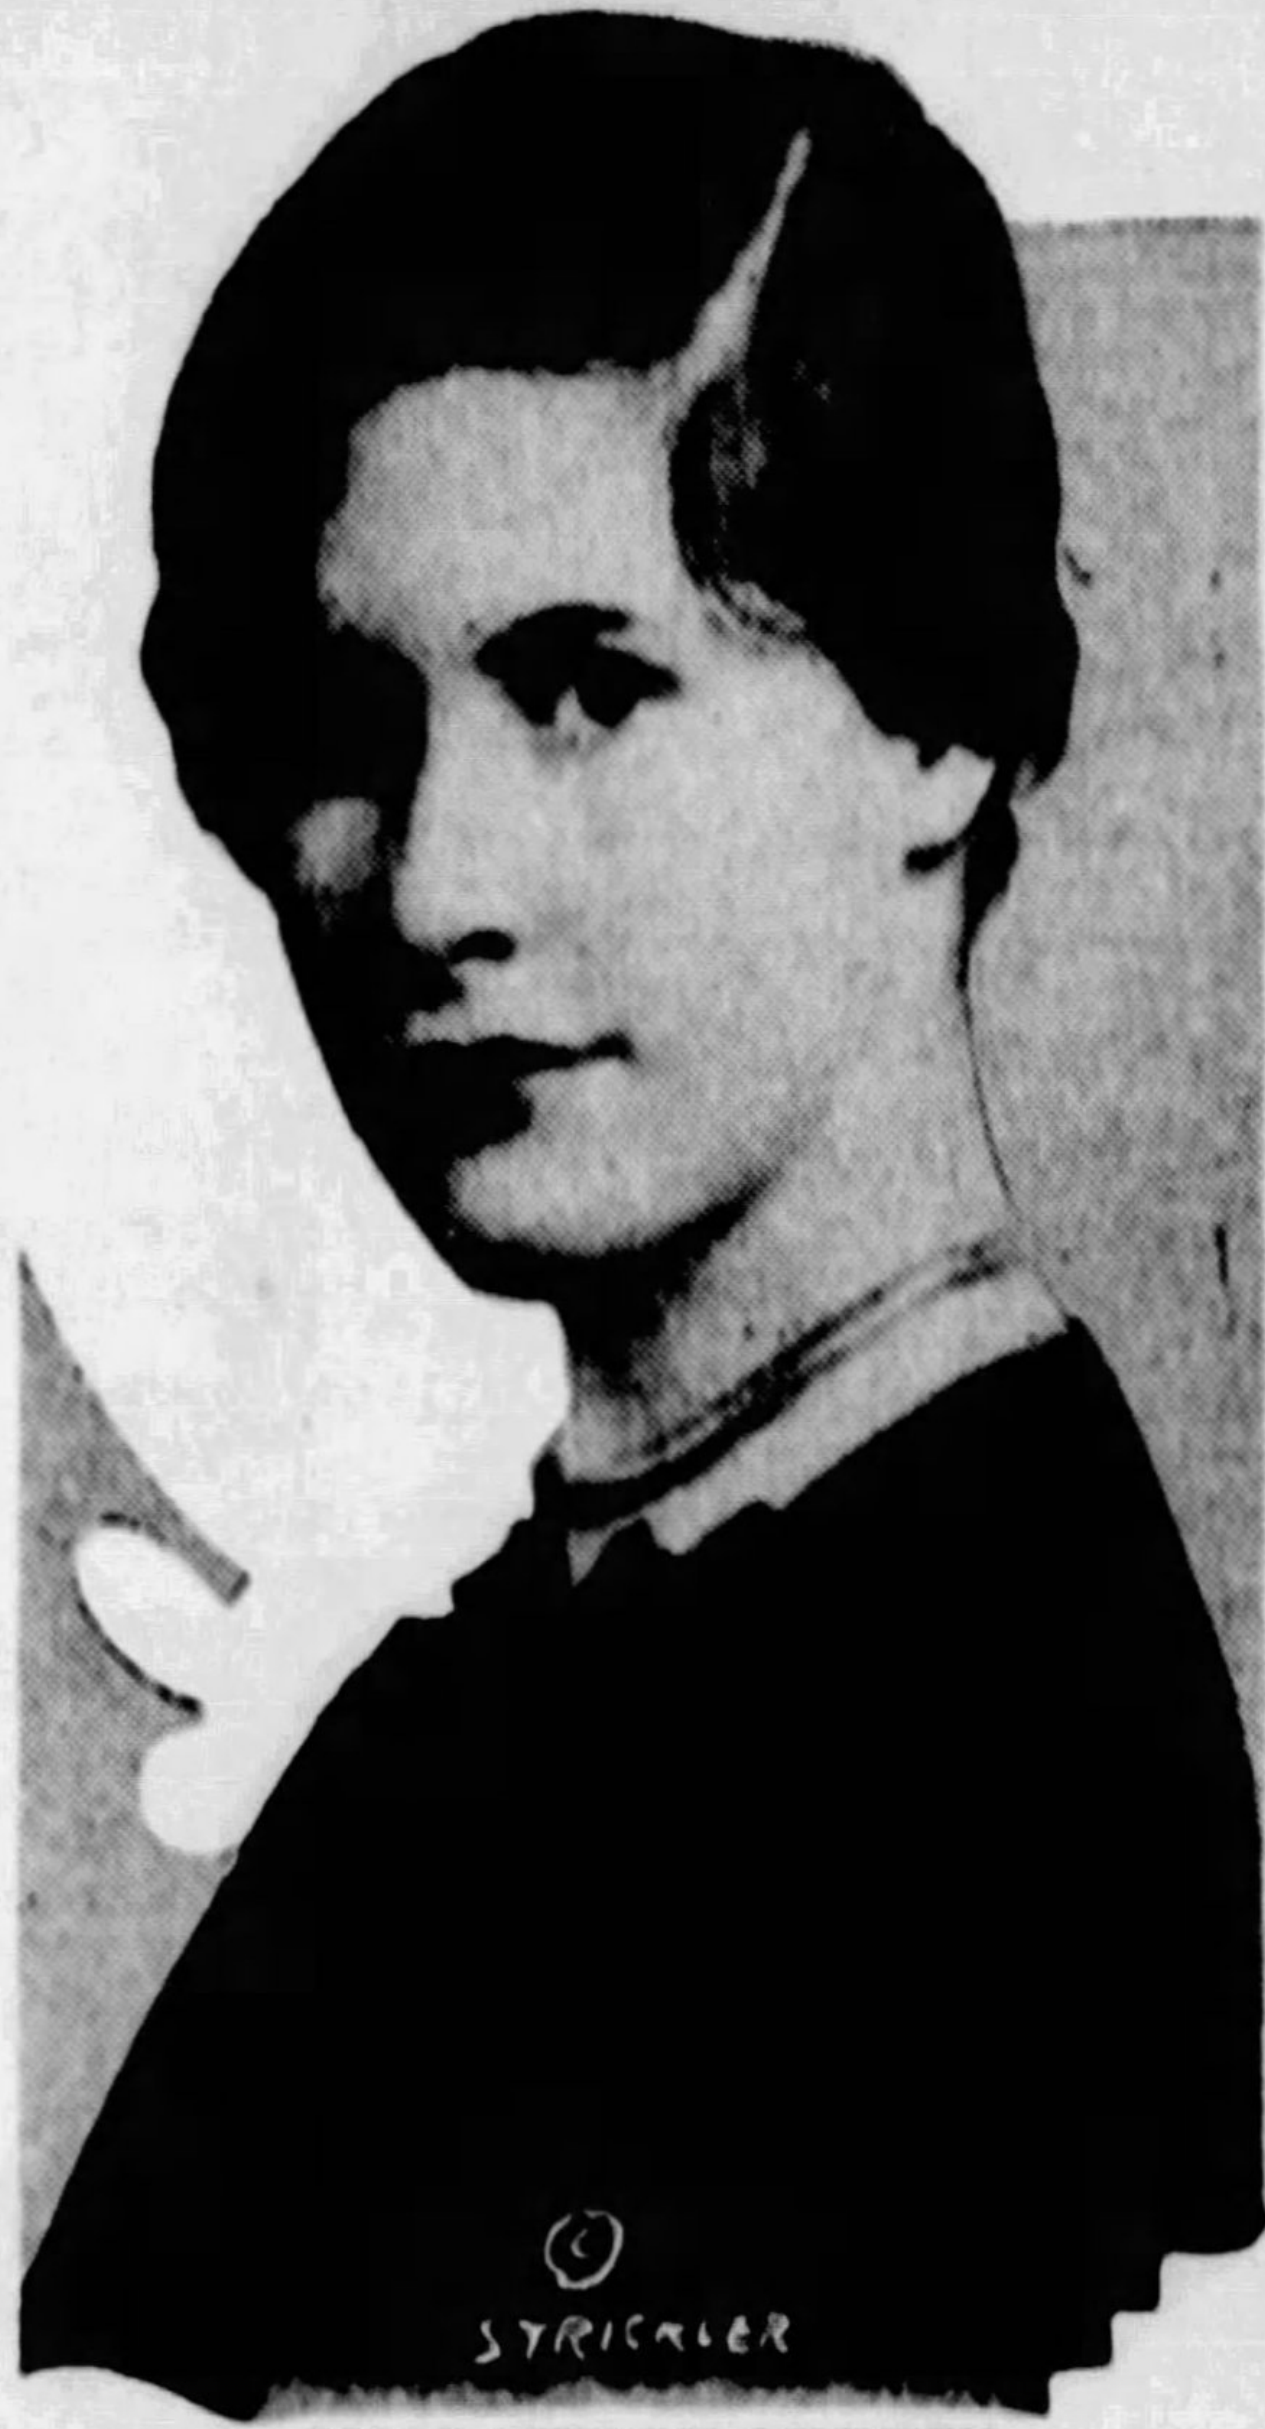
The Harry S. Pauls were married on December 20, 1877, in old Allegheny, in the home of Mrs. Paul's aunt, Miss Mary Knox, of Sherman street. Mrs. Paul was Jennie Lee before her marriage. The Pauls have resided ever since in Oakmont. They have three daughters, Miss Mary Lee Paul and Mrs. Alice Tiers, of Oakmont, and Mrs. William R. Bauersmith, of Bartlett street, and a son, Harry S. Paul, Jr.

Following the services Sunday morning at St. Thomas' Memorial Episcopal Church, Mr. and Mrs. Paul received many congratulations. This church was built by Jacob Paul, father of Harry S. Paul, in memory of his wife, who was Susan Fries before her marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul will remain in Pittsburgh during the holiday season, immediately after which, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Mary Lee Paul, they will leave for Florida, where they will remain for the rest of the winter.

COMING HOME

Miss Betty Curtin, of Wightman street, is expected home Thursday morning from Dobbs Ferry, where she is a pupil.



MISS BETTY CURTIN

Among the many interesting debbies of this season is Jane Foster, daughter of Mrs. Charles Addison Foster, of San Francisco, and granddaughter of Mrs. Harvey Childs, Jr., of Kipling road. She will come out, you will recall, at a ball to be given on December 28 in the Pittsburgh Golf Club by her aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Childs III and Mr. and Mrs. Blair Childs.

Jane has been in the city since October and will not return to the West until late in January. During her debutante season here she is being much entertained.

Mrs. Henry Chalfant will entertain for her with a dinner in her home Friday night, following which the guests will go to the Princeton Triangle Club entertainment.

One of the most brilliant balls of the season honoring the charming buds was that given last night in the University Club by the William McBrides, of Sewickley, for their debbie daughter, Marie Boggs McBride. Five hundred guests were present. The debutante received with her parents, wearing a white chiffon and lace gown, simulating the bouffant style, trimmed with lace embroidered in silver and rhinestones. She carried red roses and gardenias. Mrs. McBride was gowned in black chiffon, embroidered with black beads, and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids.

Both the ballrooms were used, and supper was served in the large dining hall. Poinsettias centered all the tables, and in the ballrooms Christmas decorations prevailed. In the corners were massed small fir trees with southern smilax entwining the balconies. The chandeliers and wall brackets were concealed with huge red velvet and silver poinsettias, hung with twinkling icicles and tinsel.

Among the out-of-town guests at the ball were the junior L. R. Squiers and Herietta Fitch, all of Bowling Green, Ky.; Jessica Holton, of Bethlehem; Carol Berdan, of New York; Frederick C. Collin, of Detroit, and Walter Gaither, of Harrisburg.

An orchestra from Alabama furnished music for the dancing and played during the supper.

Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield, Jr., entertained today with a luncheon in her home in honor of her debutante sister, Florence Wainwright, daughter of the Harris Ewalt Wainwrights. All the debutantes of the season were guests. For decorations poinsettias were used.

The Thomas Alexander Mellons and their daughters, Elizabeth Wightman Mellon and Patsy Mellon, arrived home this morning from Florida, where they spent two weeks fishing.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Isabella Whitten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitten, of Kelly avenue, Wilkinsburg, and Dale James Hucka, which was solemnized Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock in the Whitten home by the Rev. Thomas C. Pears, pastor of the Waverly Presbyterian Church. The bride wore rosewood georgette and carried a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Anna Whitten, as maid of honor, appeared in orchid georgette and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Thomas E. Whitten, her brother, was best man and Harold Rethmeyer was usher. After a western trip, including a visit with Mr. Hucka's parents in Des Moines, Ia., Mr. and Mrs. Hucka will be at home in Forest Hills. The bride is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College for Women and Mr. Hucka is an Iowa State College man.

At a luncheon given Saturday in McCreery's by Mrs. James Roy Maloney, of Indiana, Pa., announcement was made of the engagement of her sister, Miss Elizabeth Langham, daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. N. Langham, of Indiana, to J. Raymond Baldridge, of Pittsburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Baldridge, of Latrobe. Covers were laid for 20. Miss Langham is a graduate of the Indiana State Normal School and Mr. Baldridge is a University of Pittsburgh man. An early spring wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Freese of Alliquippa street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Barbara Freese, to H. Edwin Ramsey, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Ramsey of California avenue.

Among the Wilson College girls home for the holidays are Miss Kathleen Alter, Miss Agnes Bane, Miss Emilie Fulton, Miss Harriet Guigon, Miss Ruth Redding, Miss Mary Ziegler, Miss Katherine Gerwig, Miss Jane Irwin, Miss Dorothy Glassburn, Miss Madeline Case, Miss Laura Mellor, Miss Janet Close, Miss Maraine Haythorn, Miss Mary Elizabeth Henrici, Miss Janet Hutchison and Miss Nancy Larson. The Wilson Club of Pittsburgh will have a breakfast in Webster Hall, December 31, when the undergraduates will give college stunts. Miss Isabel M. Alter is chairman.

Among the girls who have returned home from the Ogontz School for Christmas are Miss Dorothy Hardie, Miss Christine Johnson, Miss Lorraine Taylor, Miss Sara Davis, Miss Katherine Ann Evans, Miss Adalain Keppler and Miss Alice Arnd.

J. A. West and his daughter, Miss Mildred Anita West, of Squirrel Hill avenue, sailed Saturday on the Reliance for a holiday cruise to the West Indies and Panama.

Miss Betty and Miss Dorothy Greig, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. T. G. Greig, of Clifton boulevard, Carrick, will return home tonight from Goucher College for the holidays.

The annual Christmas breakfast of the Thurston Alumnae Association will be held December 28 in the University Club.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL HELD BY CONGRESS OF CLUBS

An exceedingly beautiful candle lighting service, the text for which had been written by Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, the president, was the chief feature of the Congress of Clubs' Christmas festival given yesterday at the clubhouse. The festival, which was one of the most elaborate affairs in Congress history, was conducted by the departments of drama, fine arts, literature and music and each contributed something to the program. Preceding luncheon the choral members dressed in white and carrying lighted red tapers sang several carols, and in lieu of the usual grace at table Mrs. Coslowsky read the Christmas story recorded in St. Luke's gospel.

Holding aloft a white flaming taper, the president kindled the tapers at either side of her, they, in turn, giving light to their neighbors, each candle being made by the text to typify the spiritual attributes of love, peace, faith, hope, harmony, service and understanding. When the beautiful little ceremonial was ended and a red candle had been lighted at every one of the 200 places, the first seven, which were white, were placed in a seven-branch candlestick in the center of the honor table. At that table with Mrs. Coslowsky sat the four de-

VOTE MACHINES REDUCE ERRORS ESTEP SAYS

Congressman Harry A. Estep sees many advantages in voting machines over the present system of conducting elections with paper ballots. He set forth some of the advantages in a letter received by The Sun-Telegraph in response to a request for his opinion on the subject. Citizens of Pennsylvania will pass at the next general election on a constitutional amendment authorizing the use of voting machines. Congressman Estep said:

"The steadily mounting list of candidates and the consequent increase in the size of the ballot, making it difficult to handle, together with the desire for accuracy, speed and economy, have all served to create the demand for a mechanical voting device.

"There seems to be no question of the usefulness of the machines, especially in congested districts. Since the first voting machine was used in the United States at Lockport, N. Y., in 1892, this system of voting has spread until 22 states have now authorized its use.

"The present proportions of the ballot present many possibilities for error on the part of the voter and the election boards. Mistakes on the part of the boards frequently lead to charges of fraud, when, in fact, the officials were without any intent to do wrong. A number of cases of alleged fraud were turned in following the recent election in Allegheny county as the result of mistakes in tabulation. The district attorney, in some instances, reached the conclusion that there was no intent to do anything illegal. Those so charged, however, were, for the time being, under suspicion.

"The five members of the election board are equally responsible under the law for the proper conduct of an election. If one of these officials should prove unscrupulous the other four would be equally liable. This burden of responsibility would be lifted with the installation of the voting machines, for the question of accuracy is shifted from the board to the machine, and the machine is accurate except in instances where its mechanism failed.

"Voting machines make for speedy voting and there is an instance recorded from Buffalo, N. Y., where 1,041 citizens voted in one precinct in one election day on one machine.

"The matter of economy urged in behalf of the machines is based on the possibility of fewer election precincts and consequently fewer election officials. While this may hold good to some extent it must be understood that election precincts are frequently placed with a view to accessibility and accommodation in a certain district rather than the number of voters in a particular section."

LIMESTONE COMPANIES IN $8,500,000 MERGER

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 20.—Merger of four of the largest producers of Bedford limestone of the Bloomington district, which consolidated properties totaling more than eight and one-half million dollars in plants, quarries and equipment, is announced here. The merger brings together under one management the Bloomington Limestone Company, the Chicago and Bloomington Stone Company, the Maple Hill Quarries Company and the Headley-Cline Company. The new company will be known as the Bloomington Limestone Company.

Vaudeville in Davis and Aldine Resembles the Christmas Tree Hung With Lights and Laughter

By GEORGE SEIBEL

George Seibel

VAUDEVILLE is the community Christmas tree of the theater, full of tinkle and tinsel, with something for everybody—songs, dances, comedy, and even geography. In two hours at the Davis Theater yesterday there were allusions to Altoona, McKeesport, East Liberty, and Wylie Avenue, And yet there are people who say vaudeville is not educational! Even current events creep in—yesterday two comedians in two separate acts announced that they "did not choose to run," But, after all, as we sit under the glittering tree, there is always something we reach for with glad hands—something bright and new and clever, Yesterday, at the Davis, it was the act of John T. Murray and Vivian Oakland, who are stars of the screen, but even better worth while in three dimensions. Their travesty of the mystery plays and their Russian skit are really effervescent—which is an adjective applied to an obsolete fluid known as champagne.

Another pair of fine comedians figure in this same bill—Harry Mayo and Basil Lynn. Their act is as good as ever, with its take-off of the English silly ass and the American kidder. There are vast possibilities of mirth in a monocle and a drawl. Laughter is also furnished by the canine comedians of the Loyals, who masquerade as Arabian stallions in the opening of this animal act. And John Barton is another amusing chap, whose act may save many lives, if folks will imitate him and first try their drinks on the furniture to see whether the paint comes off.

A group of dancers headed by Violet McKee and Charles O'Connor, and some droll songs by Ernie and Billie Loos, make up the rest of the vaudeville bill, while the screen feature, "The Life of Riley," introduces George Sidney and Charlie Murray in the humors of a small-town fire department. Truly, the Davis Christmas tree is hung with many good things.

Down on Liberty street, at the Aldine, you will find a similar variety of glittering and glamorous vaudeville offerings. The principal feature is Ruth Roye, a singing comedienne whose facial contortions are as broad as her songs—one of which, "Fifty Million Frenchmen Can't Be Wrong," is really very funny. The best thing of the Aldine bill, however, is "The Baggage Smashers" of Mallia Bart & Co., who have worked up the old expressman joke into an uproarious act of tumbling and slapstick. Praise is also due to the fine aerial act of the Mitkus—she performs difficult evolutions on a brass ladder which he balances high up in the air. Herbert Clifton gives farcical female impersonations that lay no claim to being refined, but are side-splitting, and a band of syncopaters called the Collegians produced the inevitable jazz, with sentimental ballads by Bob Brandies and dances by the Marshall sisters. Here the screen feature is "A Little Journey," based on a story by Rachel Crothers, and giving romantic opportunities to Claire Windsor and William Haines.

And this is what the critic found dangling from the branches of two community Christmas trees in our theaters, as we might call vaudeville with its glitter and blare.

Player Folk -:- In Theaters This Week -:- And Coming

CHARLES MEAKINS, who plays Sergeant Malone in "Rose-Marie," in the Alvin.

FLORENCE REED, star of "The Shanghai Gesture," in Alvin next week.

GRETA GARBO has a leading role in "Love," Christmas week photoplay in Penn Theater.

MOZELLE RANSOM, "Miss Dallas," in Earl Carroll "Vanites," Nixon next week.

HELEN CAREW is prominent in "Wooden Kimona," in Nixon for second week.

HOLIDAY PROGRAMS ARRANGED BY SANDERS'

Four special holiday dances are scheduled for Sanders', Freeport highway, Aspinwall, featuring novel dance music presentations and auxiliary entertainment. Saturday night Gordon Kibbler and his recording orchestra of 17 musicians will play, followed by Al Mabey and his Old Gold Orchestra Monday night, December 26. December 31 Kibbler returns, and Mabey will be on hand again Monday, January 2. Auxiliary entertainment, featuring song and dance specialities will be presented during all of the four affairs.

"WOODEN KIMONO" OPENS SECOND WEEK IN NIXON

"Wooden Kimono" opened the second and final week of its engagement in the Nixon last night. This mystery thriller is about the spookiest and creepiest thing in the way of melodrama that has come along, but it does not permit of analytical review. If you enjoy shivers and shakes and screams and a mysterious murder, "Wooden Kimono" is just the play for you. It is capably acted by a cast including those who took part in the original New York production, it is announced.

SANTA CLAUS ON HARRIS BILL

Santa Claus came to the Harris stage yesterday afternoon and interrupted the regular bill long enough to greet the children and present them with small gifts. The vaudeville program got under way with James Loster "wise-cracking" and stunt-acting at an elevation about six chairs and a couple of tables from the footlights. Then entered Charlotte Worth, who sang a number of popular musical show numbers and who deserved more applause than she received. After Charlottee came the comedians, Foster and Semon—one lean and one fat—who created lots of laughter. There was an interlude to their comedy when the stout boy got sentimental over his war buddy and the Unknown Soldier. In "Banjo-Land," the performers made their appearance through a big banjo stretched across the stage. The act entertained with melodies and dances. There was also an amusing act—especially so to the children on hand to greet St. Nick—offered by some performing dogs. Tom Mix held the center of the screen—in the usual Mix style—in "Silver Valley." Tom ought to try to mix some new ideas into his photoplays, although in the present one he handles a broom as well as a gun. Short screen features completed the bill.

CAMEO PHOTOPLAY FEATURES CLARA BOW

"My Lady's Lips," a melodrama of a newspaper reporter who beats a band of crooks at their own game is the photoplay attraction in the Cameo this week. The film offers romance as well as action. Clara Bow is featured in the cast. Other players include Alyce Mills, William Powell, Ford Sterling, Frank Keenan, John Sainpolis, Gertrude Short and Mathew Betz. A Collegian film, International News and music are on the bill.

Additional Stage and Screen on Page 15.

Animal Act Tops Sheridan Bill

A baby elephant that knows its histronics and a capering zebra are a feature of the current Sheridan Square vaudeville bill. The screen feature is the "High School Hero," which stresses basketball and features Sally Phipps and John Darro. Brilliant and His Company hand out comedy, music and dance under the label, "Stick to Your Horn." Another vaudeville act was offered by the Barr Twins and Arnold Gluck, with Benny Oakland at the piano. Joe Daniels, newspaperman and actor, who is well up on humor, gives an entertaining monologue. Karle and Rovein offer "Banana Oil." There are some gymnasts on the bill also. Other entertainment includes an organlogue and short screen features—also Santa Claus, who hands out gifts to the children.

CAMERAPHONE HAS "A LITTLE JOURNEY"

The screen version of Rachel Crothers' stage production, "A Little Journey," is the current screen feature in the Cameraphone. The picture proves an amusing drama of the adventures met with by a young girl in crossing the continent. Most of the action of the piece takes place aboard a train. The cast includes Claire Windsor, William Haires and Harry Carey. News pictures and a Ben Turpin comedy are on the bill.

GAYETY OFFERS GAY SHOW

"Galeties of 1928," in the Gayety yesterday, proved amusing entertainment. There were songs that pleased and comedy that brought the laughs. Billy Mack, as the chief comedian, "bumped" himself into lots of laughs. Billy is funny and versatile. There were about 12 scenes to the piece, along with a number of specialties. All Darr won applause with his singing of "Sally." He also had his dramatic moments. Helen Davies, Jessie Reece and Dona Davis, assisted by the chorus were responsible for most of the song numbers. These included "Reaching for the Moon," "Eskimo Baby" and "Chu Chin Chu." The atmosphere of the various scenes covered a lot of territory. For example, there was a city street sketch, a glitter of Eskimo land and a sort of take-off on the "White Cargo" theme. Prominent in the cast, in addition to those listed above, were Artie Brooks, Leonard Kramer and Harry Meyers.

"UNDERWORLD" NOW ON OLYMPIC SCREEN

"Underworld," the screen's thrilling melodrama of crooks and crookdom, which won acclaim in the Grand last week, opened an engagement in the Olympic yesterday.

The new Vitaphone bill presents Carlos Sedano, violinist; Hazel Green and her jazz band and Harry and Dan Downing, singing comedians.

Additional Stage and Screen

Laughs Dominate Grand Screen Program

With two comedies, one of feature length and an additional short film, the Grand screen provides laughter moments in plenty this week. The feature is "Now We're in the Air," with Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton as a pair of unwilling aviators who have numerous and funny hair-raising adventures. It is a war picture, but there is nothing but hilarity as the two get into numerous mix-ups. At an aviation school in France they are mistaken for a couple of recruits and in escaping they are carried behind the German lines in a balloon. Again taken for what they are not—German spies—they are sent back to report how strong the American Army is. Captured and sentenced to be shot, they finally come through with glory to themselves. Lupino Lane adds to the merriment in "Hello, Sailor." Whitey Kaufman and his orchestra are the pleasing stage feature, News pictures and music by the Grand Orchestra complete the bill.

Variety Features Burlesque in Academy

"Hollywood Scandals," a Mutual burlesque with a variety of features, is this week's bill in the Academy. It deals with a party of scandal-mongers whose gossip causes complications of an amusing character. Buddie Harrison sings and dances. Sammy Spears and Milt Frankford are responsible for most of the comedy. Jean Fox and Edna Rush sing in specialties. Girls in fancy costumes are on view in a scene called "Peacock Alley." "Honolulu Moon" is sung in a scene representing a Hawaiian village. Oriental specialties are featured.

Barrymore Role Stands Out in Penn Film

There is plenty of variety in the bill being presented in the Penn this week, including "Body and Soul," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a Katherine Newlin Burt tale, Dave Harman's band and other features on the stage. "Body and Soul" is particularly interesting because of Lionel Barrymore's vivid characterization of drink-crazed doctor, who tried to brand his wife to keep her from other admirers and whose better self comes to the surface when he performs an operation which saves the life of the man he knows has supplanted him in his wife's affections. Aileen Pringle and Norman Kerry play the romantic leads but it is the Barrymore picture that stands out. Harman's Band plays tunes which please and accompaniment for other specialties. These include the Penn Rockets, eight girls dancing in unison; Floyd and Brice, comedy acrobats; Murray and Allen, singing comedy songs, and other music by Dick Liebert, organist, and the Penn Orchestra.

"ROSE-MARIE," IN ALVIN ON RETURN TRIP, PLEASES

Presented by the same company which appeared here earlier in the season, "Rose-Marie" returned to the Alvin last night. This musical romance, with comedy and melodrama as principal factors, has received so many words of praise from reviewers and theater patrons that the only comment applicable now is that it is still going strong after numerous reappearances here. That tells the story better than a column of commendation. The company is a good one, including Beulah Berson, in the title role; Paul Donah, Hazel Gaudreau, Charles Meakins, Peggy Pates, Houston Richards and many others. As usual, the "Totem Tom-Tom" number of the dancing girls made a big hit.

POLICE DOG KNOWS COLORS

UNIVERSITY DEAN INSTRUCTS HIM.

"Flash," nw canine sensation of the film world, went before Dr. Karl T. Waugh, dean of liberal arts and instructor of animal psychology at the University of California, for a short course of instruction. At the end of two lessons, Waugh had taught "Flash" to recognize primary colors.

CRAWFORD CO. SHERIFF MUST PAY BACK FEES

MEADVILLE, Pa., Dec. 20.—Under a ruling in the fee case dispute between Sheriff Charles H. Jones and the Crawford county commissioners Judge Prather yesterday ordered Sheriff Jones to pay the commissioners $1,118.57 with interest from January 21, 1927. The opinion was based upon the act of May 23, 1923, and May 11, 1925, under which the fee system was abandoned and the sheriff placed upon a salary basis.

Lily Decides That France Is Handsome; That All Women Talk to Him

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILY LEXINGTON is the spoiled only child of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, who have always lived far beyond their means. Lily has been reared to be thoroughly useless, and her highest ambition is realized when she becomes engaged to STALEY DRUMMOND, a wealthy bachelor, much older than herself. On the morning after he asks her to marry him, he telephones to say he is coming to see her at five that afternoon, and Lily's mother asks him to stay for dinner. Lily begins to look ahead and to wonder what life would be like if she had to eat dinner with Staley every night for years. She likes him, and the thought of his money is more than a pleasant thought to her. But she wonders if she really loves him enough to marry him. Then MRS. LEXINGTON starts talking about the June wedding and the lace veil and the decorations, and in spite of herself, Lily thrills to the thought of a big wedding. She starts out in the rain to ask her chum, SUE CAIN, to be her maid of honor. Sue is having lunch down town, and on her way there Lily sees a very handsome, blue-eyed man looking at her. She feels herself oddly attracted toward him before she notices that he is wearing a driver's uniform and standing beside a taxicab: She starts away from him, then turns, and goes slowly back to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Pat France—what a lovely name!" said Lily to herself. "Pat France!" She liked it immensely. It had such a gay, nonchalant, cheerful sound . . . Pat France . . . Pat.

She turned down one of the jump seats and pushed open the window behind the driver. If he heard her or saw her, he gave no sign. He looked straight ahead of him at the wet street, crowded with automobiles and people and street cars.

A TAXI DRIVER!

"How much money do you make?" she wanted to know.

"Your car skids on a day like this, doesn't it?" she asked presently.

"Yes." He did not turn his head.

"I drive my father's car a great deal—and I hate to be out in weather like this," Lily said, after a long pause.

No answer.

"I should think it would be an exciting life—driving a taxicab," was the next thing she said, her eyes on the man's face.

"What a nice nose he has," she was thinking, as she spoke. She liked the firm way his lips came together, too, and the way his black brows jutted out a little over those blue eyes.

If taxi-driving was an exciting life, Patrick France did not say so. He smiled in an indifferent sort of way and stepped on the gas.

"I suppose he's used to girls doing this thing that I'm doing," thought Lily. "He's good looking, and women always talk to good-looking cab drivers and policemen in all probability."

She closed the window and went back to the corner of the back seat. Her eyes dropped once more to the photograph of Pat France, behind its ising-glass shield.

What a nice, clever look he had, she thought, leaning forward to study it more closely. Straight, honest eyes, a wide, humorous mouth, and the kind of nose that belongs to a man who does things.

Then she noticed how white his collar was above the khaki-colored coat, and how clean his big hands were as they lay on the steering wheel. He certainly was more than good to look at.

Suddenly the car jerked, sputtered, and came to a slow, sliding stop in the wide, wet street they were passing through. The driver leaned forward, listening intently to the despairing sound it made as it came to a halt. Then he jumped out and threw up the orange-colored hood, all glistening and spotted with the rain. He began to fuss with the motor, his lips puckered up in a cheerful whistle.

Presently he stopped whistling and began to hum the tune of the "Cherie," waltz which happened to be popular everywhere at that time.

After a minute or two he slammed down the hood, wiped his hands on a spotless handkerchief, and jumped back into the taxicab. It started at once.

Lily moved over to the "jump seat" once more. "Well, you certainly knew what was the matter with it, didn't you?" she asked, sociably. "The engine of a car is a complete mystery to me. Do you like to tinker with them?"

He nodded, and seemed to fairly light up. "Do I? You bet I do! An automobile engine is the most interesting thing on earth to me. ……I like a car the way—the way Charlie Chaplin likes the movies."

Lily laughed. "You're an expert, then?" she asked, chaffing him.

To her surprise the driver nodded his head vigorously. "Always been crazy about cars," he said. "Ever since I was a kid, and had a red tin auto that wound up with a key—I'm working on an invention of my own right now. It's a whiz!"

His blue eyes flashed with eagerness for an instant. Then Lily, watching his face in the windshield mirror, saw him frown. He lapsed into a grim kind of silence as if he had made up his mind he was talking too much.

"What is your invention?" she asked.

But if he heard her, he gave no sign of it. He never said another word all the rest of the way to the big Lexington house far out on Montpelier road.

As he swung the cab into the gravel driveway, Lily did a thing that she would not have believed herself capable of doing an hour before.

She put out her hands, in their satiny kid gloves, and slipped the card from its ising-glass pocket—the card with the name "Patrick France" and his photograph upon it!

She had just time to slip it into her handbag when he opened the door and handed her the fare slip. She did not tip him, as she certainly would have tipped any other cab driver in Christendom. She had a feeling, somehow, that he wouldn't take a tip from a woman.

And when the orange-colored cab backed out of the drive and started back to town, she stood watching it from the top of the stone steps and wrote its number—"15"—on a page in her little gold-leather address book.

Late that afternoon Staley Drummond came to see his bride-to-be.

In his eagerness he came at four instead of five, and he came bearing gifts. He brought Lily a box of white orchids, delicately marked with color. He brought her a five-pound box of candy and glazed fruits. He brought her five new novels, and a box of silk-tipped cigarets.

Mrs. Lexington met him in the hall and gave him a motherly kiss, although she couldn't have been more than 10 years older than he.

"There's no one Cyrus I would rather welcome into our family than you, Staley," she said warmly—so warmly that if Lily's welcome was a little cold he did not notice it.

She came downstairs, pale and bright eyed in a black satin dress that was a perfect background for Staley's white orchids. But after dinner she took them off and put them in a bowl of water. They were too lovely to wear, she said.

"They made me think of you when I bought them," Staley said, holding her in his arms and kissing her tenderly as if she were some frail bit of statuary that would break in his arms if he held her too tight or kissed her too hard.

They sat down on the big deep couch before the fire and he held her hand—the hand that wore his ring like a glistening tear-drop—in both of his. He told her how she had made every dream of women that he had ever had come true.

"I'm happier at this moment than I've ever been before," he said to her. "We'll spend many an evening like this together, won't we, when we're married? Not junketing around, but just sitting before our own fire. You and I—no one else—"

Lily nodded without enthusiasm. Somehow or other, it didn't sound so aluring—sitting before the fire in Staley's big beautiful house—with only Staley for company. Staley belonged in a crowd, laughing and talking, cracking jokes, lighting cigarets, playing cards, dancing as no other man could dance.

"What's the matter with you tonight? You don't seem happy," he said to her now. "Are you sorry you've promised you'll marry me in June? Is that what's wrong?"

"Silly!" said Lily, and smiled into his eyes. She flicked the end of his nose with one playful finger. "Silly Stilly!"

He took her in his arms again and looked straight at her. "You do care for me, don't you, Lily?"

She laughed again but this time she didn't meet his eyes. "I've been wanting you to ask me to marry you for months and months," she said.

That was the truth, at any rate. She had wanted him to—just as prayerfully as her mother had wanted him to.

She had wanted to be Mrs. Staley Drummond. She still wanted to be!

But as she sat there, with his arms around her, looking up at him from under her thick, curving lashes, she was thinking about a cab driver who was working on some kind of an invention for automobiles.

And, as if in answer to that thought, the door of the living room opened and Mrs. Lexington called to her from the threshold.

"Lily, there's a cab driver out here on the porch. He says he

SNOW AND COLD FAILS TO CHECK CROWD

Thousands of North Siders braved the snow and cold last night to join in the North Side Chamber of Commerce's Christmas tree celebration in West Side park. In the photograph above Mayor Charles H. Kline is standing next to Mrs. W. J. Billings and Charles P. Lang, resigning secretary of the North Side chamber, as they watch Santa perform for the huge crowd.

BRING BACK PARENTS, TOTS' PLEA

If Santa Claus can restore wayward fathers and mothers to lonesome little children, he will bring them greater happiness by that than by all his gifts of toys and sweets. Believing that the great and good man, prancing up with his reindeer team on Christmas Eve, can accomplish all things for the joy of his little friends, at least two children in Western Pennsylvania homes are looking forward to that mysterious night hoping that their missing parents will be brought back by Kriskringle.

Rose Marie Palomis, 11, McKeesport, is looking for the return of her mother, Mrs. Ethel Palomis Morgan, who left home two months ago and deserted Rose Marie and three little brothers. The children want Santa Claus to be their mother's escort back. Rose Marie, living with her grandmother, fears she will be sent to an institution unless mama returns by Christmas time, according to a letter to Santa Claus written by the child's aunt.

Erma Eichler, 9, of Leechburg, wants her daddy to come home. In a letter to Santa Claus she writes that Thomas C. Eichler left home March 24, 1926. "If you see him," she tells Santa, "please tell him that I want him to come home for Christmas, for I am homesick to see him."

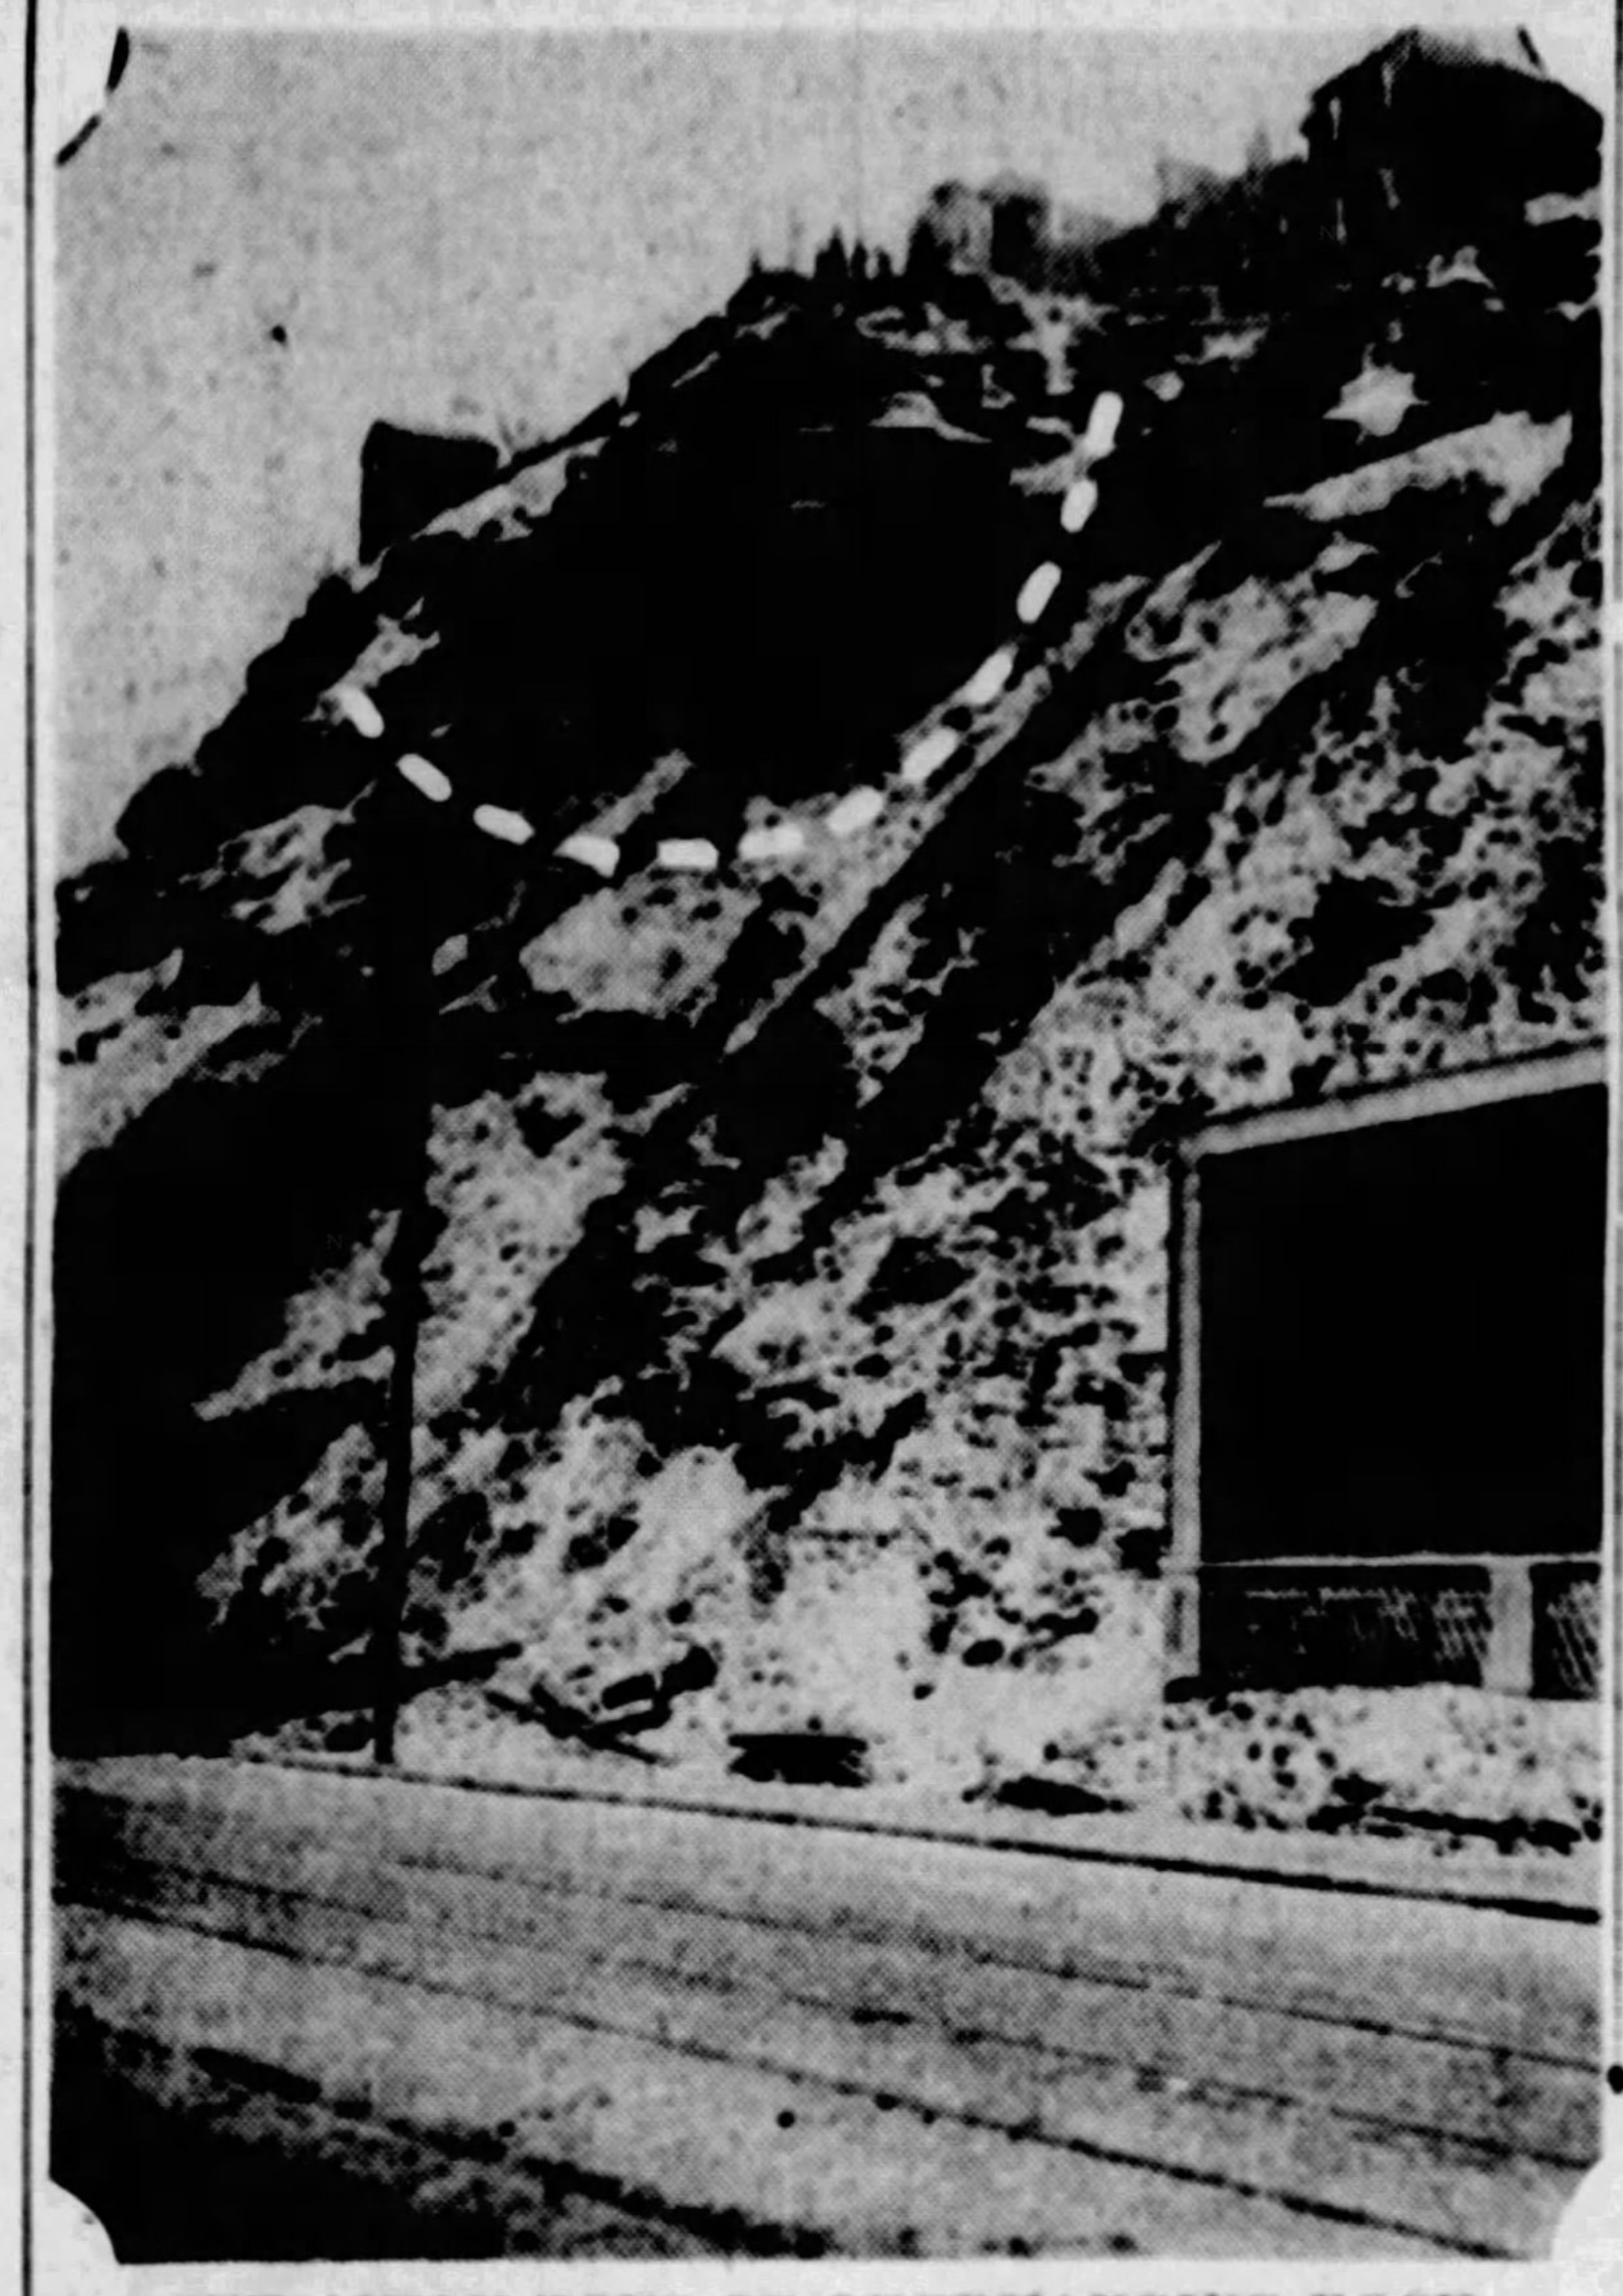
BLAST TRAFFIC HAZARD



CUT AWAY TONS OF OVERHANGING ROCK

Hundreds of tons of rock that had began to slip from the rest of the hillside above the East Ohio street boulevard, at Walker's Bridge, endangering traffic in the street below, yesterday was blasted down with heavy charges of black powder, by city engineers. City steps leading from the boulevard to Troy Hill were completely demolished. Inclosed by dotted line is the rock as it was before the blast.

WINTRY BLASTS END, WARMER PREDICTED

The cold wave abated overnight and moderate winter weather prevailed today. The temperature, 19 at 8 o'clock last night, rose slowly and at 10 o'clock this morning registered 24. Seasonable weather is the outlook, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said.

Heavy snow fell in the northwestern part of the state; at Warren 7 inches, at Franklin 5 inches, impeding traffic. Over the plains states there still is a vast high pressure area.

Lily Decides That France Is Handsome; That All Women Talk to Him

must see you about something," she said. "I can't get rid of him."

CHAPTER III

LILY'S big eyes grew bigger still with amazement.

"A taxi-driver to see me!" she said quickly. "A taxi-driver!"

She knew, of course, that it must be Pat France. But why on earth had he come here to her father's house? What did he want to see her for?—Insisting upon seeing her, too!

"The cheek of him!" she said to herself, and then another thought came tumbling into her mind . . . He had come for that card she had taken from his cab that afternoon! The card with his name and his picture on it—the card that was lying in the bottom of her handbag upstairs this very minute!

With a nervous little laugh she got up from the flowered-chintz couch where she and Staley were sitting, and he got up too. He looked at her with a twinkle of amusement in his eyes.

"What have you done? Forgotten to pay a cab fare, Lily?" he asked good-humoredly.

And then Lily did a foolish and senseless thing. She said the first thing that came to her lips, and it was a white lie. A lie that was going to breed a great deal of trouble before it was forgotten.

"Yes," she said, almost without thinking. If she thought about it at all, it simply seemed the easiest thing to say—the easiest explanation of this unexpected visit from a taxicab driver.

She walked slowly out of the room and into the big hall of the house that was more like a friendly room than just an entrance hall, with its coal-fire in the grate and its big bowl of daffodils on the center table.

Just inside the door stood Pat France. He had his cap in his hand and under the artificial light his blue eyes looked even bluer than they had in the afternoon.

Lily was struck with his exceeding good looks again as she walked straight up to him and said "What do you want?" in the coolest tones imaginable.

"My identification card," he told her quietly. "You took it out of my cab this afternoon, and I'd like it."

His eyes swerved from her face as he spoke, and turning, Lily saw that Staley had come up behind her and was standing at her elbow, with his hands in his pockets and his lips pursed up under his little mustache.

"Please let me take care of this, Staley," she begged him, wondering if he had heard what Pat France had said. "Please go back into the other room with Mother. This is my affair—really."

But Staley was stubborn. All his life he had got things that he wanted by sticking to his point and refusing to budge. He refused to budge now.

He looked at the blue-eyed cab driver who topped him to a good three inches, and was exceptionally good-looking to boot. Then he looked at the girl who had promised to marry him just the night before. She had gone as white as the orchids he had brought her that afternoon, and her fingers picked nervously at a frill on her black dress . . .—There seemed to be more to this situation than just an unpaid taxi bill, as Staley saw it.

"How much do you owe this fellow, Lily?" he asked.

For a second Lily hesitated, not knowing what to say. And in that second she was lost. For Pat France answered the question.

"She doesn't owe me a five-cent piece," she said. "I'm asking her for a—for a paper of mine. She rode in my cab this afternoon and I thought she might have picked it up."

"Did you?" Staley asked, and Lily shook her vivid head. She looked as innocent as a baby, as she stood there with the electric light shining in her wide-open eyes.

"No, I didn't, Staley," she fibbed again, hating herself for it and yet not knowing what else to do.

"There isn't anything else to do," she thought miserably.

She felt Staley's gaze on her face, and it came to her in a flash that he knew she was lying. But she brazened the thing out. She kept shaking her head slowly.

"What would I want with a taxi man's identification card?" she asked. "I can't understand why he thinks I have it. That's the paper he's lost, Staley. His identification paper."

Staley pulled at his little blonde toothbrush of a mustache. Then his hand went back to his trousers' pocket and he drew a ten dollar bill from it. He held it out to Pat France.

"Will this help to straighten things out? To get another card?" he asked.

The driver looked at the slip and then at Lily. Finally he looked at the man who stood behind her in that protecting way, with one arm around her shoulders as if he owned her already.

"I can get another card," he said shortly. "Sorry to have made you all this trouble."

He went out, pulling his cap down over his eyes as he closed the door behind him.

Lily breathed a great sigh of relief and smiled dazzingly up at Staley. "Well—wasn't that odd!" she said in her fluting voice.

The man nodded. "Yes, it was," he answered bluntly, "because you told me you'd forgotten to pay your cab fare. But he says you did pay it."

Lily shrugged a perfect shoulder. "Why, no, I didn't owe him any cab fare," she said, realizing that she was getting in deeper and deeper with every word she uttered, "you must have misunderstood me, Staley."

They went back into the living room.

"Let's get out the card table and play bridge with Mother and Dad," Lily suggested. She didn't want to be alone with Staley Drummond another moment that night.

But he shook his head. "No, I'm going early," he said. "I'm catching a train at half-past nine. I'm going out of town on business for a day or two."

They sat down again on the flowered couch. But they did not talk much. Once or twice Lily looked up suddenly from the pink coals that glowed in the grate and caught Staley's puzzled stare. He seemed to be trying to figure out something.

Finally, as they stood together in the chilly vestibule at 9 o'clock he asked her a question. "I want you to tell me the truth about something, dear," he said. "Had you ever seen this taxi man until today?"

Lily solemnly shook her head. "Never!" she said firmly. "I never saw him in my life until this afternoon. He drove me home from downtown"—she gave him an entrancing smile and crossed her heart like a child that is telling the truth. "What do you think I've been doing? Having a love affair with a taxi-driver?"

"I'll call you up long-distance tomorrow," he said, between long kisses. "What time will you be home? All day?"

"All day," Lily answered. "Waiting to hear from you."

He left her then, and she went thoughtfully up the stairs to bed.

The little card that had made so much mischief was still lying in bottom of her handbag. She took it out and propped it up against the mirror of her dressing-table while she brushed her hair and cold-creamed her face.

She was looking at Pat France's pictured face with dreamy eyes when the door opened and her mother came in. She often dropped in this way for a cozy chat on the rare evenings that Lily spent at home.

(To be continued tomorrow.)

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Have you ever heard of anything so simply SCREAMing? Well, ANYways, WHAT can you DO about the situation when you are confronted with two BENnies who are such perfectly AWful NUMBskulls, my dear, because when I was simply CRAMMED with all these psychoanALysis exPRESSions and everything and tried FRANtically to psychoanalyze BOTH of them they acted like perfect BOOBS about it and hadn't the VAUGEst IDEA what it was all aBOUT, but of course NOW, you might know, they are all aGOG with imPAtience to get the LOW down on the PSYching situation because prob'ly they want to disCOVer whether I'm in LOVE with either of them at this point and they think if I tell them enough about PSYchoanALysis they can find OUT—can you BEAR it, my dear? Well, ANYways, even if I could reMEMber what this psychoanALysis was all aBOUT I couldn't be BOTHered trying to explain it to those obNOXious YOUTHS, my dear, because MEN are so STUpid they always want to know all the DEtail of something like that, which is so perfectly ridic'lous because I think you ought to KNOW about a subject in just a BROAD, general way, sort of—I ACtually DO'"

Madge Sees a Storm Brewing With Dicky and Philip Veritzen at Its Center

PHILIP VERITZEN'S announcement of his plan to visit the east end of the island, with his carefully stated reasons for the trip, answered two questions which had been puzzling me ever since our dinner at the mountain inn.

I knew now where he meant to stage our next conference over the problems he had brought back from Europe with him. It would be at the farmhouse or at some eating resort within driving distance of my home. I could see breakers ahead for either choice. Visions of my mother-in-law's face at such a consultation rose before me with a clearness at once ludicrous and terrifying. And though I knew Dicky, because of the agreement we had made concerning the conduct of our lives in this time of estrangement, would make no open objection to anything I might do, yet I shrank from the covert hostile disapproval which I knew was his for any association of mine with Philip Veritzen.

The other question which his little speech answered was the one I had asked myself when I purposely told him that I thought the Lincolns were Transvanians. Would he emulate the frankness of his son, and reveal the fact that he was Transvanian, already known to me through the boy's ingenuous confidence, or would he keep his nationality still a secret? By his remark that he "had had some little experience with Transvanians," and was "much interested in anyone of that nationality" I realized that he had no intention of betraying the secret he had guarded so carefully—for what reason I could not guess. Everyone who had ever heard of him knew that he was of foreign birth. It was only the country from which he had come that remained unknown.

I caught myself back from the contemplation of these two phases of my employer's speech with the realization that he had stopped talking and was waiting for me to answer his flamboyantly courteous announcement that he could not have the heart to drag me up to the hot city for a conference. There was but one thing for me to do, and I did it. With a smile which I hoped would pass muster as genuine, I broke into exclamatory speech.

"How wonderfully thoughtful of you!" I said, "although I really do not mind the city in the summer as much as do many people. But I know you will love the east end of the island."

"I have driven through that section, and I know how charming it is," Mr. Veritzen returned. "Let me see, isn't there an unusual hotel down in that direction, situated on a hill, overlooking the bay, wonderful view, broad verandas, delicious cooking, and an odd fish of a proprietor who—"

He hesitated and I finished his sentence.

"Who will not permit anyone to stay who asks what price his rooms are? Yes, that hotel, the Bayside House, is only two miles from the farm."

Mr. Veritzen struck his hands together with an enthusiastic gesture oddly at variance with his dignity.

"There's my home for the next few weeks," he said. "I have been promising myself another visit to that inn ever since my first—an only—visit there! That old chap, the proprietor, appealed to me immensely. 'I do not overcharge,' he said to me, when I had seen him turn some people away incontinently because they asked what prices he asked for his rooms and meals, 'and I wish people discriminating enough to appreciate the accommodations I give them, with no thought of the price.'"

"Lovely for you, Phil," Lillian drawled, "but rather hard on the poor devils who go motoring without a small fortune in their jeans."

"People without sufficient money for a comfortable holiday shouldn't go to a hotel of that type," Mr. Veritzen said with a betraying touch of haughtiness in his manner which made we wonder whether in those old Transvanian days of his he had not known the touch of iron poverty which so often breeds arrogance when the lean days give place to the fat ones.

Smile Tonight

Your teeth are not naturally "off color"—just film coated

MANY heartaches come from "off-color" teeth. Teeth that ruin pretty smiles. Now dingy teeth, as dental authorities prove, can be restored to whiteness quickly.

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully clear off. A film that absorbs food discolorations, etc.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a slippery coating covering your teeth. Beneath it are the white teeth you envy often in others. It keeps your smile unattractive. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea.

Dentists say the way to remove it is with the new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent. All druggists have it. Works wonders on dingy teeth. 10-day test will be sent for coupon.

partment chairmen, Mrs. Chester F. Johnston, of the drama, who presided over the program; Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips, literature chairman; Mrs. W. A. McMaster, of fine arts; Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell, of the music department; Miss Helen Grimes, a past president; Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, representing Mrs. John S. Sloan, the other past president; board members and the honor guests, Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, Mrs. John E. McKirdy, Mrs. John M. Phillips and Mrs. Richard B. Perry, all of the State Federation.

The post-luncheon program consisted of comprehensive and informative book reviews by Mrs. Marie Tello Phillips, two exquisite poems by their author, Mrs. McMaster, a characteristically appealing talk by Mrs. John M. Phillips, songs by Mrs. Mitchell and a seasonable number by Mrs. Neva Morris, reader.

The decorations were particularly effective. Broad streamers of silver on red extended the length of the four long tables; a silver bowl holding silver foliage marked the center of the speakers' table and on the wall behind was an electric star which was illuminated as the assemblage sang "Follow the Star," the words of which were also by the Congress president. At the places designated for the department and standing committee chairmen were beautifully-bound engagement books, gifts from Mrs. Coslowsky.

The Woman's City Club is busier than the proverbial bee hive these days. In fact, in a quiet way this constantly growing organization is one of the busiest in town. Scarcely a day goes by without some kind of informal gathering and there are so many demands for reservations for private parties, that the club officially finds it difficult to secure a date for any affair. Bridge teas, bridge luncheons, all of them informal, are especially popular this week and almost every afternoon will find two or three tables of bridge in play, the players remaining for tea afterwards.

The club rooms have taken on a most festive appearance in their holiday attire. In one corner of the living room stands a tall tree decorated and lighted entirely in green and silver. Holly wreaths, ribbon-tied, hang in the living room windows and throughout the rooms there are dozens of Jerusalem cherry plants. The large table in the dining room and every small table in the tea room have their lighted red tapers in crystal holders and the tea room has its own decorated tree, a silver-decked fir, which occupies a table near the entrance.

Red flaming tapers, standing in Christmas holders in the center of the tables and at each place and alternating with miniature fir trees, formed the decorations at the Christmas dinner given last night at the Ruskin by the Women's Press Club. Covers were laid for 21. While there was no set program, letters were read from all the out-of-town members, including Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart, the club's honorary member, who now lives in Washington; Miss Marjorie O'Donnell, its newest member, who is also a resident of Washington; Mrs. Edith Taylor Thomson of Hollywood; Mrs. Louise Landis Loughner of San Francisco; Mrs. Rose Collins Jones, Florida; Mrs. J. J. Thompson, Connellsville; Mrs. Mabel Steel Spear, Canton; Miss May Stranathan, Cumberland, O.; Mrs. William H. Nicholas, Jr., New York, and Mrs. Mary Blair Thompson, who is spending the winter in Roanoke, Va. Miss Mary L. Hay had charge of the dinner. Gifts were brought for the Toy Mission.

There was an unusually large attendance last night at the annual party given by the juniors for the seniors of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club. It was held in the Y. W. C. A. Community House and the following program was presented: Vocal solo, Miss Maud Cook; piano solos, Miss Analene Harper; "Her Christmas Hat," by Mrs. C. D. Jeffrey, Miss Ruth Newell, Miss Muriel Reis, Miss Ruth Braddock, Mrs. K. W. Bohren, Miss Eleanor Graham, Miss Elsie Deech, Miss Alena Horner and Miss Betty Newell, coached by Miss Gertrude Bradshaw. A social hour supplemented the program.

Mrs. Charles Barnum, Mrs. J. C. Altland, Mrs. A. A. Beard and Mrs. D. J. Walter gave the papers yesterday before the Monday Club of Carnegie, the topics being "Childhood in Scandinavia," "Schools and Universities," "Christmas in the Northland" and "Hans Christian Andersen." Music was furnished by Mrs. O. S. Heck, contralto, accompanied by Mrs. J. C. Bigham, and there also was assembly caroling. Mrs. Samuel Kipp was hostess in the Y. W. C. A.

The seniors of the Woman's Club of McKeesport will be entertained by the juniors today in the home of Miss Jean Johnston, the junior president. The hostess group will present a playlet for the entertainment of their elders. The seniors observed their twenty-ninth anniversary last Friday with a luncheon in the J. S. Mack home, Union avenue. Each guest told a humorous story, there was assembly singing and an exchange of gifts. Gifts were also received from former members of the club who are now living in Arizona and California.

Treating Asthma Without Use of Drugs

THIS is an age when too many persons are resorting to drugs. It is an evil habit. It has but one end—disaster.

If you have pain, particularly recurring pain, or any other symptom which comes often, find the cause for it. Remove that cause, the pain disappears and you have not done something to encourage the development of a dangerous drug habit.

DR. COPELAND

The trouble with men and women is that they walk into bad practices, not thinking or realizing what dangers await them. The desire to escape suffering blinds them to everything else.

"Dope" of every sort is dangerous. The pain-killing drugs are merely different forms of narcotic drugs. To use them is unwise. On your own account you should not take such medicines. You should not give them to others. It is only under the advice of a physician that a habit-forming drug should be used.

One of the ailments for which much self-prescribing is done, is that unsatisfactory disease—asthma. Temporary relief follows the use of a narcotic. In the long run the medicine is far worse than the disease.

In asthma there are attacks of suffocating. It seems impossible to catch the breath. Almost without warning the victim finds himself in a struggle for breath. A violent attack is terrifying to the patient. That is why he is willing to take any kind of medicine having in it the highest hope of relief.

It is believed now that a "foreign protein" is responsible for the attack of asthma. This means that some food or other may be responsible for the symptoms. The food protein acts as a poison, causing swelling of the tissues in the breathing passageways.

To find out what food is to blame, inoculations are made, much as vaccination is performed, using one after another of the preparations. When one is found that causes redness and swelling of the seat of the inoculation, that may be considered as the particular foodstuff which is creating all the trouble.

It is indeed true that "what is one man's food is another man's poison." White of egg, or fish, or oysters, or clams, or some other common food, may be capable of generating a lot of trouble in the system. Reaction to this particular food may be pronounced. When it is we may be confident it is the offending substance.

The vaccination material is carefully prepared. The food substance is sterilized and there need be no fear that harm will result from the tests.

Of course, there are many disappointments in their use, but if a way can be found to control one case of asthma out of twenty, it is well worth while to make these skin tests. Your family doctor will tell you all about them.

Answers to Health Queries

A. E. Q.—What can I do for superfluous hair on my face?

A.—Superfluous hair may be removed by the use of the electric needle. The work must be done by an expert skilled in this particular line. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

V. H. Q.—What causes the veins in the legs to swell and cause small bumps?

A.—This condition is probably due to varicose veins. Bandaging or wearing an elastic stocking is often effective, but in most cases surgical procedure is necessary.

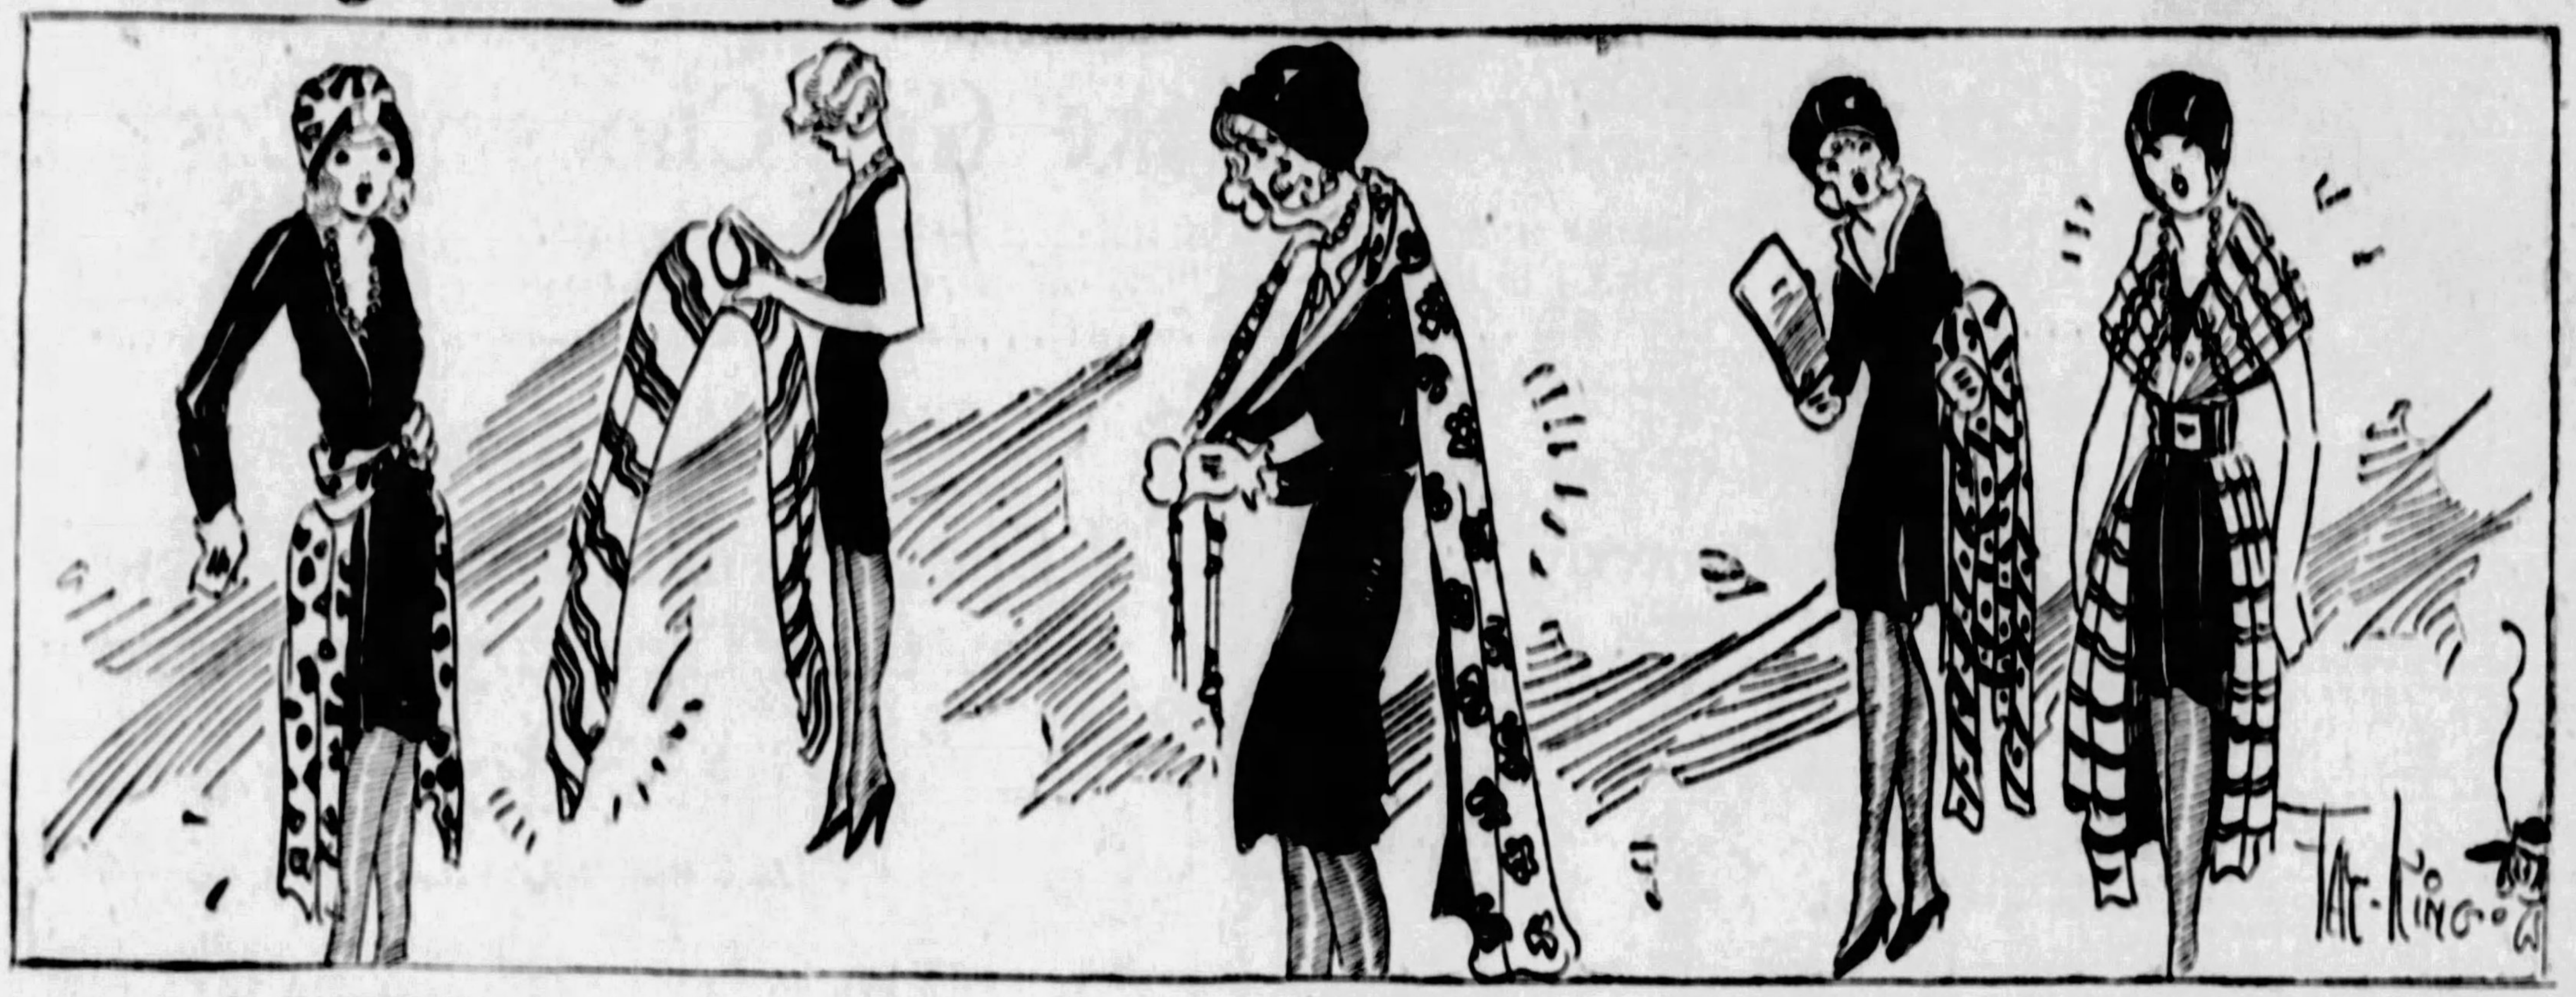
Fay King Suggests Useful Scarf-Sash-Skirt



By FAY KING.

I WONDER that some of these clever designers of women's wear don't figure out some pretty little sash skirt or scarf cape that can be tossed on when one sits in cars and wicker furniture that puts runs into our stockings.

The short skirt is no protection to stockings, and it is disheartening to feel a frayed piece of cane chairing nob a run in one's hosiery.

Also, the girl who is neat and takes the best of care of her clothes dislikes very much to sit in dusty and dirty car seats or benches.

It seems to me that something very attractive in a light throw-on could be designed that could still be adjusted as a protector for a pretty dress and one's stockings.

Since womtn are wearing so much barbaric and oriental jewelry, this scarf or sash arrangement would only add to the oriental attractiveness of her other ornaments.

This little scarf skirt might be made of one length of material with a neck hole left to slip it over the head, and then might be belted in or slipped through one's dress belt.

I don't claim to be anything in the way of a dress designer, but some clever person in that line might understand what I mean and design something in a popular little affair of this sort that will protect dresses and stockings from the rip and tear of neglected car seats.

When love and skill work together expect a masterpiece.—CHARLES READE.

A MOST interesting and beneficent rulership of planetary forces should make for a day of opportunity and achievement. Cherished aims should approach fruition, with advancement of the interests and financial security.

There may be a change, radical and far-reaching, possibly affecting the residence and employment. But there is an admonition against secret diplomacy or connections with trusts or close corporations, though with prudence these bring benefits.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an eventful and progressive year, with fulfilled ambitions and corresponding increase of fortunes. There may be an important and abrupt change, with changed environment and employment. Connections with large corporations, or secret agreements, may thrive if discretion and tact be employed. Speculation might be successful.

A child born on this day may have much skill and ingenuity and should be qualified for important positions in life. Should succeed in diplomatic or other government berths.

HERE IS INSTANT RELIEF FOR DEAFNESS
Head Noises, Ear Aches
Roaring and hissing sounds, discharge, pains, sensitive and tender ears, all ear drum trouble. You will be surprised how quickly Aurine will help you. You may be a chronic long-time sufferer, you may have tried many things without relief, but do not give up hope before you know what Aurine Ear Balsam can do for you. Dr. Edward Kolar, M. D., said, "Aurine helped cases I had given up as hopeless. A truly remarkable scientific remedy."
Stop paying high prices for earphones, stop buying expensive treatments and enjoy the glorious relief that more than 100,000 others have found in Aurine. A few drops in each ear and relief comes instantly. Mr. R. P. Maxwell, a well-known Deputy Sheriff, says, "Just started using my second bottle and am glad to state that I can now hear my watch tick. Today was the first time, this summer, I heard the church bell ring." No matter how stubborn or what your trouble is, you must try Aurine. No risk, no chance, no doubt, Aurine must do the work for you or nothing.

Santa Makes Appeal For More Toys

Unless large donations of toys are made immediately to the Toy Mission or an equivalent in gifts of cash are given it is certain that many children in Pittsburgh are to be dissapointed and Christmas be made a season of heavy hearts to them. Under an avalanche of requests for aid in toy-giving, Manager George L. Bond at the Mission today made an earnest appeal for more donations to assist the work.

"Everything received up until last night has been packed and tagged and still we seem to have an endless list of names of boys and girls not yet provided for," said Mr. Bond. "The people have given more generously than ever before and the Sun-Tele trucks have been busy bringing in toys, books and dolls from the various newspaper agencies as well as from the Pittsburgh Railways Company car barns, but we need more and more. Gifts of money are promptly invested in new toys and we make these go as far as possible. We need more toys and if toys are not to be had, we need more money.

"Articles suitable for boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 14 are most required. For children of this age we give good books, baseballs, bats, skates, or useful utensils and wearing apparel. In order that our distribution can be made on Saturday, it is necessary that our gifts be received not later than Thursday."

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

THESE athletes of Western Pennsylvania just naturally have something that keeps them in demand. Howard Shanks of Monaca was in the American League as a player for 14 years. The past season saw him performing in the American Association and the International League, but 1928 will bring Howard back on the main-line. He will be a lieutenant of the Cleveland Indians under Chief Rajah Peckinpaugh. Peck and Shanks were teammates at Washington where the Beaver countian played for 11 seasons. Howard's diamond versatility was so pronounced that he played every position on the field except at the battery points.

SHANKS.

EAST LIVERPOOL and Youngstown prepped Shanks for the big show. Howard made his start in the Pottery City and later starred for Youngstown. Shanks eventually was traded to the Red Sox and then to the Yankees. Always rated as a smart performer, Shanks should be of much aid to his old sidekick in Cleveland.

IN the event that Peckinpaugh directs his club from the bench the crop of playing managers for the coming season will be almost negligible. Outside of Bucky Harris the active leaders will have disappeared. Ray Schalk may catch now and then for his White-hosed fighters and Peck may see fit to do an infield trick when the Indians are hard-pressed, but Harris will be the only pilot "in there" every day.

DAVE BANCROFT and Bob O'Farrell were playing pilots in the Heydler circuit this year, but both have been shorn of their authority, the senior circuit thus being without that interesting athlete known as playing manager. There is something of direct appeal in the leaders who lead by action.

May Force Settlement

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Severance of football relations between the Military Academy at West Point and the Annapolis Naval Academy caused a stir in Congress yesterday when Representatives Fish (Rep.) of New York and Britten (Rep.) of Illinois demanded that the schools get together on a compromise.

Britten filed resolutions which would make it compulsory upon the teams to continue their football games. The secretaries of War and Navy are ordered to effect a compromise over eligibility of players.

As a compromise Fish suggested that four years of experience on varsity teams shall be the maximum allowed for players of West Point and Annapolis teams.

"It is not in the interest of football or West Point to solicit appointments for outstanding college stars and then permit them to play an additional three years at West Point," said Fish, adding:

"Capt. Wilson of this year's West Point team has been playing college football for seven consecutive years and Capt. Hewitt of last year's team has a similar record.

"If West Point will not accept the three-year rule adopted at Annapolis and by practically all the big colleges, I suggest limiting former college players to a total of four years on varsity teams as a compromise."

Fish represents the West Point district in Congress and is a former Harvard football star.

Britten, who is ranking Republican on the Naval Affairs Committee, took a shot at the "stubborn Army mule." He said:

"The apparent severance of athletic relations between Annapolis and West Point has given the country a shock which should be immediately set at rest by executive action.

"Failure to play the 1928 game would do more to hurt the fine cordiality now existing between the Army and Navy, than could anything else I know.

VETERAN WITH RAUHS

BUCKETS SANDOMIRE

Former Coffey Club and Amerita star, who will appear in the lineup of the Enoch Rauh Club tonight against the Broadway Club in an Allegheny County League contest at Columbus Temple. Sandomire had a tryout with the Philadelphia Club of the American Professional League this year, but returned to Pittsburgh when he could not come to terms with the owners. An excellent shot and a heady player, Sandomire has added considerable strength to the Rauhs this season.

SOCCER

by TOM BIRKS

PLENTY of soccer is carded for the Christmas holidays, games being scheduled for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, giving the soccerites of the district plenty to enthuse over during the weekend.

Of course while plenty of interesting games will be scheduled locally, most of the interest will be centered on the playing of the national challenge cup tie at Cleveland when Pittsburgh Soccer Club meets one of our arch enemies in the American-Hungarians.

Owing to the game being played Sunday it is hardly possible that a big contingent from the Steel City will make the trip to Woodland Park field in the Forest City where the Hungarians play their home games. But fans hope that better weather will attend the playing of this game than marked the time Morgan made the trip on a zero day. The Hungarians have a good club but there is no reason why Pittsburgh cannot take their measure.

Ivor Hoskins has had plenty of experience in inter-city games and most of the players on the Pittsburgh squad are veterans who know the game. Bobby Boyle always shows best when opposing teams from other cities in national affairs and Bobby knows his stuff around the goals. The Hungarians must be in fine form and our Dunlevy friends, George and Ralph Caraffi, are reported to be showing a brilliant brand of soccer. Pie and Ralph always had a tough time against Pittsburgh teams, and while they are getting goals down in Ohio Howard Mangus knows their style and should hold them well in check.

Our old friend Harry Fairfield is having a tough time these days trying to arrange league games with these postponements piling up from the cup tie muddle. And from the looks of things there is precious little relief showing, with many replays ahead.

Referee Donaghey states that Cooley is out of the question, so that means the Corinthians will have to find another ground for the Mustard Hollow game.

Harmarville fans are keenly regarding the form of Patton, the new fullback acquired by Jock McKenzie. Of course Heidelberg scored six goals, but when that green and gold machine starts operations it takes a real defense to hold them. Murray should prove a good partner for the newcomer and when the combination knows each other's playing, good results should follow. Murray is selected on the all-star team and that is a boost for the Harmarville boy.

Charlie Powell is still showing that wonderful shooting ability, classing him in the same rank as Mike Bookie of the same town. This combination has no peer in Western Pennsylvania when it comes to getting goals. Probably the opposing defenses are watching Mike Bookie too much and forgetting Charlie. The Rox outfit nearly spilled the beans by holding the Internationals for the second week in succession at Curry, but the home forward line started operations and the game was on ice.

Keeping up the good form of the past few weeks, Primrose collected two more points Sunday at the expense of Glendale. The Roses were behind at the interval but in the second half Truzzi, and Benard scored for Primrose.

Scott, the visiting inside left, saw the game from the side lines and that found Glendale with only nine men on the field to finish the game.

CHAPMAN WINS IN FIRST ROUND

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

KNOCKED out in 1 minute 37 seconds of the first round by Red Chapman of Boston in the scheduled eight-round main bout at Motor Square Garden last night, Tommy Crowley of the South Side demanded a return match as soon as he was able to collect himself in the dressing room. He said he was confident the result was an accident and that it wouldn't happen again in a second meeting.

"I was carrying the fight to Chapman from the start and was watching his right hand," Tommy said. "He caught me with the left and when I awoke I was in my corner and the fight was over. I hadn't even warmed up to the battle before I was told I had lost. I think my record entitles me to a chance to redeem myself, and I hope the club will bring Chapman back for me."

Chapman's victory was clean-cut and sent the fans into wild excitement. Seldom has a visiting boxer here stepped out and delivered such a short, decisive and workmanlike job. Both hooked for the head with their lefts at the bell and missed and went to the floor together. When they got up, Crowley assumed the offensive and they danced about the ring exchanging lefts and went close a few times.

END COMES IN FLASH

Suddenly Chapman shot over a left hook to the jaw that Crowley didn't even see coming, so rapidly did it reach its mark. Tommy shook and then fell backward, flat on his back, his head striking the canvas and rebounding. He kicked out with his feet in short jerks and then rolled over as the referee began to count. He was completely out, but the muscles of his body were twitching nervously. As the referee completed the count, he was rolling over on his other side. Chapman rushed to him and picked him up and car-

"I'm Sorry," Red Tells Beaten Opponent

"I'm sorry."

These were the words Red Chapman spoke to Tommy Crowley in a soft voice as he shook hands with his one-round knockout victim before leaving the ring in Motor Square Garden last night.

Chapman had picked up Crowley after the count and had helped to carry him to his corner. Then, when Tommy regained consciousness, Chapman grasped his gloved hands, pressed them warmly and spoke the words in a most solicitous manner.

There was no gloating. Chapman proved as gracious a winner as Tommy did a good loser.

Panthers Top Iowa In Western Finale

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

WHILE pennant-winning managers in baseball and extraordinarily successful coaches in football are being lauded, isn't it about time to toss a few bouquets in the direction of Dr. H. Clifford Carlson, basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh?

If there is a floor coach anywhere in the college world who gets better results than Carlson from year to year, or who at this particular time can point to a team of his making that has made such a remarkable record as the passers developed by the Pitt coach, he has not been heard of in this section.

THAT Carlson has the goods and is one of the best basketball coaches in the country has long been evident in the success of his teams at Pitt. In fact, the fans hereabouts, as in the case of Chick Davies at Duquesne University, have become so accustomed to seeing Carlson turning

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 20.—Forced into an extra period for the first time this season and on the Western invasion that ended with the local contest, the University of Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers defeated Iowa last night, 44-40, after 45 minutes of the most hectic and exciting basketball that has been seen here for years.

The Panthers left for home after the contest to prepare for their Pittsburgh debut with Dartmouth in

All-Heavy Card for Xmas

AN all-heavyweight program will be offered the local boxing fans at Motor Square Garden for the Christmas Monday matinee, it was announced last night.

George Godfrey, the Black Shadow and menace of the heavyweight division, will appear in the 10-round windup against Soldier Jones, champion of Canada, who will be remembered for his near-knockout of the late Harry Greb in the same ring several years ago.

George Gemas of Philadelphia, who had Emmett Rocco on the verge of a knockout when his own second tossed in the towel a few weeks ago, will return for a bout with Garfield Johnson, another Negro star, who has come here from Seattle. Johnson is known as the Black Thunderbolt, and it is claimed that Young Stribling and Leo Lomski both refused to box him on the Coast.

Bruno Scalia of Donora and Ray Crawford of McKeesport will meet in the second bout and Dick Gibbons of McKeesport may be one of the principals in the opening event.

Kid Howard, a former Pittsburgher, who handles boxers in New York, is in town with two of his men, Bobby Green, lightweight, and Mickey Diamond, light-heavyweight, both former Navy boxers, whom he wants to show to the fans. They are on their way to California and will stop off here for a couple of weeks.

HENRI COCHET LOSES TO YOUTHFUL STAR

LYONS, France, Dec. 2.—(AP.)—Henri Cochet has suffered his first tennis defeat since he returned with the triumphant Davis cup team from the United States last September.

The latest French marvel, 17-year-old Georges Soyson, defeated him 6-2, 8-10, 6-4 yesterday. This was Cochet's first tournament in his home town since 1926. He now resides in Paris.

She Sets Bowling Pace

Miss Elizabeth (Betty) Oates of Homestead (at right) is the leading woman bowler of Western Pennsylvania. She has been a consistent winner in the tournament competition of the last two years and also has starred as a member of the Friendship League in matches rolled on the Davis alleys, downtown, where these pictures were taken. Last year, Miss Oates, who is employed at the Monongahela Trust Company, Homestead, won the women's division of the first annual Harry Davis bowling sweepstakes, rolling 1,278 for 10 games on 20 alleys. In March of last year, she won the women's singles in the annual Original Southern duckpin tournament on the Squirrel Hill alleys, rolling 188, 144, 180—512. This year she has won the Southern tournament women's singles with a count of 385, first prize in the mixed doubles tournament on the Capital alleys, Homestead, and second prize in the Harry Davis sweepstakes.

COLLEGE COURT PLAY OPENS THURSDAY

By JESS CARVER.

RIDING HIGH, wide and handsome, with four consecutive victories in as many starts over Big Ten opponents to their credit, the Golden Panthers of Pitt will arrive home from the Middle West late tonight and start preparations tomorrow for the Dartmouth game in the pavilian Friday, the 1927-28 premier of Doc Carlson's annual basketball show.

Pitt and the Dukes will sort of collaborate in popping off the season's cage lid here, the Dukes taking on and hoping to take over the Ohio Wesleyan Thursday night on the Bluff.

Regardless of whether you are an ardent Pitt rooter or not, you will have to give a lusty cheer or two over the performance of the Panthers in the West. Any basketball team that can step out and beat Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern and Iowa in five nights is a REAL team.

Ohio Wesleyan and Dartmouth will furnish fitting opposition for the Dukes and Panthers as opening game opponents. It looks now as though both local institutions would have triumphs to hang up on the wall after the game, though the Green might cause Pitt to take an early

Charley Ellis started out over the comeback trail yesterday in fine fashion by defeating Arthur Thurnbald of Chicago in both blocks of their three-rail 500-point match yesterday. He won the afternoon session 50-47 and then returned to the table in the evening to win by a 50-45 score.

Ellis had a high run of seven in the afternoon and one of six at night. Thurnbald also had a six run in the evening. They will continue play today, both afternoon and evening matches being scheduled.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Young Jake Schaefer vindicated the judgment of the experts who had chosen him as the favorite in his 1,500-point world championship 18.2 billiard match with Champion Welker Cochran, when he won the first block last night, 300 to 211.

In his 12 innings Schaefer averaged 25, while Cochran's average was 19.2. High run honors went to Young Jake with a neat run of 148. The champion's best was 66.

Joe Dugan Likely To Go

By BILL SLOCUM,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Miller Huggins apparently is set to make one break in his regular infield when another pennant campaign gets under way. The change will be at third base, where Joe Dugan has been holding forth with considerable success for some years past. Gene Robertson, one-time Brownie, and last season a member of the St. Paul club of the American Association, is Huggins' choice to guard the final turn in the 1928 campaign.

HOCKEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Ice Pirates of Pittsburgh arrived here today from Detroit, primed for their battle with the Rangers at Madison Square Garden tonight. In holding the league-leading Cougars to a 3-3 deadlock the Pittsburghers gave evidence of having "found themselves," and they are confident of giving the Gothamites a real scrap tonight.

EAST, WEST SQUADS DRILL FOR GAME NEXT MONDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—(INS.)—Workouts for the East and West all-star football squads, which will meet for charity in the annual intersectional clash here Monday, were under way in earnest today. By Universal Service

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 20.—Taking of testimony in the suit of Frank L. Moore, Cincinnati betting commissioner, against Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and now captain of the New York Giants, was begun in Circuit Judge McIlhinney's court at Clayton yesterday.

Moore originally sought $92,000, claiming a large part of the sum represented money he bet on horse races as Hornsby's agent.

Yesterday his attorneys eliminated various items, reducing the sum to about $45,000, maintaining that the items which remain are in no way connected with gambling transactions.

Tom Rowe, chief counsel for Moore, declared his client and Hornsby were for many months "like brothers." So intimate was their friendship, he de-

FOLLOWERS of amateur basketball will be given a chance to compare present-day teams with those of 15 years ago when the Y. M. H. A. Old Timers, composed of players who represented the old Zion Council on the floor, clash with the Y. M. H. A. varsity quintet on Thursday night, January 5.

Eager to make the event one of the greatest ever staged in this vicinity, athletic officials of the Y. M. H. A. have succeeded in lining up such well-known former basketball veterans as Doc Frishman, Buck Ruben, Goodie Rosenshine, Ben Raphael, Chinners Levine, A. H. Neaman and many others who helped lay the foundation for the success of the popular winter indoor sport hereabouts.

DESPITE their long absence from the floor, the oldtimers have shown enough in their workouts to date to convince followers of the game that they still possess all the essential requisites of first-class stars.

While the passing years have had a tendency to reduce their speed on the court, their eyes have not lost the range of the baskets, judging by their work in the practice sessions.

Ralph Schugar, who is familiar with the activities of the old timers, having seen them play when they were in their prime, has purchased a complete set of uniforms for the veterans.

THE members of the Y. M. H. A. Oldtimers played basketball for Zion Council when that sport was a rough and tumble affair. Competing with such well-known clubs as South Side Athletics, Mount Lebanon, Pittsburgh Lyceum and other noted quintets that operated hereabouts 15 years ago, the Zion Council quintet and their opponents rarely emerged from their games without showing marks of their struggles.

In those days it was every man for himself and everything was permitted, even to the extent where "homers" were permissible as referees. Visiting teams were forced to defeat six men instead of the customary five, all home quintets being permitted to use their own officials. Visiting clubs winning games on foreign floors in those days invariably were forced to leave the halls amid a shower of bricks or anything that could be thrown at the fleeing athletes without straining one's muscles.

THANKS to the efforts of the West Penn and Tristate officials' associations, teams playing nowadays need not fear "homers" when they leave their home courts for games. Both associations have done much to improve playing conditions in Western Pennsylvania, one of the reasons the game has progressed in this section.

Very few contests are played in the tri-state district without a member of one of the two associations mentioned above serving in the capacity of referee.

Good officials have done more than their share in creating new interest in the popular winter indoor game. A good official can make an ordinary game look interesting, while a poor official invariably ruins what gives all indications of developing into a real battle.

DRIBBLES

Webster Hall, fresh from its victory over the Y. M. H. A. in a non-league battle last Saturday, hopes to hand the Knickerbockers their first setback of the season at Webster Hall tonight in a West Penn League game.

The Goldenson Vanities have dates open for strong girls' teams at home and abroad. Call Hemlock 2558.

Moy Rubenstein, captain of the Geneva College quintet this winter, will lead his Covenanters against the Y. M. H. A. on Thursday night, December 29.

The Broadway Club of Beechview will attempt to score its third straight Allegheny County League victory when it invades Columbus Temple tonight to meet the Enoch Rauh Club.

Only one game is scheduled in the P. & O. League tonight, the B. L. Succops opposing St. Catherines at Beechview. Tomorrow the Succops meet the Junkers of McKeesport on the Market House floor.

The Rankin Sokols are open for games with all first-class teams desiring a good attraction. Write George Brezo, 302 Fifth avenue, Rankin, Pa., or call Braddock 6785.

The Red McMahan Club of the South Side wants games at home and abroad with junior teams. Write James Corcoran, 1719 Wharton street, or call Hemlock 1443-J.

Pair of Mellon Stars Branded Pros

Joe Rodgers and Robert Allebach, two members of the Mellon National Bank team, champions of the Pittsburgh Bankers' League, have been declared professionals by the officials of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. U.

The decision in no way affects the status of the two players in the Bankers' League, a circuit that is not under the supervision of the A. A. U. Both players will continue to play in the Bankers' League, but will not be permitted to appear against outside amateur teams.

their own Stadium Pavilion Friday night.

The bomb-shell that rocked the Middle West when Pitt trounced Michigan, 49 to 29, was but a mild shock compared with the terrific concussion that made Big Ten court fans reel last night after the Panthers had marked up their fourth victory in five nights.

Pitt's invasion of the West is without precedent and sport critics are cheering in loud voices the grit and determination of this great squad of Easterners that came from behind in every game to win.

Charlie Hyatt and Stash Wrobleskie again starred for the Panthers, Hyatt's fine shooting in the extra period accounting for the Pitt triumph. Each of the little fellows bagged seven field goals.

Iowa held a lead all the way, except for a brief moment in the first period when they trailed by a single point and for a short while in the second half, when they were three points behind. With only 19 seconds to go, Paul Zehfuss was fouled when he attempted a shot and made one of his two foul tries good.

Pitt had previously overcome an 11-point lead to get within striking distance of the Hawkeyes, who led 28-27 in the middle of the second half. Wrobleskie and Hyatt led the Panthers in this attack.

The Iowa quintet looked to be the best that Pitt played on the Western tour. The defense, for the most part, was air-tight and the attack well conceived and clever. Capt. Twogood was the high point scorer of the evenin with eight field goals and three free-throw points.

COLLEGE

flip-flop. Wesleyan is just fair, so advance reports indicate, while the Dukes will be pretty strong, even though they have been beset with injuries and will have to find themselves after losing men like Roy (Puss) O'Donovan, John Law Serbin, Dominick Demaria and Richard (Lion Hearted) Shrading.

Coach Carlson has something in the way of a surprise for the folks in the way of uniforms in which he has decked out his Pitt teams. The basketball outfits are as colorful and different as were the Pitt football uniforms this fall.

This coming college cage campaign in the tri-state district is going to be a hummer from the word go. Almost every team in the section, with the possible exception of Wash.-Jeff., will be as strong or stronger than they were last season. In the Conference, Duquesne rules as favorite to repeat their feat of winning the championship, though they will find sterner opposition than was offered them last year. Westminster, with a veteran aggregation and a fine system, looks to be the team to give the Dukes a serious run for the money (if any.)

In the Big Four, Tech and West Virginia will bar Pitt's way, how successfully we will find out later. Wash.-Jeff. doesn't look to have strengthened its team much, though with a man like Andy Kerr at the head of things, anything can happen.

FIGHT RESULTS

TO COMPLETE BOYS' FLOOR LEAGUE TONIGHT

Organization of the Kaufmann's Boys' Basketball League will be completed at a meeting to be held in the store this evening at 7:15. Tempest Anima Club, the S. H. Adlers, Liberty Club, W. J. Grandes, J. J. Miele Juniors and Greenfield Alumni already have been entered. Two more teams are desired to round out the circuit. Those who attend the meeting are requested to use the Fifth avenue entrance to the store.

FAVORITE DEFEATED IN ORLEANS RACE

out fine quintets that they are prone to accept winning outfits as a matter of course.

As a result, Carlson has not received anything like the amount of credit he deserves. Unquestionably he is one of the best floor coaches in the game, and is a powerful asset in the keeping of Pitt among the leaders in the general intercollegiate athletic procession.

IF ANY further evidence were needed of Carlson's ranking as a great coach, it certainly could be found in the sensational record made by the Panthers on their four-game invasion of the Western Conference circuit, which ended last night in Iowa City.

It is doubtful if there is any performance in college basketball history to parallel the achievement of the Pitt passers in four straight games against Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern and Iowa on their own floors. Michigan won the Western Conference championship last season and the three other teams met by Pitt also are rated as having unusual strength. There is no record of any other Eastern team having made such a record in four successive games against the stars of the "Big Ten."

FURTHERMORE, there is every promise that Carlson's charges will keep up their great work. If they do so they will have a chance to make perhaps the best college record in the country this season, as their schedule is a tough one and they are booked to meet a number of additional great teams.

After conquering the Middle West they will get a crack at last season's Eastern champions when Dartmouth is met here this Friday night. A fifth Western Conference team will be tackled when Ohio State is faced on December 31, and Notre Dame, which also has a crack team—and which, by the way, defeated Pitt last season, will be encountered on February 18. Another prospective opponent holding an unusually high rating this year is Syracuse.

ONE of the items in Carlson's success this season is the fact that instead of having merely one good shot whom opponents might cover easily, he has developed no fewer than three in Hyatt, Wrobleski and Capt. Reed. It will be a tough job for any team to escape defeat against that great shooting trio.

All around, it is a team of exceptional class and speed, and will not only keep Pitt in the foreground, but will gain for Carlson wider recognition than ever as one of the greatest coaches in the intercollegiate realm.

SPEARS AND HENDERSON TO INSTRUCT COACHES

ELKINS, W. Va., Dec. 20.—(AP.)—school will be conducted here next August by Dr. Clarence W. Spears, football coach at the University of Minnesota, and Cam Henderson, coach of athletics at Davis and Elkins College, Jennings Randolph, athletic director at Davis and Elkins, has announced. Dr. Spears will have charge of football instruction, and basketball classes will be instructed by Henderson.

Jack Connors May Assist Coach Meehan

By LEWIS BURTON,

Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—John F. (Chick) Meehan will come back to New York University as head coach under a three-year agreement.

Through a source close to the Board of Athletic Control, it was learned yesterday that Meehan's new contract will give him a salary slightly in excess of $15,000. This leads to the assumption that the new agreement calls for a three-year salary of $50,000, averaging $16,667 a year.

Jack Connor, the 1927 captain and one of the most popular selections for all-America honors at quarterback, probably will replace Joe Schwarzer as Meehan's chief aide.

FIGHT

ried him to his corner, and it was some moments before realization of what had occurred came to Tommy.

Meanwhile many of the fans had rushed to Chapman's corner, hailing him as a marvel. But all waited around until Tommy finally came to and they gave him a hand as he left the ring. He was defeated, but not disgraced, and the fans did their utmost to keep him from feeling humiliated.

The fans certainly want to see some more of the work of Chapman, a former Pittsburgh boy, who was making his local ring debut last night, and it may be that the club will bring him back for a return bout with Crowley at an early date. Red weighed 126¼ pounds and Tommy 129¾ at 2 p. m. yesterday.

ROSS WHIPS DUDLEY

Tony Ross of Carnegie, 142½ pounds, boxing in better form than he has shown at home for some time, easily defeated Harry Dudley, highly-touted Negro welterweight of Oakland, Cal., who has boxed Joe Dundee, Willie Harmon, Paul Doyle, Jack McVey and other topnotchers, in the eight-round semi-final. Tony was the aggressor all the way, never had his left hand out of Dudley's face and finished up fighting with one hand after injuring his right fist in the sixth round. It was a fine "comeback" for Tony, who has not boxed hereabouts in months. Dudley weighed 144½ pounds.

Linn Jordan, Negro of Johnstown, scaling 159 pounds, defeated Teddy Esterbrook of Niles, O., 152½, in five rounds and held his own in one other session, losing only two, yet the judges disagreed, Jock Simco voting for Esterbrook and Jim McLaughlin for Jordan, and it required the vote of Referee Eddie Kennedy to give the verdict to Jordan, to whom it belonged. Esterbrook appeared lethargic and did not fight his usual good battle, while Jordan forced the milling all the way.

DRAW VERDICT IS GIFT

Harry Taylor of the North Side, 142 pounds, got a gift decision of a draw in the opening bout with Jimmy Belmont of Braddock, 143¾. Belmont floored Taylor for counts of four and nine in the first round and almost put him away and won four of the other rounds. Taylor showed gameness galore and an ability to assimilate punishment, but that was about all. He made a strong finish in the last round, when Belmont tired, and this may have influenced the decision. Judge Simco voted for Belmont and McLaughlin for a draw. Referee Red Robinson also called it even, and even it was.

A good-sized crowd turned out for the battles.

Blitman Stops J. Lombardo

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—(INS.)—Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh welterweight, had somewhat dampened Tommy (Kid) Herman's ambition today to challenge the king of the welterweights, Zivic gave the Philadelphia aspirant a sound drubbing for 10 rounds in the feature bout of the weekly show at the Arena last night.

Herman never had a chance.

The semi-windup, while it lasted, completely overshadowed the windup for action. Harry Blitman, Philadelphia southpaw, stopped Jose Lombardo of Panama in the second round.

Zivic's decisive victory over Herman, a clever boxer and hard two-fisted puncher, came as a surprise to the local fans, who saw him lose to Willie Harmon at Motor Square Garden a week ago. However, it was a characteristic Zivic "comeback." Jack appears to have the faculty of fighting his best when least expected to make a showing.

BELANGER BEATS JARVIS

TORONTO, Ontario, Dec. 20.—(INS.)—Frenchy Belanger of this city today is recognized as the flyweight champion of the world in states under the jurisdiction of the National Boxing Association. Belanger gained the right to the title vacated by Fidel La Barba by outpointing Ernie Jarvis of England in a 12-round bout here last night.

Belanger was floored in the eleventh round, but in the other sessions he was the aggressor and forced the Englishman to the ropes with a furious attack. Frenchy floored Jarvis in the first round.

Belanger probably will be matched with Corp. Izzy Schwartz, recognized as champion by the New York State Athletic Commission.

VON PORAT STOPS SANDWINA

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—Two European heavyweights clashed in a Chicago ring for the first time last night and Ted Sandwina of Germany, in his second American appearance, was knocked out in the second round by Otto Von Porat of Norway. They topped a boxing program which raised $50,000 for Christmas baskets and toys for the poor, and many of the society, political and business leaders attended.

Sandwina never had a chance against Von Porat, going down once in the first round and twice in the second before his seconds tossed in the towel.

ENTRY BLANKS RECEIVED

clared, that in the spring of 1926 Hornsby took Moore to a Texas training camp and shared a hotel room with him.

The attorney declared that the various items in the suit represented loans which Moore made to Hornsby, notes of Hornsby which Moore endorsed and was forced to pay, and other similar transactions ranging from $250 to $10,000. Hornsby's attorney, William F. Fahey, told the jury it would be shown that "when Hornsby lost, he paid," and that Moore is trying to collect money which he himself lost on the races.

MIFFLIN STREET LAD INJURED BY AUTO

Peter Wojtkowski, 10, of 3939 Mifflin street, was struck by a hit-and-run motorist at Forty-fifth and Plummer streets. The child was removed to St. Francis Hospital, where attendants report that his condition is serious.

FLAMES DRIVE FAMILY OUT

The family of Philip Spline was routed early today when fire raged in the grocery of Morris Bluestone, 705 Brownsville avenue, Mt. Oliver. Spline, his wife and two children escaped from the building safely before the flames from the store reached their apartment on the second floor. The origin of the fire is unknown. Mt. Oliver police estimated the loss at $10,000.

BLAZE IN STORE BARES WHISKY, SLOT MACHINES

A small fire in the rear of the confectionery store at 1125 Beaver street, owned by Howard Debold, 29, resulted in the discovery by police of six gallons of moonshine and several slot machines. Debold was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. Damage done by the fire was estimated at $100.

There is still time before Christmas to replace your old radio set with one of these wonderful Radiolas that operate direct from your lighting circuit

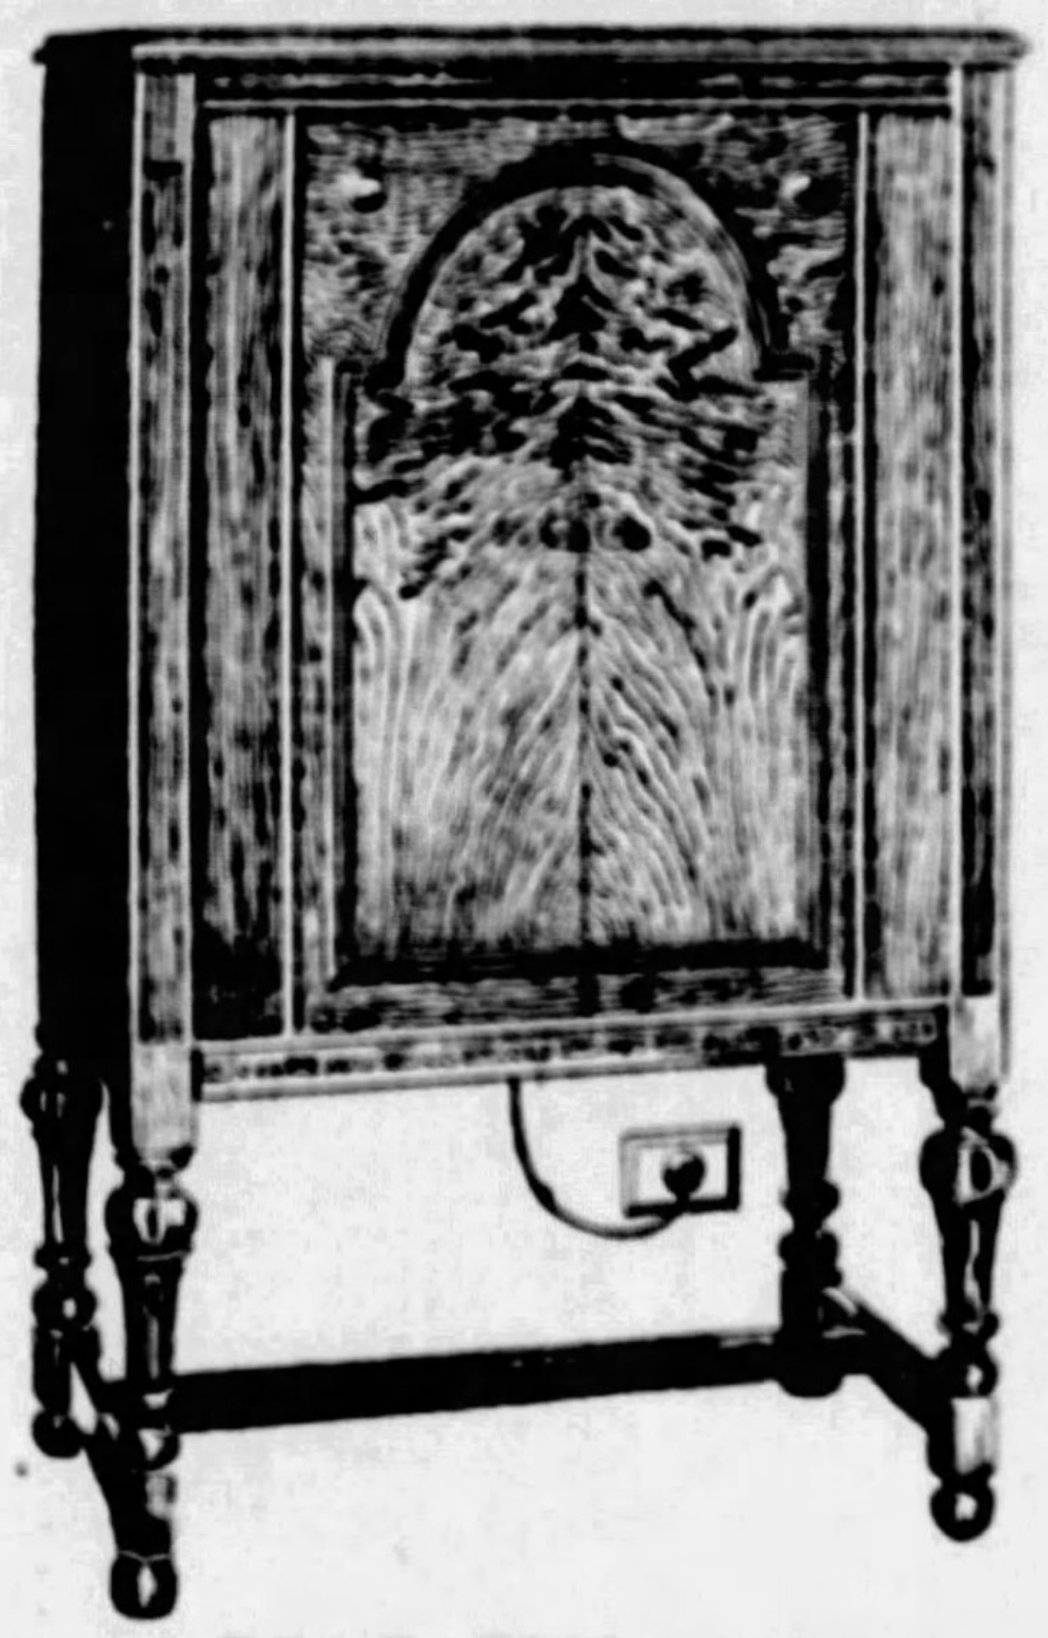
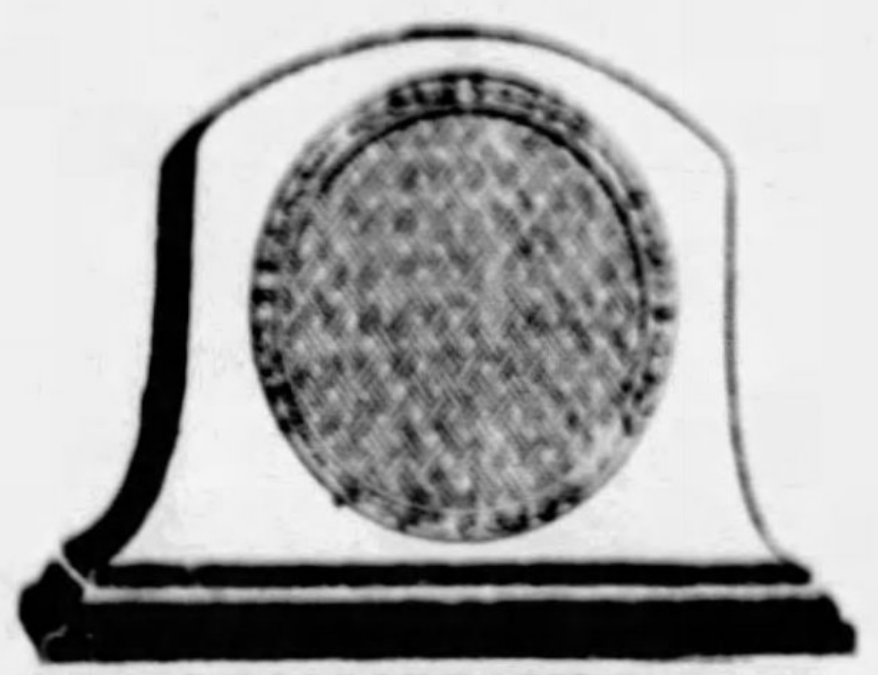
RCA RADIOLA 17
6-tube, tuned-radio-frequency receiver—the first to use the new RCA alternating current Radiotrons. Operates from electric light circuit (A.C.) with single dial control. With Radiotrons $157.50



RCA RADIOLA 30A
Custom-built model of famous RCA Super-Heterodyne with concealed loudspeaker. For A.C. or D.C. electric operation. . . . . . . Complete $495



RCA LOUDSPEAKER 100A
The new RCA speaker with the rich, mellow tones. Ideal to use with Radiola 17 or any battery or socket-power receiver. $35

These Radiolas are the leaders of the RCA line.

The tried, tested and perfected "28", with the unrivalled, super-selective Super-Heterodyne circuit, may be operated either with batteries or direct from the lighting socket in combination with RCA Loudspeaker 104.

The "30A" has been designed to meet the demand for a de luxe cabinet model of the RCA Super-Heterodyne, with the loudspeaker as an integral part of the set.

The new "17" is recognized as the outstanding achievement of the radio year. It has been a sensation ever since it was announced a few weeks ago.

There are other tried, tested and perfected Radiolas in the complete line offered by RCA, ranging from $69.50 to $895. They are designed for all methods of operation and all requirements of location.

Any RCA Authorized Dealer will gladly demonstrate these wonderful instruments for you—and install one in your home before Christmas.

You can use the RCA time-payment plan if you desire.

Do Big or Little Concerns Offer Best Opportunities?

By B. C. FORBES

THE year-end usually is a time of many changes, changes in firms, changes among executives, changes of jobs.

One question the writer often is asked by young men and others under middle age is whether the prospects are better in a small concern or in a large corporation.

What would be your answer?

MY opinion is that, for the great majority of men the best thing is to make a connection with a big company.

But care must be exercised to link up with a growing, progressive organization. Corporations now, as a rule, take pains to pick only promising employes. It is just as important that an employe pick the right kind of employer.

THE economic trend in this country is very strongly towards larger and larger enterprises. It is becoming more and more difficult for an individual of modest and moderate means to launch and successfully build up a business of his own.

Of course, in smaller communities it does not take much capital to start a retail business in such lines as dry goods tobacco, stationery, groceries, baking, hardware, drugs, notions, automobile supplies and so forth. And quite often the right kind of young man can develop a small business into a rather large one, especially when his particular line is not dominated by one or two powerful concerns.

Then, too, different lines of brokerage business can be taken up without much capital. Individual successes are fairly numerous in this field.

BUT in most other lines of business, pariticularly manufacturing, the large business usually can outmatch small, struggling concerns. True, many businesses started by an individual or a family of 10, 20 or 30 years ago have grown sufficeitnly big to attract financiers who have "floated" these businesses by issuing bonds and stock to the public. It is doubtful, however, whether the next 10, 20 or 30 years will bring relatively as many instances of this kind.

IF I were a young man contemplating entering the grocery or dry goods retail business, I think I would throw in my lot with a strong company operating chain stores or one or more important department stores.

True, the income of the ordinary manager of a chain store is not particularly attractive. But ably-managed chains grow very rapidly, and this means an increasing number of executives, buyers and other well-paid positions. Therefore, room is constantly being created at the top.

In the same way, big department stores and chains of department stores—now becoming popular—have jobs towards the top which pay generous salaries. My observation and experience is that a man doesn't have to be so very much better than ordinary to win promotion in a large organization provided he applies himself wholesouledly to his work and keeps his eyes wide open to increase his usefulness—in other words, by filling his own job capably and exercising initiative to reach out and prove his ability to undertake more important responsibilities.

HOW about salesmen?

It is becoming customary for enterprises doing a nationwide business to divide the country into a certain number of territories. In addition to the general sales manager and his assistants at headquarters, there are thus created openings for territorial or district sales managers. Consequently the salesman on the road who makes his mark has a chance either to earn good pay as a salesman or to win recognition at headquarters and be appointed a district sales manager and later, perhaps, general sales manager at distinctly better than ordinary pay.

Not only so, but it is becoming increasingly common for boards of directors of corporations to select as president or as vice president some man who has earned a conspicuous record as a master salesman.

Therefore, the role of salesman with a large and expanding corporation has greater possibilities than are offered by the ordinary small concern.

OF course, each individual must make for himself the vital decisions of his life. But it would seem to me that the greatest number of big prizes in future will be found in large-scale business. And remember that profit-sharing with executives is coming more and more into vogue. One corporation's executives this year will reap a million dollars each.

COTTON GINNING SHOWS DROP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to December 13, the Census Bureau announced today, totaled 12,071,799 running bales, including 487,401 round bales, counted as half bales, and excluding linters.

Ginnings compare with 15,540,804 bales, including 555,655 round bales, ginned to December 13 last year and 14,521,846 bales, including 303,616 round bales in 1925.

The year's cotton crop has been estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 12,789,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. Last year's crop as indicated by the final ginning report, was 17,977,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, and the 1925 crop was 16,103,679 bales. To December 13 last year, 86.4 per cent of the crop had been ginned, and in 1925 ginnings to that date were 92 per cent of the crop.

DIVIDEND INFORMATION

Gotham Silk Hosiery.

Gotham Silk Hosiery Company declared an extra dividend of 4 per cent in common stock on the common stock, payable February 15 to record February 1, and regular quarterly of $1.75 on the preferred, payable February 1 to record January 16. The extra dividend on the common is subject to authorization of additional voting and non-voting common by stockholders.

Western Power.

Western Power Corporation declared an initial quarterly $2 dividend on the common stock, payable December 31 to record December 24, and regular quarterly of 1¾ per cent on the preferred, payable January 16 to record December 31.

St. Joseph Lead.

St. Joseph Lead Company declared an extra dividend of $1 and regular dividend of $2 for year 1928. A year ago an extra of the same amount was declared. Net income for year ending December 31 is estimated at $3,600,000 after depreciation, depletion and income tax.

Tobacco Products.

Directors of Tobacco Products Corporation yesterday changed its dividend policy on the common stock, placing it on a $10 annual basis, with a quarterly dividend of one-tenth of a share of United Cigar Stores Company of America common stock, payable in scrip certificates, which will mature in three years from date of issue. It will be convertible at maturity into common stock of U. S. Cigar Stores. The former annual cash dividend basis was $7 a share. The Guaranty Trust Company, it was announced, would purchase the scrip certificates at the rate of $25 a share, which will enable stockholders to receive at once a rate of $10 a share for their dividends on a cash basis.

Great Lakes Steamship Company.

Great Lakes Steamship Company declared two quarterly dividends of $1.25 each, one payable January 3 and the other April 2. The company previously had paid $1.50 quarterly.

STOCKS HEAD UP AFTER WAVE OF SELLING

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—Bullish operations in today's stock market were temporarily interrupted by a wave of selling which followed the omission of the Pan-American dividends, but speculative confidence was quickly restored and the market headed upward again in the early afternoon. More than a score of issues were elevated to new high levels for the year or longer, some of the gains running as high as 9 points.

Heavy buying of the motors was characterized as the usual "window dressing" in preparation for the New York automobile show next month. One block of 18,000 shares of General Motors changed hands at 135, as against a closing quotation of 133⅞ yesterday. Hudson also was heavily accumulated and a better undertone was apparent for most of the other motor shares. Gabriel Snubber sank to another new low at 22.

Coppers continued to press forward under the leadership of Greene Cananea, Calumet and Arizona, Anaconda and Kennecott. A. M. Byers and Fox Film A, each of which ran up over 5 points, featured the specialty group. Among the many issues to reach new peak prices were American Can, Vanadium Steel, Electric Power, Brunswick Terminal, Seagrave and Brown Shoe. On the other hand, Warner Pictures A and Amalgamated Leather preferered sank to new lows.

Except for the continued ease of money at 4 per cent, a series of "Christmas dividends" by banks and insurance companies and widespread predictions of business prosperity next year, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement.

P. & L. E. STOCK DIVIDEND O. K.'D

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to pay a 20 per cent stock dividend to stockholders of record December 1. The new issue of stock will amount to $7,197,160 and will represent investment which the road has made out of surplus earnings during recent years.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—There were no sales or changes in the local raw sugar market early today with spot quoted at 4.65c duty paid.

The circulation of nine December notices had a depressing effect in the present December position in the raw sugar futures market and led to considerable liquidation, prices declining 4 points. As trading in that delivery ceases on Friday, this was more in the form of evening up and had no influence on later positions, which ruled about 1 to 2 points above the previous close during the forenoon session.

The United States Department of Agriculture estimated the domestic beet sugar crop in terms of granulated valued at 946,428 long tons, or 31,250 tons above their November estimate, as against last year's outturn of 809,893 tons.

The refined sugar market was firmer and unchanged to 10 points higher, prices now ranging from 5.70 to 5.80c for fine granulated, although demand was less active.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

No Action on Pan Am. Dividend.

Directors of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company took no action on the $1 quarterly dividend on the common and common B stock due at this time. The company issued following statement: "The Pan American Company is planning a material development of properties in 1928 and, notwithstanding the fact that dividends have been earned, it was thought wise to conserve the cash to meet requirements for the 1928 expansion and such contingencies as may develop during the year." F. H. Wickel, chairman has been in ill health for some time and requested that the board accept his resignation. Mr. Wickel will continue as president of the Dixie Oil Company, a Standard Oil of Indiana subsidiary. The stocks broke to new low ground on the news, but met support around 40.

O'Fallon Appeal Granted.

Three judges in special court at St. Louis have granted the St. Louis and O'Fallon Railroad an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court on the excess earning issues.

Week's Oil Output Lower.

Daily average production of crude oil in the U. S. for week ended Dec. 17 was 2,474,588 barrels, a decrease of 2,165 barrels from the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Seminole Slightly Higher.

The Seminole area in 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. Monday produced 373,528 barrels crude oil from 1,058 wells against 369,811 barrels from 1,050 wells Sunday. The peak was 527,500, made July 30.

Tidewater Merger Denied.

A. J. Byles, president of Tidewater-Associated Oil Co., said "rumors of affiliation between this company and the Humble Oil and Refining Company are entirely false, as no connection between these companies exists or is contemplated."

Bridge Stock Offered.

McLaughlin, MacAfee & Co., of Pittsburgh, and Boenning & Co., of Philadelphia, are offering today 6,000 shares of $7 cumulative first preferred stock, with an equal amount of common stock, of the Clarksburg-Columbus Short Route Bridge Co. These securities are being offered in units of one share of first preferred stock and one share of common stock at $100 per unit plus accrued dividend.

The first preferred stock is preferred as to assets and dividends and, in the event of liquidation, will receive $110 per share prior to the common stock. It is redeemable at $110 per share and accrued dividends, as a whole or in part on any dividend date on 30 days' notice. Dividends at the annual rate of $7 are cumulative from December 15, 1927, and are payable quarterly, March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15.

The Clarksburg-Columbus Short Route Bridge will cross the Ohio River at St. Marys, W. Va., affording a short route between Clarksburg, W. Va., and Columbus, O.

Bonus for Bank Employes.

Employes of the East End Savings and Trust Company, who have been with that institution for a year or more, have received a month's salary as a Christmas bonus.

$5 Basis for Gillette.

The announcement that directors of the Gillette Safety Razor Company would place the stock on a $5 annual basis in the near future was confirmed by the company's bankers yesterday.

Refinancing Omar Oil.

Stockholders of the Omar Oil and Gas Company met in the William Penn Hotel yesterday to discuss a refinancing plan which provides for reorganization under the name of Phoenix Oil Company of Delaware. It was proposed to issue an additional $2,000,000 in 6 per cent preference stock to provide funds for drilling properties now under lease to the company. The leases include 40,000 acres of land in Arkansas and 1,300 acres in Wyoming. The Omar Oil and Gas is capitalized at $7,150,000 with 715,000 shares of $10 value, but its present assets are listed at $315,000. The refinancing committee is composed of John S. Craig, J. deS. Freund, H. M. Goehring and Charles M. Johnston. Approximately 100,000 shares were represented in assignments to the new company at the meeting.

Cotton Ginning Report.

The Department of Commerce estimates cotton ginned from the 1927 crop to December 13 totaled 12,071,799 bales compared with 15,540,804 bales during the corresponding period last year. The report was somewhat smaller than the trade had been looking for, and the cotton market after opening at 5 to 12 points higher made further gains. Trade interests and shorts were good buyers and southern selling and profit-taking sales were readily taken.

P. and L. E. Stock Authorized.

Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $7,197,100 of capital stock consisting of 143,942 shares of $50 par and necessary scrip certificates which will be distributed as a dividend to holders of record December 1, 1927. Under its charter the road is authorized to issue $50,000,000 of capital stock consisting of 1,000,000 shares of $50 par. There has been issued and is outstanding $35,991,650 of the stock.

Commonwealth Edison Rights.

Commonwealth Edison Company stockholders of record December 31, are offered the right to subscribe to additional stock at par ($10) to the extent of 12½ per cent of their holdings. Warrants will expire February 1, 1928.

Ag. Chemical Calls Bonds.

American Agricultural Chemical Company has called for redemption as of February 1, $4,000,000 of its 7½ per cent bonds at 103½, leaving approximately $13,700,000 outstanding.

Gen. Motors Bears Warned.

Demand for General Motors made its appearance from the same quarters responsible for the recent outstanding strength of steel common. It caught a crowded short interest and as a result the stock sold at a new high for the move. The greatest year in the history of the corporation is forecast by some of those connected with the management and it is the buying of their associates that makes the bears worry.

Greene Can Spurts Again.

Greene Cananea gained several points more due to the combination of its technical corner and the improvement in the copper industry. One of the interests concerned in Greene Cananea Copper trading for some time in discussing movements in that stock said that rumors of an investigation of Greene Cananea are unfounded. "There is not a lack of stock in the street, although the floating supply is small. Such rumors seem to have been started by anxious shorts," he said. Leading stock loan brokers in the loan crowd report considerable borrowing of the stock. Anaconda climbed to a new high for the move also while a new pool was reported starting work in Miami. Park Utah mines dipped a little with the Anaconda interests reputedly picking it up on the reaction. Expectation of 15 cent copper next year is voiced by both sellers and buyers.

Specialist Dies on "Floor."

F. Arthur Wellman, a partner of Vernon C. Brown & Co., died suddenly this morning on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange. Mr. Wellman was the chief specialist in American Can.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Trading at the local wholesale produce district in all lines of fruit and vegetables was fair today. The prices of vegetables were unchanged. The fruit market was fairly active. Lemons and oranges were lower and grapefruits and bananas were somewhat higher.

Poultry supplies were heavy. The demand was good on heavy and fancy poultry, while all other supplies were practically at a standstill. Several changes in the quotations were made on this market.

Butter and cheese were firm and sold at unchanged quotations. Eggs were firm. Nearby select, storage and Western fresh eggs were increased in price.

Carlot supplies were liberal, a total of 429 cars being on track. Included in the arrivals were 12 cars of apples, 3 cabbage, 2 cauliflower, 11 celery, 1 cranberries, 2 grapefruits, 6 grapes, 1 lemons, 1 onions, 19 oranges, 3 peppers, 8 potatoes, 4 spinach, 13 sweet potatoes and 2 tomatoes.

Hay and grain was light in receipts.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 5 to 12 points, active months soon showing net gains of 17 to 18 points on further covering and buying, inspired by the census report giving 12,071,799 bales ginned prior to December 13, compared with 15,540,804 last year.

These figures evidently were below average expectations, but did not seem to be generally regarded as justifying any material change in prospects for the total crop. After selling up to 19.42c for January and 19.73c for May, prices reacted nearly to yesterday's closing quotations under realizing. Buying continued, however, and appeared to be encouraged by reports that one of the trade authorities estimated the world's consumption of American cotton for the first four months of the season at 800,000 bales in excess of last year. Prices at the end of the first hour were about 5 to 10 points net higher.

The reaction from the opening advance extended to 19.02c for January, or about 20 to 25 points below yesterday's closing figures on the more active positions. There was considerable realizing by recent buyers and the market showed the effects of an earlier technical position following the advances of yesterday and last week. The decline brought in some trade buying or covering, however, and prices steadied later, when offerings were lighter. The market at midday was net unchanged to 2 points higher.

PARTING OF WAYS HOME AIDS MANY IN NEW START

Since the Parting of the Ways Home was organized in 1912, 11,837 former prison inmates have been given the opportunity to reform, and of this number 9,521 were given positions of some sort, Rollo H. McBride, superintendent of the home, said yesterday. The home, located in Stockton avenue, is a place of refuge for ex-convicts until they can re-establish themselves as good citizens. The home is conducting its annual drive for financial assistance.

Carnegie Meets Mild Selling Pressure

Trading quieted down noticeably on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, but prices held steady in the main list. The burst of activity in Carnegie Metals, which marked the sessions of Saturday and Monday, appeared to have played itself out and the stock was practically neglected during the forenoon.

In the miscellaneous section only a few scattered trades of the various stocks were recorded. William Zoller Company common displayed a firm tone while Standard Sanitary was quoted around yesterday's closing prices. Fuels were dull.

Firmness in the Zoller issues since their recent listing is attributed in Street rumors to possibility of the company being absorbed by one of the other meat packing establishments. No official basis for the report has been established, but some traders have openly mentioned the possibility of Pittsburgh Provision and Packing Company being interested.

Profit-taking of moderate volume developed in Carnegie Metals as the session progressed, but while the stock dipped to a level more than a point under the high established early yesterday, there appeared to be fair support for the issue just under the market.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Corn prices underwent a sharp early setback today, as much as 2½c a bushel in some cases. The government crop report pointing to an increase of corn yield over the November estimate, whereas most traders had looked for a decrease, was chiefly responsible. Opening at 2¼ to 3½c off, corn showed only moderate power to rally.

Wheat and oats were also weak, wheat starting ¼ to 1¼c down, but later recovering somewhat.

Provisions tended to advance.

Bearish effect today of the final official estimate putting the 1927 production of corn at 33,000,000 bushels in excess of the government's November forecast were somewhat mitigated by the fact that many traders were disinclined to accept the new figures as accurate. The official returns were widely at variance with comprehensive private advices. As a result, general commission buying developed when the market went below 91 cents for the May delivery. Material upturns from bottom prices followed.

Although heavy selling of corn took place today from traders who were disappointed over the showing of the government report, bullish sentiment was pronounced in some quarters. Attention was called to the fact that last year the final estimate by a leading unofficial authority was 2,684,000,000 bushels and the government's was 2,647,000,000 bushels, but that the government subsequently revised the official figures, raising them to 2,692,000,000 bushels, virtually the same as the unofficial estimate.

Authorized 6,000 Shares To be Issued 6,000 Shares

$7 Cumulative First Preferred Stock, without nominal or par value, preferred as to assets up to $110 per share and preferred as to cumulative dividends of $7 per annum. Dividends payable quarterly March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15. Redeemable in whole or in part at the option of the company on any dividend date on 30 days' notice, at 110 and accrued dividend. Dividends exempt from present normal income tax.

TRANSFER AGENT AND REGISTRAR:
THE PENNSYLVANIA COMPANY FOR INSURANCE ON LIVES AND GRANTING ANNUITIES, PHILADELPHIA

Mr. H. A. Carpenter, President of the Clarksburg-Columbus Short Route Bridge Company, summarizes from his letter as follows:

Description: The Clarksburg-Columbus Short Route Bridge will be a modern three-way vehicular steel suspension bridge, crossing the Ohio River at St. Marys, West Virginia, to Newport, Ohio. The bridge will have a total length of 1,902 feet, of which 700 feet will span the main channel of the river. The roadway will be 27 feet wide. A special Act of Congress authorized the construction of this bridge and the necessary approvals of the United States War Department have been given.

The Bridge will provide a convenient and safe crossing of the Ohio River and will supply the necessary link to afford a short route over modern highways between the Cities of Clarksburg, West Virginia, and Columbus, Ohio. This will also apply to inter-city traffic between various other cities in West Virginia, such as Grafton, Morgantown and Fairmont, and cities in Ohio, such as Marietta, Lancaster, Athens and Zanesville. It will furthermore afford the direct and short route between points in the east, such as Winchester, Virginia, and Washington, D. C., and points in the west, including Toledo, Detroit and Cincinnati. The population which may be reasonably regarded as tributary to the bridge, is in excess of 500,000.

Security: The proceeds from the sale of this stock and from the sale of $650,000 First Mortgage Bonds and 12,000 shares of Common Stock will be used for the construction of the bridge and the purchase of franchises, rights of way, the ferry now in operation, with all real estate owned by that Company, and the payment of property damages, engineering fees, legal expenses, financing costs and carrying charges during construction.

The J. E. Greiner Company, Engineers, Baltimore, Md., estimate the total cost of the bridge in excess of $1,260,000 including the items mentioned above. The contracting company constructing the bridge has deposited with The Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, Philadelphia, Trustee for the first mortgage bonds, a bond of a surety company approved by the bankers, guaranteeing the completion of the bridge.

Sinking Fund: Beginning 1930, an annual sinking fund of not less than 25% of the annual net earnings of the preceding calendar year remaining after payment of interest and sinking fund on the first mortgage bonds and payment of preferred dividends, will be applied April 15th of each year to the purchase or redemption of $7 Cumulative First Preferred Stock at not over 110 and accrued dividend.

Earnings: Ford, Bacon & Davis, Incorporated, in a traffic report made in May, 1927, a copy of which is available for inspection, estimate gross and net earnings as follows:

Year of Operation	Gross Earnings	Net Earnings
First	$121,910	$ 88,910
Third	138,100	105,100
Fourth	144,490	111,490
Fifth	149,010	116,010
Average annual net earnings		$103,970
Interest charges on bonds		42,250
Balance on Preferred Stock		$ 61,720

The average annual net earnings for five years applicable to dividends, after interest charges, liberal allowance for operating expenses, including State and County taxes, maintenance, renewals, salaries and insurance, but before Federal Income Taxes, are estimated to exceed $61,700 per annum, or approximately one and one-half times dividend requirements on the first preferred stock. The actual net earnings of numerous bridges constructed in the past have been from 50% to 100% in excess of traffic survey estimates, made prior to construction.

It is planned to open the bridge for traffic about October 31, 1928.

Provisions: The Company has created a reserve sufficient to pay $7 dividends per annum on the First Preferred Stock for two years from December 15, 1927, which is more than one year beyond the date on which it is expected to open the bridge for traffic.

The First Preferred Stock is preferred as to assets and dividends, in the event of liquidation receiving $110 per share and accrued dividends, prior to the common stock. Redeemable at $110 per share and accrued dividends, as a whole or in part, on any dividend date upon 30 days' notice. Dividends at the annual rate of $7 are cumulative from December 15, 1927, and are payable quarterly March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15.

Without consent of the holders of at least two-thirds of the outstanding first preferred stock, no mortgage, other than the existing mortgage, or lien or stock having preference over or equality with this issue may be created, nor may any other indebtedness be incurred except in the usual conduct of the business and bank indebtedness maturing within twelve months. In case of default in four quarterly dividends or in annual sinking fund, the preferred stock has the right to elect the majority of the Board of Directors until default is corrected.

Appraisal by The E. J. Greiner Company. Traffic Survey and estimated earnings by Ford, Bacon & Davis, Incorporated. Design and location of bridge, together with Traffic Estimates approved by Ralph Modjeski, Esquire. Legal opinion by Saul, Ewing, Remick & Saul, Esquires, Philadelphia.

Subject to the approval of counsel, we offer this stock for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us:

1 SHARE $7 CUMULATIVE FIRST PREFERRED STOCK
1 SHARE COMMON STOCK
Price for Above 2 Shares $100 (Plus accrued dividend)

We do not guarantee the statements and figures contained herein but they were accepted by us as accurate in the purchase of the above securities.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Emma Azinger, who died two years ago today, December 20, 1925.

Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of our joys we are blue,
With a smile on our faces we've a heartache,
Longing, dear mother, for you.

Sadly missed by husband, children and others.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Emma Lacy Werts Montgomery, died December 20, 1926.

In a lonely graveyard,
Just a few miles away,
We lost our dear precious "mother,"
Just one year ago today.

December 20, 1926. Sadly missed by her daughters, sons and grandchildren.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing an Agreement between the City of Pittsburgh and Baldwin Township providing for the construction, maintenance and repairs of a Sewage Treatment Plant and a main connecting sewer in the Glass Run Drainage Basin in Baldwin Township.

Whereas—It is mutually advantageous for the section of the City of Pittsburgh located in the 30th Ward and for a section of Baldwin Township by reason of the topography of the territory located in the Glass Run Drainage Basin to construct, maintain and repair a Sewage Treatment Plant and a trunk line connecting sewer to the same, and

Whereas—Said Sewage Treatment Plant shall be constructed in accordance with permit issued by the State Department of Health to Baldwn Township and in accordance with the plans approved by the Department of Public Works, City of Pittsburgh, and

Whereas—The total estimated cost of said Sewage Treatment Plant and main connection sewer shall be apportioned between the City of Pittsburgh and Baldwin Township on a basis of the area drained, the present valuaton and the population. By this apportionment the City of Pittsburgh shall pay 23.7% and Baldwin Township 76.3% of the total cost, the estimate of which is $24,524.00, now, Therefore,

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh be and they are hereby authorized and directed to enter into an Agreement on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh with Baldwin Township, said Agreement to be in the following form to-wit:

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT.

Made and entered into this ..... day of ..... 1927 between the City of Pittsburgh and Baldwin Township providing for the construction, maintenance and repairs of a Sewage Treatment Plant and main connecting sewer in the Glass Run Drainage Basin in Baldwin Township.

Therefore, This Agreement Witnesseth, that in consideration of the mutual covenants and Agreements herein contained, it is agreed as follows:

1. That Baldwin Township shall construct, maintain and repair a Sewage Treatment Plant and main connecting sewer in the Glass Run Drainage Basin in Baldwin Township in accordance with Plans approved and a permit granted by the State Department of Health.

2. The site for the construction of said disposal plant shall be procured along Glass Run Road as shown on the plans and paid for by Baldwin Township.

3. The total cost of the construction of the Treatment Plant and the main connecting sewer shall be apportioned between the City of Pittsburgh and Baldwin Township in the following manner—

The City of Pittsburgh shall pay 23.7% of the cost of said work and Baldwin Township shall pay 76.3% of the cost of said work. The said Township shall arrange for the letting of the contract and supervise the construction work. Said contract to be approved by the City.

4. The maintenance and repairs to said plant and trunk sewer shall be made by Baldwin Township and supervised by the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh. The cost of said maintenance and repairs shall be prorated between the said City and Township on the same basis as the apportionment of cost and the construction namely, 23.7% shall be borne by the City and 76.3% by Baldwin Township.

Witness Whereof all parties to this agreement have signed the same the date and year first above written.

HERSHFIELD

BUGS BAER Says

THERE will be no Army-Navy game in 1928. There wasn't much of one in 1927.

Navy objects to the Army's habit of playing retired colonels in the backfield.

This historic contest was pure sport and slugged out for the game's sake. It wasn't exactly football. It was co-operative chiropractics mixed with military reprisals.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

There is no doubt that the West Pointers are too big and tough for Navy. The Middies are all springers, while the Soldiers are experienced and seasoned.

The average age at Annapolis is 18 years. There was a brigadier general on this year's freshman team at West Point.

You can play four years at Dartmouth, four years at Purdue and still play four more campaigns at West Point. The rules are taken from the old Carlisle University, where "Pop" Warner played an Indian 15 years in the backfield and then hid him for another 10 years in the huddle play.

We hate to see this game go. Navy always won the cheering, the marching and the singing, even though Army got the game. The greatest contest of all was the year when Elmer Oliphant ran the kick-off for a score only to be tied by Secretary Josephus Daniels' great run across the field between the halves.

ON "THOUGHTS ON A MAN'S SHOULDER"

What a BEAUTIFUL place a Man's SHOULDER!
For one thing it is always
In the SAME PLACE—
Midway between his HEART and his head, and so
A girl always knows JUST Where to FIND it. And HOW?
It really seems though
It were actually DESIGNED
For a RESTING place for light
Or heavy heads.
Even BONY shoulders are nice—
On the INSIDE—while Those Nature PADDED, naturally,
Are nicer.
But it is not the BREADTH,
Or the depth, or
The FINENESS of a man's Shoulder that makes the GIRL
Comfortable who is resting
There. It's her OWN thoughts.
To lay one's HEAD on a man's Shoulder may mean NECKING,
Or it may mean NOTHING.
When hearts are one, "his"
Shoulder is a HARBOR,
But later, if hearts get
JADED, it may merely be
A port of call.

Real Temperance Class Holds Prohibition a Failure

It is customary to divide the people of the United States on the prohibition issue into WETS and DRYS.

This is not an accurate division.

As a matter of fact, the population is actually divided into three classes—

First, the wets, or the wide-open element,

Second, the bone-drys, or the fanatical prohibition element,

Third, the temperance element.

This third element, embracing the large majority of the people of the country, is composed of people who are temperate or abstemious themselves. They believe in temperance or abstemiousness as a general policy for the benefit of humanity. But they are more concerned in securing results than they are in advancing any pet theory.

These temperate and temperance people have no sympathy with the wide-open wets. They are coming to have no sympathy with the fanatical prohibitionists.

The temperance element has reached the conclusion that prohibition is a costly and complete failure.

It does not accomplish its declared object, and it does corrupt the community and demoralize the machinery of government in mistaken efforts to accomplish these results.

More alcohol and infinitely worse alcohol is being consumed today than was consumed before the prohibition policy went into futile operation.

The moderate, temperate, intelligent element of the community is looking for a plan to ameliorate the situation, not to aggravate it.

It is looking for a plan to secure temperance, to secure consumption of less alcohol and less injurious alcohol.

The only reason this moderate element has not wholly deserted the bone-drys is because they fear that the only alternative is the wide-open wets.

Obviously this is not the case.

If the temperate element is in the majority—and it is—it can control the situation and can secure legislation which does not either turn the country over to the license of the extreme wets or deliver it to the fantastic and ineffective policies of the fanatical drys.

It is time for some sane temperance legislation in the United States: legislation that will limit the supply and character of alcoholic beverages; legislation that will place the distribution of mild and comparatively innocuous beverages in the hands of the Government, as is now done in all countries which have tried prohibition and abandoned it as a failure.

Under a plan which eliminates entirely the manufacture and distribution of violent alcoholic drinks and distributes judiciously under government direction milder and less harmful forms of alcoholic beverages, true temperance can be established, and the general policy of education of the public as to the advantage of temperance or of total abstinence can be resumed.

No beneficial results are to be accomplished either from the policies of the wide-open wets or the fanatical drys.

This country is not a country of extremists, and its sumptuary policy should not be the policy of the extremists of either kind.

She Would Be 'a Great Queen'

If She Had the Right Men Around Her

HER MAJESTY, ZAUDITU OF ABYSSINIA.

This lady, daughter of King Menelik, rules over Abyssinia and dresses, as you will notice, to look like the late Queen Victoria of England, grandmother of King George. Her imperial Abyssian majesty is empress as well as queen in Abyssinia, and had a very great admiration for the English queen who ruled so well for more than fifty years.

Let's hope the Empress Zauditu will do as well as Queen Victoria did, will rule and reign as long, live and die as happily. Victoria also was an empress—of India.

However, it isn't enough to have good intentions and dress like Queen Victoria, TO BE LIKE QUEEN VICTORIA.

For a queen to be safe, as Victoria was, she must have some things that Victoria had and that poor Zauditu hasn't got.

Victoria had Palmerston, Gladstone, Disraeli, Salisbury, able men for Prime Ministers.

She had the greatest fleet in the world, and when her subjects sang "Britannia Rules the Waves" that was, as Will Rogers remarks, "something more than a song." It was also a fact.

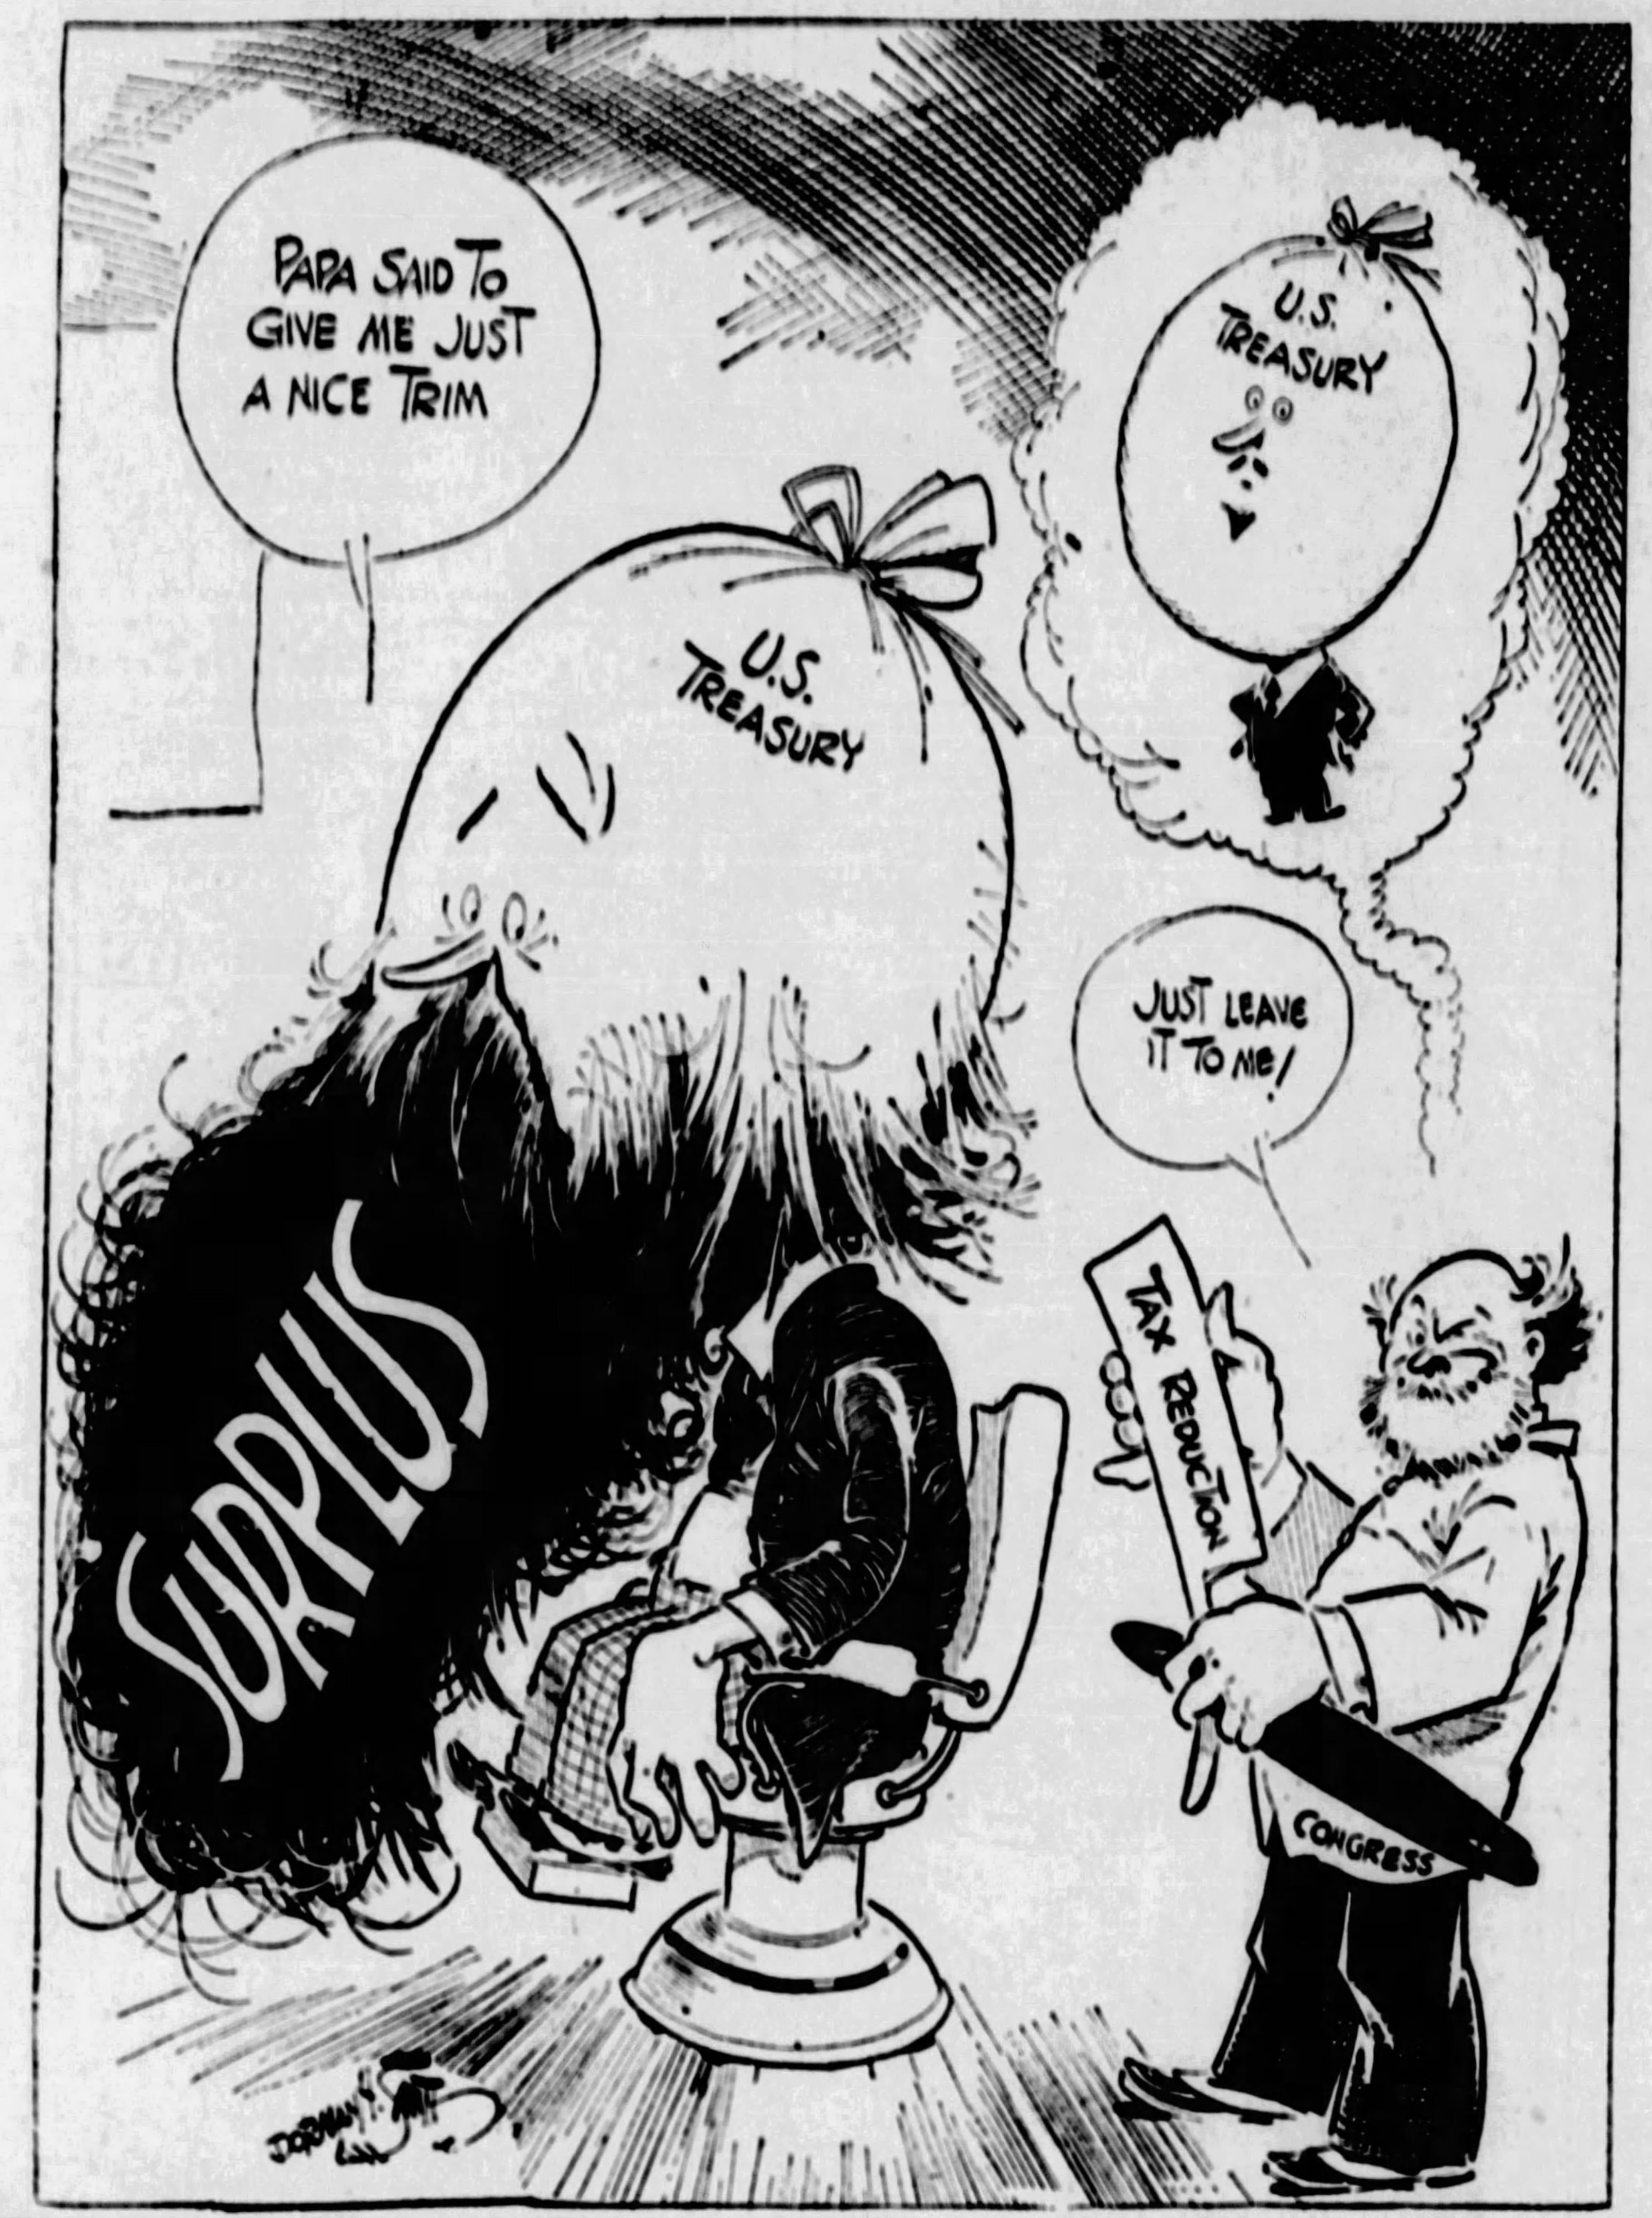
Queen Victoria was a good woman, set a good example, wouldn't have disreputable men around in her government. She proved that in monarchies, where the king is only a figure-head, doing nothing much but set an example, a woman is perhaps better than a king.

Of course, in monarchies where the monarch must lead, fight and conquer, a man may be better.

But in these troublesome days, especially, virtue, goodness and all the other qualities by themselves will not make Empress Zauditu or anyone else safe and permanent on the throne without the right kind of men behind the throne.

And poor Zauditu hasn't got them in big Abyssinia.

HIS OWN IDEAS OF ART



Garrett P Serviss Says:

New God of Storm

ONLY a couple of years ago public attention was called to Greenland as the pole of cold and of storms for the northern hemisphere. Since then, Professor W. H. Hobbs, of Ann Arbor, has established a weather observatory at Mount Evans on the great Greenland ice-cap. This new weather outpost has already effected radio communication with the outer world, and a dispatch to Professor Hobbs at Ann Arbor on December 4 told of a great storm that began to sweep the hissing snow from the hard face of the vast continental glacier on December 2, two days in advance of its appearance on the ship lanes of the Atlantic. This is virtually a repetition of what occurred in July last when the Greenland observatory announced the brewing of a storm over the ice-cap which 48 hours later was raging on the Atlantic.

It may well be that this Greenland observatory with its radio outfit will become the most important center of storm prediction for the North Atlantic Ocean. The theory that has been set forth concerning the influence of Greenland over ocean storms assumes that the cold air currents rushing down the vast ice slopes of that lofty glacial continent revive and intensify cyclonic disturbances crossing the Atlantic, and whip them into destructive tempests.

N. AMERICA
BERING STRAIT ASIA
GREENLAND ICE CAP EUROPE

GREENLAND, POLE OF COLD AND OF STORMS

Just look at a picture of the North Polar Region within 30 degrees of the pole. At one side of the Arctic Ocean Greenland appears as a huge white tongue of ice, 1,500 miles long, from 200 to 300 miles wide, and with a maximum thickness possibly as great as two miles. With the exception of the Antartic continent which surrounds the South Pole, it is by far the greatest accumulation of solid ice on the face of the earth. But while the immense Antarctic mass is isolated far from all lands other than that which it buries, Greenland is thrust down far into the North Atlantic Ocean, quite close to North America, splitting the northern part of that ocean into two parts. From its projecting glaciers on both sides, it launches fleets of icebergs, which carried by southward currents, invade the world's greatest shipping area, where they have deposited a large part of the material that forms the enormous "banks of Newfoundland." Greenland is also the source of the cold Labrador Current, which has so great an effect upon the climate of New England and the other Eastern States.

If Greenland and its qualities had been known to the ancients, they would have invented another god of tempests, a greater Aeolus, and seated him on that stupendous icy throne to dispense the storms. But since this is the age of science instead of mythology, we admit no lawless gods.

Once Overs

Stand by Family

ARE you seeking to break away from family ties because you have happened to gain a higher place than any other member of your family?

Do you admit, even to yourself, that closer association with your family would result unfavorably to the position you have made for yourself?

Isn't this an admission that your own hold in most insecure?

If those with whom you associate would forsake you because of your family's humble origin you have not yet reached a place that is worth anything.

If there are persons of criminal record in your family, you have a right to forsake them.

But if the only reason you can give for not standing by your family, immediate or more distant relatives, is that they are not prominent socially and financially, you show yourself of poor material in deserting them.

Blood ties are thicker than water.

Your family have a greater claim on you than your fair-weather friends.

Your family would do more for you than anyone else in this world.

You are no better than the weakest one of your family, after all.

Stand by and prove that your family are worthwhile or you would not have succeeded as you have.

Stuff of Conquerors

TWO British captains, one in the navy, the other in the army, are in town on their way around the world on motorcycles.

In a year they have crossed 23 countries, motored 22,000 miles and met every imaginable kind of people and weather.

They have been stalled in scorching deserts, shot at by irate nomads, nearly melted beneath India's sun, nearly frozen in mountain snows, and still they smile and press on.

That is how empires are built.

Something to Think About

By BRUNO LESSING

Calamity Howlers

THERE was an "international war dangers" conference in London recently. Noel Buxton, a former British minister, gave a luncheon to some of the delegates, among whom were Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier of Great Britain, and Francisco Nitti, former Premier of Italy. All members of the "Dead Duck Club."

Nitti, who is a back number in Italy, said:

"Europe was never in such a dire condition before as it is now."

The "former" MacDonald expressed sympathy with the "former" Nitti and expressed the hope that before long Signor Nitti would be able to invite those present to meet him in Rome.

It will be a long time before Signor Nitti extends any such invitation. Just now he cannot go back there, himself. He stays in Paris for his health.

From all that an impartial observer can gather, Europe is gradually recovering from the shock of the World War. The various nations are making a heroic effort, each in its own way, to return to the normal. Some are trying high taxes, some are trying dictatorships. But there are no signs of another big war. And you will find that no one keeps harping on the possibilities or the probabilities of another war excepting those who have something to gain by another war.

Signor Nitti's statement that "Europe was never in such a dire condition before as it is now," is entirely wrong. Europe was much worse off during the war. She was much worse off during the years following the eruption of Napoleon. She was infinitely worse off during the Middle Ages.

When an acute attack of typhoid fever has run a favorable course the fever and delirium pass. But the patient is by no means normal. He has many an ache and many a pain and it requires careful nursing to bring him through his convalescence to a normal condition.

It is exactly so with the nations of Europe. The fever and the delirium have disappeared. But the pains and aches remain. Much medicine has still to be taken and all those nations must go to bed early and go light on solid food.

We Americans are willing to take the responsibility for what our officials do. We have no use for the howling of our ex-officials and always resent it when a foreign country becomes excited over the ravings of one of our irresponsible citizens. Lord knows we have enough of them.

It is only fair, however, that we should extend the same consideration to other countries that we demand ourselves.

Anyway, isn't it funny that men who have proven a failure in guiding the affairs of their own country should interest themselves in the affairs of a continent? It's like the window-cleaner who was fired because he did not clean the windows properly and applied to a circus for the job of cleaning elephants.

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says: No Fixed Patterns

DON'T generalize!

Don't try to run people into fixed molds.

Don't say—"Men are like this—" or "Women are like that"—and then judge them according to your rigid theories. There is no definite pattern for a man. Nor for a woman.

Some men are sensitive, sentimental, timid, impractical. They shrink from the ugly, dangerous things of life. They crave peace and beauty and harmony. They have noble dreams but they are often unable to put their own lives in order.

Do not sneer at men like that. Do not brand them as sissies or weaklings. They are what they are and they did not select the plan on which they were fashioned any more than they selected the shape of their noses or the color of their hair. As a matter of fact, their pattern is as masculine as any other. What is the pattern of a masculine soul? There is no such thing! BODIES POSSESS SEX—BUT SOULS ARE "WHAT HAVE YOU?"

You can't generalize about women, either. One woman may have the exterior of a moss rose but and the spiritual innards of a she-buzzard. Another may have the manners of a stevedore boss and a heart as soft as a gelatine pudding. Yet one is as truly "womanly" as the other. There is no formula for womanliness. Even the same spirit may wear pink ruffles one day and currugated iron the next.

The truth is, most of us are spiritual mavericks. Our bodies may belong to some particular herd—we may be corralled, ear slit, branded and registered—but our souls roam strange ranges, lonely and unclassified.

WE'RE QUITE WILLING TO ACKNOWLEDGE THIS FACT WHEN IT APPLIES TO OURSELVES. WE ALL LIKE TO FEEL THAT WE'RE DIFFERENT—THAT WE FUNCTION IN MYSTERIOUS WAYS, UNKNOWN TO THE COMMON TRIBE. AND WE'RE MOST WILLING TO EXCUSE OURSELVES WHEN WE DO STRANGE, UNPRECEDENTED THINGS. BUT JUST LET THE OTHER FELLOW TRY TO DO THEM—AH! THAT'S DIFFERENT!

Life would be infinitely freer, richer, and happier if we would stop trying to measure each other by rule o' thumb. How much more interesting and thrilling human association would be if we would put aside our intolerant notions about what people should be and do, and treat each other with generosity and imagination. If we'd just let people Be Themselves—their illogical, inconsistent unconventional, erratic Selves—what humiliation and resentment would be avoided—how many lives, that are now crippled, would walk straight and beautiful!

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—New York can no longer boast of showy vice dens as those which flourished, some as lately as 25 years ago—such as Billy McGlory's, Paresis Hall, the French Madame's, the Haymarket, The Doctor's and McGurk's Suicide Hall. All have gone before the broom of reform.

Harlem has a few cellar haunts of black-and-tan mixture where gin and "snow" perk up the jaded, but these are known only to the initiated slummers. The lower East Side also maintains a few dingy speakeasies where they "roll a lush"—that is rob a drunken customer.

But the days of hell-roaring wickedness have spent themselves. Scarlet ladies rarely patrol the pavements. What vice is left for public display is gilded. It flourishes in the tapestried elegance of night clubs and grand apartment houses, cheek by jowl with respectability.

Nor has New York any celebrated bad men left, such as those illustrious sluggers—Brian Boru, Skinner Meehan, Hop-Along Peter and John Allen, who was for many years headlined as the wickedest man in the city. The rat-faced little gangsters with pistol silencers supplanted them.

The toughs of other days boasted of their prowess—they chewed off ears and finger-ends and preserved them in alcohol as trophies. The modern type has a patent leather finish. He hides behind a cloak of respectability encompassed in manicured nails and hair slick.

There were many streets in the city, especially along the waterfronts, where the well-dressed stranger was almost certain to be done away with. He was, in the picturesque argot, "ash-panned." A bucket of ashes would descend upon him from an upstairs window.

And before he recovered from his surprise he was pounced upon, robbed and murdered and his body likely deposited in the sewers. Today New York is so efficiently policed there is scarcely a mean-looking street that is not as safe as Times Square at noon-day.

Practical jokes are always dangerous. The latest concerns a victim whose friends arranged a plot with a waiter at the cafe where he dined with his wife. The waiter remarked: "Where is the other lady this evening?" The management was indignantly appealed to and the waiter confessed he had been hired to perpetrate the pleasantry. But the suspicious wife was not appeased. All this happened months ago, and there is still a rift in that household.

Theatrical managers have their little subtleties. A show universally hailed as "a flop" by first night critics carried a flaming banner over its entrance portals the next day, reading: "Positively Limited to One Week's Engagement."

About 10 years ago he was a waiter captain in an uptown hotel where I was living. He had a slight limp, which he explained was the result of a fall on the stage. Then he disappeared. In the last few years I have seen him frequently featured in musical revues and on the screen. I am certain he will not be embarrassed if I reveal he is Renoff, the classical dancer.

And I might add when I heard his story, in typical New York fashion, I doubted him.

It seems almost everybody in New York who has amounted to much has touched bottom at least once before making the grade. We have poets who have cleaned cuspidors, leading ladies who cried "Cash" at basement counters, novelists who trudged in the breadlines, playwrights who slept on park benches, capitalists who swung picks, hotel magnates who were bus boys. And this strikes me as mighty fine, although it would be O. K. if a number of them didn't talk about it so much.

* * *

They have decided now not to build the new Metropolitan Opera on Fifty-seventh street, and one of the Mrs. Vanderbilts has started a ruckus over the plan not to have boxes. It's all such a muddle I have reached the point where I don't even care who goes to the opera any more.

The Community Chest

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is all a question as to using intelligence and common sense in uncommon places.

People have learned to subject their emotions to common sense, system and reason.

Almost everybody gives sometimes, usually when their emotions are touched. The man who is thoroughly honest with himself gives systematically.

Ordinarily when we meet a beggar on the street we are affected by his tale of woe and we give him some money. He may be a professional and the money may be worse that wasted, as it may encourage idleness and mendicancy and not do any good. If the same amount had been given to some organization, that thoroughly investigates the needs of the applicant before applying charity, it would have been much better spent.

Much has been said about the expense of administering charity.

This, however, is outweighed by the fact that organized charity uses intelligent system. We can plan our charities as well as everything else. Instead of taking the time to answer and attend to every beggar that comes to our place of business or our home we may make a substantial contribution to the Community Chest and know it will take care of all such cases.

Too often what we give to charity is merely a sop to our conscience.

We hand out five dollars to a beggar when we ought to contribute one hundred dollars to the Community Chest.

It is pretty difficult to inject common sense into the flow of emotions, but it is wise, just the same.

Every man gives occasionally. None of us are absolutely heartless. Economically we should protect ourselves against this spasmodic giving, its bother and its wastefulness.

The way to do this intelligently is to make a reasonable contribution to the Community Chest. This satisfies our conscience and our feelings and is a sensible thing to do.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Singing Child

ONE day I heard a little singing child
Whose voice was clear and sweet;
The clovers kissed her feet.

She sang because she shared the linnet's bliss,
And knew the sun's delight.
She revelled in the breezes' passing kiss,
Upon the clovers white.

She sang because her playmates gathered there
To hear her lilting notes,
She sang because she knew the lovely air,
That soars from skylarks' throats.

She carolled gaily, one with song and sun
And every joy around,
As from her little happy throat she spun
A web of merry sound.

Tales That Are Told

Silenced

"PEOPLE turn pale when they faint, don't they?" asked a lawyer who was cross-examining and badgering a witness.

"No, not always."

"Did you ever hear of a case of fainting where the party did not turn pale?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever see such a case?"

"Yes."

"When?"

"About a year ago."

"Who was it?"

"A Negro."

Wireless Worries

THERE was something wrong with the wireless receiver, and Tomkins, who knew little beyond the manipulation of his set, called in his neighbor, who was an enthusiastic experimenter.

It did not take the latter long to discover what was causing the trouble.

"Quite an ordinary fault," he said. "I'm afraid your aerial is leaking."

"Leaking?" echoed Mrs. Tomkins, who was taking an intelligent interest in the proceedings. "What a pity we didn't know yesterday, when we had the plumber in!"

In Top Gear

A MAN employed to wash the windows in a garage was working so modestly that his actions might well be termed "slow motion."

Eventually the mechanic in charge noticed him.

"Look here," he observed. "Why don't you put a little more vim into it? You'll be there all day at this rate!"

The man looked down at the speaker.

"P'raps so," he agreed. "But I've only got two speeds, mister, and the other is slower than this."

Near Enough

THE mayor and corporation were attending the church parade of the local troop of Boy Scouts. After the service the troop lined up outside the church to speed their honored guests upon their way. The mayor came out, preceded by his mace-bearer, who, as he drew level with the first scout, whispered to him:—

"Just run and see if the mayor's carriage is ready for him."

The scout dashed off, looked both ways, and rushed back to the mace-bearer. Saluting smartly, he announced: "No, sir, I can't see the mayor's carriage, but if he's quick there's a bus just coming."—London Tit Bits.
